

The Rockcastle County salt allotment began to get low following several days of snow accompanied by slick roads. Salt trucks, equipped with snow plows like the one above, cleared the main roadways first because they didn't know how long the salt supply would hold out. Above, a crew was clearing US 25 in the Renfro Valley area.

KU Served With Discrimination Complaint

Kentucky Utilities was today served with a copy of a Complaint filed by the United States against it alleging discriminatory practices by the Company, and has the following comments.

The entire basis for the Complaint as stated therein is the allegation that KU has failed or refused to adopt and implement an Affirmative Action Program of the kind contemplated by regulations applying to Government Contractors. Kentucky Utilities takes the position that it is not a Government Contractor under the Executive Order issued by the United States in the Complaint, and this issue is in litigation and will be decided by an appellate court for the first time sometime in the future in cases involving Mississippi Power & Light Company and New Orleans Public Service, Inc., now pending in the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit in New Orleans.

More importantly, the allegation that KU has refused to adopt and implement an Affirmative Action

Program is completely false. Representatives of the Company met with lawyers for the United States Justice Department in November and agreed to adopt an Affirmative Action Program, agreed to voluntarily submit to whatever inspection the Government desired, and agreed to file whatever inspection the Government desired, and agreed to file whatever forms would be required under the Executive Order. In other words, the Company, while not accepting the technical definition of Government Contractor, has voluntarily agreed to comply in all respects with the provisions of the Executive Order.

At the meeting with the Justice Department representatives in November, the Company asked the Justice Department what, if anything, it was required to do beyond what it agreed to voluntarily accomplish. It was told that nothing further was required. In view of this accord, it is difficult for us to understand the reason why the Government filed the law suit. The Company emphatically denies that it has or does not discriminate against blacks or women, and it is the opinion of the Company that the issues raised in the law suit are most in view of KU's voluntary compliance.

"LICENSE PLATES"

I'm already working on what my license plate for next year is going to say. Since you are limited to six letters or numbers it tends to do away with all kinds of possibilities. How does SIGNAL grab you (original, right?)

ramblings

by: perlina m. anderkin

With this week's issue, the price per single copy of the Signal is being raised to 15c. This was necessitated after Jim and I sat down one day and did a little simple Arithmetic and found that we were paying 7c per copy (not counting mailing it out) to have the paper printed and getting 5c each back from our sales through restaurants, groceries, drug stores, etc. One wag suggested that maybe what we needed to do was print more papers but this didn't seem too good an idea so we opted for what 95% of the other weeklies in the state did some time ago - raised the price to 15c along with a minimum raise of our subscription rates. It's too bad that it happened to coincide with the time of year when our paper is smaller than at any other time and with the weather we are experiencing right now, it is even smaller than usual. Merchants have this thing about not advertising when they don't feel customers will venture out in the snow and muck to buy (peculiar aren't they?).

Have you made your New Year's Resolutions yet? I made a couple but have kept mum as to what they were so that if I should break them no one will know what a weak character I have but me. I have learned over the years not to expect too much of myself thereby lessening the disappointment when I can't follow through. So, instead of resolving any more to achieve things like being a better person all-around, I stick with minor things like "trying" to quit biting my nails (not one of this year's) or to "try" to smoke less (also not one of this year's) - the qualifying word there is "try" which helps me to not feel too badly when I break over. I am just about to the point that one of my resolutions is to "try" to have to be to eat only three meals a day. That roll around my waist, which appeared by magic from one day to the next, is beginning to aggravate me, especially when coupled with a tendency for clothes to be suddenly smaller than usual and weight scales to go out of whack when I step on them. My husband informed me recently that I was just now hitting the age where you normally pick up weight and no doubt I would pick up even more - I won't go into detail about how I answered the 200 pound plus darling but I did answer, believe me...

WATCH FOR SPECIAL SPORTS SECTION IN NEXT WEEK'S PAPER

We have been promising for some time and are finally going to deliver with next week's issue when we will print a two page feature of all the grade school ball teams and cheerleaders in the county.

I suppose I ought to qualify this with the phrase "weather permitting" since I don't quite have all the pictures and school will have to be in session for me to get them - but surely there will be school again some day.

"BANKING AND BONDS"

Even government, banking, and the citizens of our country. It is a partnership that has been good for all three. The government gets money it needs to finance the debt; banks get new savers and better economic conditions.

Watch next week's Signal for details of
