focusing their attention on two new and unusual "experimental" ryegrass tall fescue hybrids. One is high in peroline, the other low in peroline. The research includes feeding studies by UK scientists L.S. Bull and R.W. Hemken.

The researchers got a drastic and sustained response to ryegrass and dairy cows fed the low peroline variety. Results, however, were just the opposite of what were indicated by earlier experiments with rumen bacteria and lambs fed chemical peroline.

Animals ate less of the low-peroline fescue than the high-peroline variety or Kentucky 31. Dairy cows produced less milk and gained less weight on the low-peroline forage.

Although the pasture mystery remains, the researchers say they are a step closer to a solution. "The clear-cut animal response to a variety developed by deliberate selection for chemical constituents should encourage efforts to isolate and identify anti-quality factors that reduce tall fescue intake during summer and early fall," said Buckner.

"Once this is accomplished, we can develop a variety that will sustain high cattle gains and milk production throughout the grazing season. Research that pays big dividends usually involves a long term investment of scientist manpower and funds. The grass-breeding program of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station is no exception. The improved tall fescue variety, Kenhy, for example, is one of the pay-offs from 25 years of research and development."

The Mt. Vernon Signal Thursday, July 28, 1977 P-11

Junior week was the week of the 10th. The Junior campers honored from Mt. Vernon Christian Church were Jennifer Cox, Carolyn Browning, Scott Henderson and Wade Johnson. The week of the 17th was Senior week and the Senior camper honored from the First Christian Church, Mt. Vernon was Mark Hopkins. Eddie Hammond received the Christian Athlete Award. As Kenton Parker stated in the Wildie Messenger: "The best weeks of the year are spent in Christian Church camps. It's the best evangelistic outreach that we have for our young people."

Mrs. Minnie Anderkin returned to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Laura Haskins, Wednesday from a visit to her sons and their families in Ohio. Among her many friends who came to see her while there was her nurse, Mrs. Evelyn Corners, during Mrs. Anderkin's long stay in the People's Hospital in Mackey, Ohio about 20 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bowman of Dayton, Ohio stopped to see her grandfather, Mr. W.C. Johnson enroute to Charlotte, N.C., Sunday to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Walter Pennington. The Penningtons are on a visit to his mother and sister's who reside there. Mr. and Mrs. Pennington have purchased property in Charlott and plan to move there in the near future.

Mr. W.C. Johnson received a letter this week from his great granddaughter, Jill Pennington in Garden Grove, Calif. that she is eleven years old and passed this Spring from the 8th grade to first year high school. His answer: "Dear Jill, This is quite an accomplishment for an 11-year-old and is very consooling to your 101st year old great grandfather, that you will enter first year high school when school opens in the fall. May God bless you, Jill." The Pennington's get the Signal and this is my best way communicate with all them," says Mr. Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Turner of Pittsfield, Ill., visited relatives and friends in Mt. Vernon recently. They also spent some time with Mrs. Amy Cox at the Sowder Nursing Home in Brookhead.

Mrs. Jewell Brown, Mrs. Emma Thompson and Mrs. Lella Stokes visited Mrs. Amy Cox, Mrs. Fannie Price, Mrs. Kate Stokes, Mrs. Ora Langford, Mrs. Maude in Mt. Vernon recently. They also spent some time with Mrs. Amy Cox at the Sowder Nursing Home in Brookhead.

Friday, July 22nd was the closing of the Summer Camp weeks at the Kentucky Christian Assembly, Brookhead. Camp manager was the minister of the Wildie Christian Church, Kenton

Among the many more who write that they enjoy the Signal are Mr. and Mrs. Cona Murphy of Amelia, Ohio. Mrs. Emma Thompson returned Saturday from a two week visit with her daughter, Mrs. W.E. Davis, Mr. Davis, and Bill, in Nashville, Tennessee. While she was there, the Wyatt's from Ashland, Ky. came with their little son, Josh to see his great grandmother.

We regret the error in last week's Signal in omitting the names of Mrs. Fannie Thomson and Mrs. Mary Anne Ponder, who were among the invited guests at the birthday of Mr. W.C. Johnson. They joined the others present in singing "Amazing Grace" and other gospel hymns requested by Mr. Johnson and led by Mr. Jones B. Proctor. This celebration took place under the shade trees in the back yard of Mr. Johnson's and his daughter's, Mrs. Dorothy French, home, as Mr. Johnson sat in his wheel chair surrounded by his many friends and relatives. Mrs. French had everyone to register. Then Bro. Homer McNew, guest speaker told of his first acquaintance with Mr. Johnson, which developed into real close friendship these many years. Another daughter, Mrs. Coy Jordan had her tape recorder on hand and taped the entire program which consisted of solo's and talk by Mr. Johnson, talk by Bro. McNew, Mr. Johnson asked for the closing hymn to be "God Be With You Till We Meet Again". Delicious birthday cake and lemonade were served. This memorial event will long be remembered.

In the picture of Mr. Johnson in last week's Signal you may have noticed the Masonic emblem on a shoe string necktie. It was a gift from the late Dave Sharp. Mr. Johnson is the oldest mason in Rockcastle County and lemonade were served. This memorial event will long be remembered.

Another correction is the name of Mrs. Minnie Anderkin's daughter, Mrs. Hubert Haskins, not Hoskins.
