Chaplain Helton Promoted

Chaplain Clinton Helton was recently promoted to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel, in the presence of his wife and children, by Colonel Paul R. Jeffrey, CO, 22D Field Army Support Command.

Chaplain Helton first entered the military in 1948 as an enlisted man in the Marine Corps. Shortly thereafter, he left the service to attend Eastern Kentucky State University where he was graduated and commissioned as a Regular Army Second Lieutenant in 1951. Three years later, he resigned to enter the ministry.

For five years, Chaplain Helton remained in civilian life securing, first, the Theological education and, then, the pastoral experience necessary to enter the Chaplaincy. Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky, and a Baptist Church in Northern Virginia afforded him these opportunities.

Upon returning to the service, he was reintegrated into the Regular Army and plans to stay with it until retirement.

Chaplain Helton has been assigned to numerous stateside posts and has had two tours in the Orient. In Korea, he was Protestant Chaplain for I Corps Artillery, in Vietnam, he was assigned to the IV Corps Advisory Team in the Mekong Delta.

The Chaplain's decorations include: the Bronze Star Medal, the Air Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster, and various service ribbons.

His military schooling includes both the basic and advanced courses at the Chaplain School and a year of graduate study at American University.

Chaplain Helton is a native of Mt. Vernon, Kentucky. He is married to the former Loretta Ashley of Sweden, Kentucky. They have three children: 10 year old Jana, who is in 5th grade; 8 year old Jonathan, who is in 3rd grade, and 6 year old Lori, who is in 1st grade.

PERSONALS

Faced with the age old question of "what to serve for dinner?"

End your what-to-serve quandaries with this unusual warmer-upper... Honey Glazed Ribs 'n' Applesauce Beans. It's a hearty combination of flavorful spareribs and always popular pork & beans.

For a new twist blend applesauce into the usual seasoned canned pork & beans in tomato sauce. Then top this tempting meal with parboiled spareribs cut into serving size pieces and glazed with cinnamon-flavored honey. Slip the mixture into the oven for about half an hour. Presto!... a tasty, satisfying treat to warm the family through and through.

For dessert, serve a ring of spice cake doated with lemon pudding sauce (made from canned ready-to-serve lemon pudding). Coffee for you and Dad, and milk for the kids completes the meal.

HONEY GLAZED RIBS 'N' APPLESAUCE BEANS

3 pounds spareribs, trimmed
2 cans (1 pound each) pork & beans with tomato sauce
1 cup applesauce
1/2 teaspoon lemon juice
1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 cup honey

Cut ribs into serving size pieces. In large pan, simmer ribs in boiling water for 1 hour; drain. In shallow baking dish (15 x 9 x 2"), combine beans, applesauce, lemon juice, and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. Arrange ribs on top of bean mixture. Combine 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon with honey. Spread over ribs. Bake at 350° F. for 30 minutes or until ribs are tender. Makes 4 servings.

INDOOR FORCING OF TULIPS

Many varieties of bulbs can be forced into bloom during the long winter months from November to April. The method for forcing is relatively easy and can be followed by the amateur gardener. The bulb should be planted as soon as possible in the fall -- October 31 to November 31. Several different types of media can be used to grow the bulbs. Ordinary garden soil mixed with one-half peat moss is satisfactory. Fill clay pots with the soil, sterilize the pot and soil in the oven until it reaches 180 F for 1/2 hour to kill weed seeds and disease organisms.

Next, place the bulbs in the pot so that just the tip of the bulb is showing above the soil. Water the pot until water is dripping from the hole in the bottom. In order for the bulb to bloom, it must remain a certain amount of time in a temperature as near to 40 degrees F as possible. This may be done in several ways. One method is to dig a trench in the ground (outside) about 12 inches deep. Place the pots in the trench. Cover the pots with 6 to 8 inches of sand.

Another method is to use a cool basement or cellar where there is no light and where the temperature is 40-45 degrees F.

After 6 to 8 weeks in cool storage, the plants may be moved into a warmer area. The time will depend on the variety used and also on the type of weather to which the plants have been exposed. Tulips at this time should show about 2 inches of yellowish leaves, and the roots should be well distributed in the pot. The warmer area should be held at 50-60 degrees F. It is best to shade the plants with paper the first few days after being moved in from the cool storage. The plants should then have as much light as possible, but not direct sunlight. A window sill should provide sufficient light.

When tulips have about 4 inches of leaves, and a well developed bud can be felt among the leaves, the plants may be moved to the final forcing temperature. The day temperature should be maintained at 70 degrees F and night temperature about 60 degrees F. Again, place the plants in a window where they will not receive direct sunlight.

FOSTER-GRANDPARENT PROGRAM—Companionship is given these mentally retarded boys at Frankfort State Hospital and School by E. S. Cheatnam, Frankfort. He is one of the first participants in the institution's "Foster Grandparent Project," initiated by the Department of Mental Health. Charles Kimber, director of the program, says, "The purpose is to recruit, train and employ persons over 60 years of age. They can bolster their incomes while engaging in warm, wholesome relationships with retarded children."

tribution let us estimate the rate at which it is spreading. It seems now to be about 10 to 15 miles a year by natural means. However, there is always the possibility it can be carried long distances by human in laundry, clothing, bedding rolls, or the like. If we have identified it positively in 21 counties we feel it is probably in many more counties but perhaps not recognized as the brown recluse. The spider looks a good deal like some common house or barn spiders. Information leaflets have been sent to area extension offices in the counties on the brown recluse. Dr. Scheibner urges persons to take specimen to the area extension offices in the counties. "If bitten by a spider, try to capture it without endangering yourself further. Put it in a glass or plastic container that can be tightly capped, and take it to the area extension office in your county. They can send it along to us for positive identification."

Scheibner noted that though the brown recluse is a "shy" spider, avoiding light, it will bite when disturbed in its habitat or in an attic or closets, rafters or sill areas in basements and barns and similar dark spots.

CLUSTER FLIES TROUBLE THIS TIME OF YEAR
Cluster flies are a household pest for home owners now-but there are several ways to get rid of them. Dr. Rudy Scheibner, U.K. Cooperative Extension Service entomologist, says cluster flies are called that because they do just that--cluster in groups. Usually they are in attics around windows or other openings. They do not bite, nor will they gather around humans or pets. But they make a lot of noise in their "buzz" groups and are annoying to see. Control measures: Vacuum Cleaners: You can use a tank-type vacuum cleaner (with the small, furniture-dusting attachment) to remove flies from windows. Do a good job of it, and burn or carefully dispose of the vacuumed debris so the flies won't come back. Resin Strips: These impregnated strips can be hung in attic spaces. When temperatures go up, the strips emit vapors that kill the flies. The strips are not as active in cool weather as warm but neither are the (Cont. To Page 3) find the venomous brown recluse spider in "new" counties and authentic cases of bites also have been reported. That's the report this week from Dr. Rudy Scheibner, U.K. Cooperative Extension Service entomologist, and Dr. Lee Townsend, U.K. and state entomologist. The brown recluse is considered perhaps more dangerous than the famous black widow because of the wound it leaves. A month ago, the entomologist here, with work done by Dr. Morgan Sisk of Murray State University, Murray, identified the spider in 12 Kentucky counties. It was then considered a pest new in Kentucky. In the intervening month, nine new counties have reported the "fiddler," as the spider sometimes is called. The "new" counties are Christian, Muhlenberg, Butler, Logan, Edmonson, Barren, McAdair, Adair, Russell, Jefferson and Clinton, says Dr. Scheibner. Dr. Scheibner said the identifications are positive. "We do not record the presence of the spider in a county unless a specimen from that county has been sent in and examined by us." The brown recluse, long known in the middle west and south, apparently was not in Kentucky until a few years ago. Its bite in the first few hours may be considered inconsequential, but later the victim frequently suffers extreme nausea, cramps, and high fever. Surgery sometimes may be needed for the gangrenous area that developed around the bite. The spider ranges from light tan to brown color. On the back is a black or brown violin-shaped mark that gives it its name of "fiddler" spider. It is small, about a half-inch leg and body spread at its largest. The counties in which the spider first was reported in early October were Ballard, Carlisle, Fulton, McCracken, Graves, Marshall, Calloway, Butler, Logan, Warren, Simpson and Allen. These are southern and western counties. Since the first story was released by the UK Cooperative Extension Service public information department in early October, reports have come steadily. Several of these record bites from the spider, and most correspondents wrote of the agonizing illness which they, the bite victims, underwent. "We now have authentic reports of human bite victims of this spider long before we knew the spider occurred in this state," Dr. Scheibner said this week. "The earliest such report was in 1958 by a man of the F-Judach area. Thus, the early occurrence of the spider in Kentucky and its present known dis-

If you think that Kentucky mental hospitals are adequate, you should be in one.

Then you'd see how really inadequate, how badly overcrowded, how understaffed most of them are.

Don't think it's not your problem. Mental illness could affect you or your family at any time.

University surveys indicate that one out of every ten persons is presently suffering from some form of mental illness. They need help now.

Kentucky mental hospitals just can't take care of all their patients. Nor should they try.

What's needed isn't large new state hospitals, but a new plan for providing treatment. Mentally ill patients should be treated in their own communities. Not in mental hospitals, but in local "community or general hospitals and clinics. Or in doctors' offices.

The state must give leadership now in helping to provide these facilities.

You can help. Write or call your state representative or state senator. Tell them if they want your support in the future, you want them to support mental health legislation in the 1968 Kentucky General Assembly.

Psychiatry --- Behavior May Signal Need For Consultation

How does one know when he should consult a psychiatrist? Today's Health, the magazine of the American Medical Association, reports that most people who should consult a psychiatrist are likely to consider themselves as someone not needing his services. Many shun the psychiatrist, the AMA says, because they have the distorted concept that people who are under psychiatric care are "crazy."

Psychiatrists are physicians with a special training through which they are able to help people with mental illness or emotional problems, even as other physicians are qualified to assist in physical illness. Often physical and mental ills are closely related.

Depression, or what we could call the blues, is frequently an early sign of what can become a disabling mental illness. Likewise, excitement and overactivity—although often completely normal—form an abnormal sign when they occur in the wrong place or for the wrong reason.

Other suggestive symptoms include tantrums and exaggerated expressions of anger, hysterical attacks, ungrounded fear, and guilt feelings which exist without an acceptable reason.

Any of these would justify discussing the need for psychiatric consultation with your physician.

CARD OF THANKS
We would like to express our sincere gratitude to all our friends and neighbors for their kindness and to those who sent food and flowers during the death of our loved one.

We would like especially to thank Rev. Ralph Sears for his inspiring words and the Central Baptist Church Choir for the beautiful songs and music, also the pallbearers and Cox Funeral Home for their nice arrangement.

USE IVY IN YOUR WEDDING
Have you ever wondered why ivy is used at so many weddings? Many people will be because it is such a lasting plant and it contributes to the lasting moment of the wedding.

Actually the ivy leaf indicates trustfulness. And there is no more trustful moment in the lives of two people than when they say "I do."

We love to decorate for weddings. Whether yours is to be an elaborate one or a simple gathering—we will be happy to handle the floral arrangements.

It has been said that success obligates, and this is a very true statement. Every body connects with the standards of quality in his products. Today, success is worthless, unless it opens up greater possibilities of better service to the public, tomorrow.

the Blue Devils again tested defeat at the hands of Oneida by a score of 69 to 53.

Coach Parrett commented "We played very poorly in the first half, our defense was very poor, our rebounding was poor, and our feet seemed to be nailed to the floor. Our second half effort was, as usual, a much better one."

Individual scoring for LHS was as follows: Mink 18, Reynolds 18, Owens 10, Tye 12, Jackson 2, Hurley 1, Mink 1, and Lewis 1.

The Brodhead Tigers split their last two games losing to tough Clay County by a score of 91 to 82 and winning from Anneville by a score of 78 to 58.

In last Friday night's game, the closest the Tigers could manage was in the fourth quarter when they were down by only four points after having been down 14 points at the end of their third quarter. But "it was not to be."

Larry Bullock was injured early in the fourth and was unable to play the remainder of the game. He received a fractured left arm and according to Coach Billy Riddle will not see any action for at least three weeks and possibly longer.

Also two more of our starting five were out of commission by foul trouble in the fourth quarter.

Individual scoring for the Tigers in the Clay County game is as follows: Bussell 26, Brown 25, Moley 6, Stevens 9, Bullock 15, and Sargent 1.

In the Anneville game played Tuesday night, the outcome was never in doubt, although Brodhead managed to score only 9 points in the third quarter while Anneville poured through 17. Brown was held to only 4 points through foul trouble.

Scoring for the Anneville game were: Bussell 22, Brown 4, Moley 10, Stevens 29, Daugherty 9, and Sargent 4.

The Tigers will meet Eubank Friday night in an away game and will finally open their home season meeting Memorial Tuesday night at Brodhead.

The Mt. Vernon Red Devils couldn't keep up with a much taller Barbourville team in their opening game of the season Tuesday night at home.

The Red Devils were down by 1 during the first quarter and managed to pull within 6 points later in the game but couldn't overcome the height deficit as the Barbourville team ended by winning the game by a score of 70 to 50.

Individual scoring was not available at press time of the Signal.

TOURNAMENT
The first round of the Brodhead Thanksgiving Tournament will get underway Friday night, November 24 at 6:30 when the Mt. Vernon Red Devils will take on the Livingston Blue Devils.

In the second game of the evening, about 8 p.m., Brodhead will meet the Clay County Protraction game will be played at 6:30 p.m. Saturday night and the championship game at 8 p.m. The Brodhead Lions Club sponsors the Tournament.

Ivy Reece Marshall started things off by leading a group sing. 21 Graves then introduced John Lutz of Renfro Valley who gave the welcoming address. The rest of the morning was filled with demonstrations.

At 12 o'clock a lunch break was called. After lunch, Richard Bellando of the Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen entertained us with a few songs, and then gave an informal talk on marketing techniques. Again demonstrations were held. The day was ended with a group discussion of co-ops with the Grass Roots Group from Breathitt and Wolfe Counties.

"We want to thank each person who gave a demonstration, special thank-you to John Lutz, who donated the Renfro Valley Barn, Ivy Reece Marshall, who has a knack for getting people to take part, Richard Bellando, who has a beautiful voice and a nice smile, the Grass Roots Group who have a co-op, and the Appalachian Volunteers, who got the people there." Mrs. Zl Graves, co-ordinator said.

NEWS OF SELECTIVE SERVICE

Q-1 will be 24 years of age during the last semester of the school year before I am scheduled to receive my bachelor's degree. Will I be permitted to graduate?

A-Under these circumstances and other factors being equal, your local board may postpone your induction to the end of the term.

Q-My local board has informed me in writing that this will be my last year of deferment to teach school. Will I be able to join the Reserves or National Guard after I am ordered for induction?

A-The law does not permit a registrant to enlist in the Reserve forces after he is ordered for induction. You may enlist as a member of the active forces after being ordered for induction provided the effective date of entry is on or before the induction date.

Q-I have been ordered to report for a preinduction examination by my local board. What is the very minimum time I have before being inducted?

A-The minimum time is 21 days after your local board mailed to you a Statement of Acceptability (SD Form 62), which results from your preinduction examination.

rates and a downturn in the fertility rate (births per 1,000 women of reproductive age, 15-44), we have chalked up a population gain of almost 50 million — or 25% of the present total — since 1950. "I have been able to achieve this because — even though birth and fertility rates declined during the latter half of this 17-year period — the number of women of reproductive age has increased rapidly as rising numbers of our large post-war baby crop have reached maturity. The important point is not that we are now 200 million strong, but that our population has gained by one-third in the past 17 years, thus providing a most significant boost to total markets.

AGE COMPOSITION
With this sharp upturn in population came large increases in the number of people over 65 and under 25. To this challenge, the housing industry responded with unprecedented gains in the number of single family units erected plus a broad upswing in multi-family and apartment units. Markets for infants' and children's clothing, toys, and furniture expanded rapidly, and state and local governments were forced to borrow heavily to try to keep up with soaring demand for educational and recreational facilities and programs. Age composition of the population will plan at least an equally important part in determining which markets will thrive and flourish during the next decade or so. Look for growth in the over-65 and under-18 age brackets to slow, and for the next big population bulge to occur in the 25-35 group, as the post-war babies move on toward middle life.

ECONOMIC CONSEQUENCES

As this 25-35 group becomes better established economically, wider markets for single-family homes will open up, but the bulk of this new stimulus will come in the 1970's rather than in the remaining years of this decade. Meanwhile, despite the scarcity of mortgage money and its continued high cost, demand for apartments should be active and on a scale up from present levels. Apartment demand will be heightened by the still strong tendency of people to marry young, compared with 20 or 30 years ago. Hence, in the decade ahead more and more parents still in their 40's will be faced with "empty nests" and perhaps a resultant economic need to exchange their now too large single-family homes for apartments. An other economic consequence of our expanding population will be a further escalation in government costs, especially at state and local levels. Spending by these latter units will top that by the federal government on an annual basis within the next few years.

POTENTIALS AND PROBLEMS

Any way you look at it, we are a nation with potentials of extraordinary dimensions. Reaching the 200 million mark is merely another milestone in a success story that has no equal in world history. The future beckons, and it can be a very bright future indeed for the nation and for us individually. But there are problems, too. One of them is Vietnam and the whole tangled skein of our foreign relations and the challenges they present. Another is productivity — one of the secrets of our success to date. In order to provide for our expanding population and further increase our standard of living, we must have growth of total output in terms of constant dollars. Reasonable cost and price stability is a must that can be assured only through efficiency and discipline.

Library Notes

CHANCEY AND THE GRAND RASCAL, by Sid Fleischman. Chancey was growing up among strangers, he longed to find his own kin. He set out to trace the brothers and sisters he had not seen for years. He met up with Grand Rascal, who could out-talk, out-laugh, any man on the river. Together, they use their wits and tall-talk themselves from one rollicking adventure to another.

ROOM 10, by Agnes McCarthy. This is a humorous novel about the classroom adventures of a group of third graders, starting with the first day of school and ending with the day they are promoted to fourth grade.

SEW-IT AND WEAR IT, by Duane Bradley. Here is a book that describes how to make attractive, garments which can be cut without a pattern and completed in a short time.

SO TALENTED MY CHILDREN, by Edna Skolow. This is the unforgettable story of a Jewish immigrant mother. It is filled with humor, wisdom and heart-warming charm.

TORCHBEARER OF FREEDOM, by Carl Coats. The life of Richard Price, a little dissenting minister, is an example of the power of the human spirit to shape the course of history.

THE FIRESIDE BOOK OF CHILDREN'S SONGS, by Marie Winn. Over 100 songs for pre-school and elementary age children are contained in this most attractive volume.

POINT OF VIEW

200 MILLION STRONG
Next Monday the U.S. population — as measured by the Census Bureau's electronic computers — will reach the 200 million mark, — a goal attained by the Chinese some 13 years before the start of the American Revolution. But truly we have come along way from the 3,929,214 heads counted in our first census back in 1790.

STIMULUS OF GROWTH
It took our nation until 1915 to grow to 100 million, but only 52 years to reach from there to 200 million. Despite a fall-off in birth the 'Good Neighbor' railroad.

GOSH, MY DAD'S BEEN USING LOT'S OF NEW WORDS LATELY.

WONDER WHY?

HE SAYS IT'S BECAUSE THE L&N HAS BEEN DOING A LOT OF NEW THINGS TO MAKE THE RAILROAD BETTER!

WORDS LIKE WHAT?

HE TELLS MOM AND ME ABOUT PIGGYBACK AND MICROWAVE, REAL-TIME, MOTIVE POWER, BIG OPEN-TOP HOPPERS, WELDED RAILS.

...UNIT TRAINS, TRI-LEVEL CARRIERS AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS THAT HAVE MADE THE L&N MORE IMPORTANT TO OUR TOWN THAN EVER!

DADDY SAYS BECAUSE OF THE NEW WORDS... MORE PEOPLE ARE WORKING IN MORE INDUSTRIES ALONG THE L&N.

NOW I KNOW...

...WHAT THE L&N MEANS — LEADERSHIP & NEW IDEAS. LET'S ASK THE L&N HOW TO SHIP OUR LEMONADE AROUND THE WORLD!

helps build community growth and security

Good neighbors are members of a community who understand one another's problems. They work together, grow together! That's the way it is with the L&N. We're part of your community and proud of it! □ L&N taxes help pay for schools, hospitals, police protection for your homes and families. □ L&N invites industry to locate along its lines bringing new job opportunities wherever it goes. □ L&N carries the goods of your productivity to the markets of the world. It's fun to be a good neighbor. Sure, it takes extra effort, but L&N knows it's worth it to achieve . . . togetherness!

"The cost of heating our new, all-electric home is less than we ever expected."

say Mr. and Mrs. James M. Cox of Richmond, Ky.

"Anyway," adds Mr. Cox, "electric heating would be more than worth even a higher cost. We never realized you could live in such quiet, draft-free comfort — and without worrying about maintenance, storing fuel and problems like that."

Mrs. Cox is especially pleased with the cleanliness of electric heat. "Electricity simply can't make dirt, and of course there aren't any dusty ducts. No redecorating here for a long time!"

Ask your local KU office all about modern electric heating for your home, old or new. It's the way of today!

Mr. Jim Anglin spent last week in Covington working and visited his sons. Bro. James Watts, pastor of New Testament Baptist Church and Carl Durham, visited Mr. and Mrs. Henry Huff Sunday night. Mrs. Huff had surgery at U.K. Medical Center Lexington last week. A speedy recovery is wished for her.

Our deepest heartfelt sympathy is extended to the Reppert Family in the loss of Marcus Reppert.

Bro. James Watts wishes to invite everyone to the services at the New Testament Baptist Church every Sunday at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m.

These young ladies at their kitchen tea party make sure the insecticide says "Non-Toxic to Humans and Pets" right on the aerosol. Even in the indoor season, insects can be a problem. It is especially important at this time to select an insecticide that is not harmful around children, food and pets. Sprays that say "Non-Toxic to Humans and Pets" boldly on the label contain pyrethrins, nature's own insecticide. Only insects are affected—and quickly. There is no need to worry about harm to children at play around the house, no matter where they choose to hold their next tea party.

Why do our servicemen buy U.S. Savings Bonds? Their reasons are the same as yours and mine: saving for the future, supporting freedom. And because they're fighting for freedom, too, maybe servicemen see the need more clearly than many of us. Buy Bonds. In more than one way, it makes you feel good.

New Freedom Shares

Now, when you join the Payroll Saving Plan or the Bond-a-Month Plan, you are eligible to purchase the new type U.S. Savings Note—Freedom Shares—as a bonus opportunity. Freedom Shares pay 4.74% when held to maturity of just four-and-a-half years (redeemable after one year), are available on a one-for-one basis with Savings Bonds. Get the facts where you work or bank. Join up. America needs your help.

of an innocent mistake you made in keeping your checkbook. Then, with no intent to defraud, you would not have committed a criminal offense.

Likewise, in most cases, it is not a crime to give a post-dated check that eventually turns out to be bad.

UNDER CONSTRUCTION NOW—Work is already underway at Ashland on the State-owned vocational-technical school which will serve that area. This architect's drawing shows the shop building at rear; classroom buildings, left and right, and administration building, center. The school will have accommodations for some 1,500 students. Completion is expected in July, 1958. Construction cost is $1,498,983.

At the time you gave the check, you may well have had an honest expectation that it would be good when the due date arrived.

What if your check bounces not because of insufficient funds but because of a clerical error by the bank? Assuming this casts a reflection on your honesty, would you have a right to collect damages from the bank?

Ordinarily, yes. A check is your instruction to the bank to pay a certain sum out of your account. If the bank negligently fails to follow your instructions, it may be held liable for the consequences.

However, it may be difficult for you—as a private individual—to prove that you suffered any measurable harm. Bouncing a business check may really hurt the company's credit rating, but bouncing a personal check usually causes nothing worse than a few moments of embarrassment.

Nor can you blame the bank for rejecting a check which you yourself made out wrong.

In one case, a man complained that his check was bounced "even though I had plenty of money in the bank." But it turned out that his money was in a savings, not a checking, account—hence was not subject to withdrawal by check at all.

Denying his claim for damages, the court said the bank did not have to follow instructions which the depositor had no right to give. An American Bar Association publication subject to withdrawal by check at all. © 1967 American Bar Association

THE FAMILY LAWYER

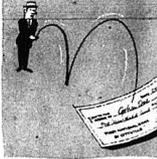

If Your Check Bounces

Checks pour through our banking system at the fantastic rate of 17,000,000 per business day. Considering this figure, the process works with remarkable smoothness.

But every so often, into this vast machinery, someone drops a small monkey wrench. Like a bad check. What are the legal consequences?

For one thing, you are committing a crime if you buy something with a check that you know is bad. The essence of the crime is the obtaining of merchandise by false pretenses. For, by handing over the check, you are implying—falsely—that you believe the check is good.

But intent is a crucial point. Suppose the check is bad only because of an innocent mistake you made in keeping your checkbook. Then, with no intent to defraud, you would not have committed a criminal offense.

Likewise, in most cases, it is not a crime to give a post-dated check that eventually turns out to be bad.
