He also held pastorates in San Francisco, California, Midway, Kentucky, Liverpool, England and Orythiana, Kentucky, where he spent the last nine years of his ministry, and where he is buried. His wife is buried in California. Of their five children, only one daughter, Mrs. Olin Chiles, was yet living in 1974, being eighty six years of age at that time. She was the mother of U.S. Senator, Lawton M. Chiles.

It is generally believed that Barnabas Haley, father of John Haley, was the first of the family to come to Rockcastle. He was one of three brothers coming over from Ireland, and the only one settling in Kentucky.

30 ACRES (more or less) and 2 STORY BUILDING

SAT., APRIL 5th - 10:30 A.M.

Located - eighteen (18) miles Northeast of Somerset, Kentucky, seventeen (17) miles West of London on Kentucky 90 in the heart of COAL COUNTRY. Watch for Auction Signs at the property.

This property contains thirty (30) acres, more or less, with some young timber. According to some of the residents in the area, there is coal on the property which was worked to a very small degree a few years ago.

Being strategically located between Somerset and London, the property does have commercial potential.

Improvements consist of a two-story building which has a four-room living quarters upstairs and store area on the first floor. Water is furnished by a spring. This building was formerly used as a grocery store.

Here's an opportunity to purchase some excellent investment property.

TERMS: 20% down day of sale; balance due in thirty (30) days upon delivery of deed.

Owners: Ruby Hansel, Mt. Vernon, Kentucky and Harold Mason, London, Kentucky.

GENTRY: It seems that we must revise our list of earliest comers to what is now Rockcastle County to make room for the Gentry family. Richard Gentry, applying for pension in Rockcastle County in 1836, covering his services in the Revolutionary War, stated that he was born in Lunenburg County, Virginia, in 1756, enlisted as a private in 1780, served several short enlistments and in Surry County, North Carolina, in 1793, married Gestic Hedgpeeth.

Following his marriage, which probably occurred at about the same time as his discharge from the Army, he and his wife must have come directly to Madison County, where their first son, David, was born there in 1797. Later, when a part of Madison County was taken in the formation of Rockcastle County, he was placed on the Census Report as an inhabitant of the new County. Thus we have a family well established here as early as 1797 and not many can claim such an early settlement date.

Children of Richard and Gestic Hedgpeeth Gentry were David John H., Betsy, Richard and Othanel. David married Rebecca Jones and their children were John, William S., Mary Ann, Wesley, Eliza and Sally. John married Fannie Price and their children were Henry Clay and George Washington Gentry. Henry Clay married Rebecca Tyree and had seven children. They were Meshack, George W., J. S., Jesse Tyree, Jacob, J. B. and Henry Tyree. George Washington married Sarah Tyree and their children were Andrew Jackson, James Cook, Lucy, Felix, Thomas C. and Charles O. Of these, Andrew Jackson married Mollie Thomson. Fannie married Sam Pennington. Rosa married Jeff Pennington. Othanel married Robert married and Rosa married C. J. Caudill. John H., another son of Richard and Gestic Gentry, was the father of James, Archie and George Gentry. His brother, Othanel, sired John O. and James H. Gentry. Names of the wives of John O. and Othanel not given.

This is only one of many branches of the Gentry family in Rockcastle County. Just how they are all related, if from one common stock, has not yet been determined and I would be glad to see additional information on the family. Statistics of 64 Gentrys at one time an important attorney in the County are numerous and prominent in the Level Green area and should be represented in our book.

LEWIS: After an intensive search through available files the conclusion appears obvious that the Lewis family were settled in what is now Rockcastle County at the earliest definitely known date of any on record. According to Volume 3 of Kentucky History by Connelly and Coulter, David Lewis, in 1787, settled with his family about two miles West of present Mt. Vernon, Kentucky, where he spent the remainder of his days.

He was born in Petersburg, Virginia, of Welsh descent, and his wife, the former Matilda Napp, was a native of Wales. His son, David N. Lewis, was born in Rockcastle County in 1819. He inherited a part of the old homestead where he was born and added to it, from time to time, until he had a considerable estate at the time of his death in 1896. His wife was Martha Ann Stewart, born in Madison County in 1828, and surviving him until 1906. They were parents of the following: Elizabeth, who married W. H. Whitehead, Charles, who died at the age of four; Sarah, who died at the age of three; Martha, who married Attorney L. B. Carter; Alice J., who married William McLaughlin and went to Albany, Oregon; Lucy Ann, who married J. J. McCull; Benjamin F., who became a prosperous farmer in Defiance, Iowa; Allen R., who stayed on the homestead and operated it for many years; Robert, owner of two extensive ranches at Glade Park, Colorado; William H., Railroad Foreman at Rose Hill in Kenton County; Samuel D., who spent much of his early manhood on various jobs in the West and was present at Ft. Kough, Montana, when Sitting Bull was killed there; resting arrest, came back to Rockcastle County, studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1898. In the meantime he had served the term as Circuit Court Clerk. In 1902 he was elected County Judge and was elected to the first of three terms as County Attorney. He was always prominent in county affairs and during the Spanish-American War served as First Lieutenant of Company G, 4th Regiment of Kentucky Volunteer Infantry, a company largely made up of residents of Rockcastle County. He was one of the organizers and principal stockholders in Peoples Bank of Mt. Vernon. In 1909 he was married to Mrs. Mary Webber. Their only son, David W., died in infancy.

James William Lewis, born in 1775 and probably a brother to David Lewis, also came to Rockcastle County, at an unknown date.

and lived near him. The name of his wife is not remembered. Their children were: Levisa, who married Newton Whitehead; Gracinda, who married Isaac Whitehead; Thomas, who married Jane Murray. He was killed and she was married Richard Rigby and they were parents of Per Rigby; Lucy Ann, who married Benjamin K. Bethurum; John Lewis had no children.

Elizabeth, daughter of the original settlers, David and Matilda Napp Lewis, married William Henderson. She was born in 1805, he in 1796. They were the grandparents of Dr. John D. Henderson, one of Rockcastle County's most useful citizens.

HALEY: The Haley family was among the earliest and most numerous in Rockcastle, but the name is seldom heard at this day. Graves in the old Scaffold Cane Cemetery (many of them slab burials, several illegible) mark the last resting place of several of the name. They include Barney H. Haley, b. 1733 d. 1851; Granville Haley, g. 1823 1859; Matilda Haley, b. 1861 d. 1890; Eliza Haley, b. 1810 1962; John Haley, b. 1795 d. 1855; John Haley, b. 1825, b. 1825 d. 1854.

John and Matilda Haley seem to have been among the more prolific of the clan and were the parents of six girls and three boys. The girls were: Nancy, who married W. L. Cook; Rhoda, who married Irish Abright; they had twelve children and game each of them a slave; Samantha, who married Albert Fish, one of the wealthiest men of the county; Matilda, who married R. D. Cook; Mary, who married D. N. Williams, outstanding among early politicians and business men of Mt. Vernon; Angelina, who married A. F. Butler. Another Mary Elizabeth Haley married A. W. Stewart and their five children, John M., Thomas A., Rhoda A., John W. and Mary, were among the leading citizens of the county. W. A. Stewart himself was one of the county's most successful farmers and stockmen and his brother, Thomas, worked large timber interests across the county.

John and Matilda's sons also gave good accounts of themselves. Walker W. and his wife, Julia Haley, were parents of W. B. Sarah M. John P. and Elizabeth Haley. Granville D. and Elizabeth Corneison Haley had the following children: John H., Mary Jane, Nancy M., Josephine, Eliza Francis and Rebecca. Elizabeth Francis married Jacob Greene of Petersburg, Illinois, a nephew of William Greene, close friend and financial supporter of Abraham Lincoln in his younger days.

Most widely known of the family was Rev. J. J. Haley, born in Rockcastle County in 1851, a son of John J. Haley and a grandson of John and Matilda Hale. He entered the University of Kentucky in 1869 and after finishing a four-year Bible Course entered the ministry. He preached for one year in Mississippi and was selected to preach at the Mt. Vernon conference in 1870. He was called for missionary work. After being married to Elizabeth Clark of Winchester, Kentucky, he immediately started for the Southern Hemisphere, going by way of San Francisco. He remained in

NEWS & VIEWS FROM THE ROCKCASTLE CO. LIBRARY

The short story is probably the oldest and yet the same time one of the newest of recognized forms. It can delight, inform, or distort the reader regardless of time or place, in spite of politics or prejudice. Visit the public library now and select a short story. Among them are:

Collected Stories, by Isaac Isabel. Stories of civil war and of Russian life before and after the Revolution.
 The Golden Apples of The Sun, by Ray Bradbury. A first-rate collection of tales of fantasy and science fiction.

The Short Stories of F. Scott Fitzgerald, by F. Scott Fitzgerald. Twenty-eight gay and tragic stories by the sad young spokesman for the Jazz Age.

Short Stories, by Ernest Hemingway. Contains the best short fiction of one of the most significant, controversial, and influential writers of this generation.

Jack London's Tales of Adventure, by Jack London. Stories of action, violence, and atmosphere, ranging from the Far North to the South Seas.

Short Stories, by Somerset Maugham. Dramatic, witty, and popular raconteur, mostly dealing with strange people and faraway places.

Short Stories, by Mark Twain. Generous selections from the shorter works of America's greatest humorist.

Selected Stories, by Eudora Welty. Sensitive, beautifully wrought stories of contemporary Mississippi.

tourists and guests it is a gift from the sportsmen of a Kentucky.

The 200-page edition will contain articles of interest such as Daniel Boone's travels through Eastern Kentucky in 1775; the survey of the Wilderness Road; Swiss migration; the attempt to cure rabies through the use of bloodstones; circuit riding preachers and the churches they established; politicians who forgot to hold an election; the coming of the railroads; famous health spas, and ice harvests. These items hardly touch the surface of interesting articles and unusual photography found in the Centennial Edition.

A special section of early history included several pages of family genealogies. Another section carries lists of public officials from the 1870's. Readers may find that they had an ancestor who held one of these public offices.

Rockcastle County readers, who are interested in reserving a copy of the Centennial Edition, will find a Centennial Coupon on this page for their convenience in obtaining a copy of this commemorative issue. Mt. Vernon residents and Rockcastle Countyans should return these coupons along with the correct amount for their copies to The Sentinel-Echo as soon as possible as there will be a limited number of the Centennial Edition printed.

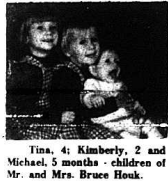

All regular mail subscribers of The Sentinel-Echo will receive a free copy of the Centennial Edition with their April 10th newspaper.

For reservations for a guided tour write or call: Supt., Game Farm, Route 2, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601, telephone, area code 502/228-8211. The farm is open from 8 a.m. until sunset.

Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

Of the many services and projects under the guidance of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, few receive more attention than the Experimental Game Farm located approximately three miles west of Frankfort on U.S. 60.

This 150-acre farm plays host to some 75,000 visitors annually. It is during April, May and June that the majority of schools allow some of their children to visit the state capitol and points of interest close at hand.

Many teachers in the past have contacted the Supt. of the Game Farm for a guided tour of this area, when they and their students came to the capitol.

The youngsters will see on Exhibition Row, as an example, bald and golden eagles, hawks, gyrfalcons, black bears, mountain lions, pheasants, raccoons, grey and red fox and many other specimens. Then, in three large separate enclosures, there are Times Have Changed But Not Cox Service....

Life's bound to change, techniques have changed. Priorities have changed. People, however, are much the same as they were and have always been.

The hurts, the happiness, the fears, and the hopes inside people go on and on as the landscape changes. So, in a way, the services we provide today for our friends and neighbors are not different than those provided by our founder, W. A. Cox, over sixty years ago. The quality of our professional care and the type of personal attention we give has established a reputation you can depend on.

Frankfort Watchline

Least anyone thinks politics is just a series of boring speeches, it seems appropriate at this point in the 1975 political scene to review some of the lighter things.

In the interest of humanizing a sometimes dreary subject, Frankfort Watchline announced its first political awards.

Worst Standing Joke Award - to Atty. Gen. Ed Hancock, who, when he tells people he is a bachelor, a not always beneficial marital status for this in the political life, he says, "I come from a long line of bachelors."

No Business Like Show Business Award - to Pike

County Judge Wayne Rutherford, who hired a clown in full uniform to pass out the candidate's balloons at the state high school basketball tournament. Fairgrounds security personnel apparently concurred in this award by throwing the clown off the premises.

Song of the Year Award - to country singer Glen Campbell, who brought the house down at the Julian Carroll for Governor kickoff celebration with a timely rendition of "Having My Baby" in honor of mother-to-be Charliann Carroll.

Most Enlightening Statement Award - to chicken tycoon John Y. Brown, Jr. who introduced Carroll at the same kickoff party as a man who still has time for his family.

Five-Cent Cigar Award - to Nicky Nicholson, campaign manager for Ewart Johnson, who finally got candidate Johnson to quit smoking those big, black cigars at political rallies. Nicky was going to try to change Johnson's image even further by getting rid of those colorful Hawaiian print ties they auctioned one off for $500 at a fund raiser. Anybody want to buy a cigar?

Blunt Instrument Award - to Agriculture Commissioner Wendell Butler, who, when asked about his decision to take up Gov. Julian Carroll's offer of a highly paid position in the Carroll administration in lieu of making another run for superintendent of public instruction, began his answer: "The deal was....."

"Make No Mistake" Award - once again, to Wendell Butler, who came upstairs in the Capitol Building to press row arm-in-arm with Dr. James Graham, who filed a few minutes earlier for superintendent of public instruction. "I'd like you to meet my good friend....."

Musical Tunes Award - to State Senator Bill Sullivan, who, since he was president pro-tem of the state senate, decided after Julian Carroll moved to the governor's office he is properly acting lieutenant governor, and called his first official press conference as acting governor the first time Carroll left the state.

Cutzpah Award - hands down, to Jefferson County Judge Todt Hollenbach's professional advance men. The young judge had decided he would hold a press conference in the rotunda of the Capitol Building, in front of the office of Gov. Julian Carroll, his opponent for the Democratic nomination for governor. Seeking a portable podium from which to deliver his remarks, they asked the tour guide at the front desk, who suggested might the governor's office might have one.

One of the team wandered into the office of Carroll's press secretary, John Nichols, to ask for a podium from which Hollenbach could deliver some scathing remarks about Carroll. Nichols, his mouth hanging open in disbelief, said he didn't know where it was.

"I suppose I could have offered them the use of the governor's conference room," Nichols remarked later in the day.

Which all goes to show that politics can be fun.

There will no doubt be more of these in the last two months of the campaign. *****

POEM CORNER

(Sent in by Mrs. Geo. Burton)

Calvary

I did not see The lifted high
And the savage moan,
I did not hear Thy rending cry,
"Forgive them, O My God!"
But, Lord, I know it was for me
Thy blood and tears were poured,
And now, through weeping eyes
I see Thy wounded, precious Lord.

I did not see the awful night
That hid Thee, O My Lord;
I did not see Jehovah smite
The Shepherd with the sword.
But now I know the judgment fell
Upon Thy Sacred Head,
To save my guilty soul from hell,
And raise me from the dead.

I did not hear Thy loud last sigh
When love's great work was done,
That rent the veil, the earth and I saw,
And told that life was won,
But, Lord, I know that Thou hast died for me.

And taxed death had me
Exalted at Thy Father's side,
My Lord, My God I see.

County Agent's Notes

By: H. Lee Durham
County Agent

BE GLAD IT'S NOT A DESERT.....

Scientists who grub around in the dirt have identified tens of thousands of different kinds of soil. Most soils consist of two or three distinct layers. The physical and chemical properties of each of the layers and the great number of combination of properties explains why there are so many kinds...and why it's so important to check the soil before you build or buy a home. If you didn't check ahead of time, or are having erosion or having septic tank problems, or cracks in the walls, or if plants avoid your yard like the plague, you may need some help. Or at least sympathy. Give a call to the local office of the Soil Conservation Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture to find out whether a soil survey of your area is available. The Soil Conservation Service also has many other services available to you. They might even throw in a helpful suggestion or two.

LANDSCAPING...

Now is the time for planting trees either around the home or the farmstead. Many of the older homes already have trees, but these are getting old and in a few years will be gone. This will leave a distinct vacancy among the trees for "hole and background for the home.

Farmers have not realized that by planting trees in the animal lots they can have the best and most sanitary shade possible for their livestock. The barn and other farm buildings are necessary for the farm operation, but as a rule these buildings are not attractive. By the use of trees, they can be partially screened from the public view.

Having good looking, thrifty growing trees around the home and farmstead, not only makes the place much more attractive but they add economic value to the farm, if and when it might be sold, as well as giving pride of ownership to the farm.

PLANS FOR SLANT-BAR HAY FEEDER AVAILABLE

Many farmers who are feeding hay to their cattle in large round bales and stacks can save hay by putting racks or panels around the hay packages when they are fed. That is pointed out by George Duncan, Extension Agricultural Engineer at UK College of Agriculture.

Duncan says studies have shown that uncontrolled feeding of large bales and stacks can result in 15-30 percent of the hay being wasted. One recommended way to reduce the amount of wasted hay is to provide cattle with only as many bales or stacks as they can clean up in three or four days. Another way is to use racks or feeding panels. Small feeding racks or panels for the smaller round bales or stacks reduce waste and allow better cleanup. For larger bales and stacks, panels are available which close in, or collapse, on the hay as it is eaten and allow animals to reach the last bites of hay. Many of these types of panels are now commercially available.

Farmers who wish to build their own collapsible feeding panels can obtain plans through their local County Extension Office. The plans No. 731-3, 501 were developed by the Agricultural Engineering Plan Service at UK, they are designed for steel tubing, pipe, or wooden construction.

The plans show pin connected ends of the panels to provide the flexible, fold-up feature for more thorough hay clean-up. Slanted bars permit animals to reach in for hay, but tend to keep them from backing out as frequently and wasting hay. Also, calves aren't as likely to get through and inside the panels.

Duncan points out that feeding panels can help provide better utilization of hay on farms where the cattle herd is not large enough to clean up a large bale or stack in a short time.

GREENHOUSE PLANS...

Plans for heating and ventilation systems for greenhouses are now available from your local County Extension Office. Information on selecting, installing and operating heating and ventilation equipment are included in the plans, according to Extension Agricultural engineers at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Also, ask your County Extension Agent about the other blueprints and free publications available on greenhouse structures and coverings.

To those all alone and forsaken and lonely like myself, my heart goes out to you. No kind words, no cheerful smile, no phone calls to encourage you along the way...no letters in the mail. Haven't seen a person in three days - one kind word, one phone call of concern or one letter which means so much. As I write this news, both my arms hurt so badly with arthritis I can hardly use them. If you read this news and feel lonely and forsaken, and all alone, I would like a card of phone-call from you.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Anglin of Union, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Linsford, Dickie Banks, Mrs. Joyce Brown and Jenny, Helen Stender and Barbara Long, Mrs. all of Berea, visited Mr. and Mrs. Ken Long.

A biographical sketch of Mt. Powell is as follows:

He was born January 23, 1914, and attended grade and high school at Hustonville. He graduated from Berea College in 1936 and began working in Missouri Extension Service immediately. He married Opal Bishop of Bell County in December, 1936, and they had three children: Smith T. III, James Michael and Martha Ann, while living in Missouri.

Mr. Powell served as Assistant County Agent until August, 1947, when he and his family moved back to Lincoln County and the farm in the Peyton's Well Area. He farmed, ran a dairy herd and taught Agriculture in the Veterans Program until the program concluded, then he began teaching an Adult Farm Program until July 1, 1974.

Mr. Powell turned from dairy to beef cattle in the last few years and at present is president of the Kentucky Beef Cattle Association and is working to establish a "Check Off" program in the state.

Smith T. is an elder in the Christian Church at Hustonville. Chairman of the Board of Central Kentucky Production (Credit Association) Chairman of Lincoln County Extension Council, Chairman of the Livestock Committee of Ky. Farm Bureau, President of the Lincoln County Fair Board. He is on the board of Lincoln County Livestock Improvement Association, having served as president of both these groups.

Smith T. III is gaining a reputation as a chili or a leader in mass feeding. He now has three long troughs on wheels that he can use to fill with charcoal and cook pork chops or steak and has even developed "Kentucky Cattleburgers" which he described as made from "Corn fed beef".

The Powell children who were aged four to seven when the family moved to the Lincoln County farm, are all now grown. Smith T. III is acting head of the Physics Department at Berea College with three children, Martha Ann Powell Crosses lives in Clay Center, Nebraska, and has two children, and Rev. James M. Powell is pastor of the First Christian Church in Eden, North Carolina, with one child.
