The Rockcastle County seventh and eighth grade middle school teams opened their 1998 regular seasons on Thursday night with impressive wins over visiting Meece. The Briar Jumpers were little competition for the Rockets who won the seventh grade game 22-8 and the eighth grade game 38-16. Both the seventh grade team and the eighth grade team were undefeated as sixth and seventh graders a year ago. On Monday, a combined seventh and eighth grade team traveled to Harlan and came away with a 42-14 win over the Green Dragons. Above, cornerback Chris Settles, who intercepted a Dragon pass in the game stops a Harlan runner. Also in the photo is #67 Brian Mullins, #14 Aaron Anderker, #63 Tanner Abney, #75 Doug French and #36 Stephen Boring. The seventh and eighth grade teams play at home on Thursday night against Southern Pulaski.

The Rockcastle County sixth grade team is once again undefeated in 1998. On Saturday they defeated Bell County and on Sunday the team traveled to Harlan where they came away with a 22-12 win. Members of the team celebrating the victory after the game were, from left Derrick Hursi, Josh Russell, Scotty Cromer, Gabe Guilfoil, Travis DeBorde and Stephen Rowe. The sixth grade team is coached by Willis Coffey and against sixth grade teams have been undefeated in three seasons.

Rockcastle County Middle School Y-Club President Aaron Anderker, left, accepts a United States Flag from Modern Wooden of World Chapter President Ina Jean Towery and Secretary Mary Ann McNew before the Rockets game with Southwestern Friday night. The flag will be flown at the middle school field where the high school and middle school teams play.

Rockets win impressively 28-0

On Southwestern's second possession, the Warriors punt snapper sailed the ball over the punter's head, who picked up the ball and tried to throw a pass, which was incomplete.

The Rockets had the ball on the fourteen and two plays later Josh Singleton scored his second touchdown of the night.

The Rockets had moved out to a commanding 21-0 lead with eighteen seconds left in the first quarter.

The Warriors couldn't get anything going on their next possession either and were forced to punt.

Rockcastle took over on the 25 yard line and on the first play from scrimmage Singleton scored on a 25 yard run. But that score was called back because of a holding penalty on the Rockets found themselves with a first and 25.

The Rocket offense stalled for the first time of the night and had to give up the ball to Southwestern.

But the stingy Rocket defense forced Southwestern to punt again.

Andy Hale returned the ball 38 yards to Southwestern's 17 yard line to set up what would be the Rockets fourth and final score of the game.

On Hale's return he had some help. First it was Henry Bryant, then Sean Smith, then Bussett, followed by Josh Jones and finally Greg Harper, who helped free Hale on a series of peel back blocks.

Defensive coach Tony Saylor said he had never seen such a return with as many peel back blocks. "It was simply beautiful," Saylor said. The Rockets final score of the half and the game came on a seventeen yard run by Singleton. His third of the night.

The Rockets had their chances in the second half, but never scored.

Middle linebacker Brooks Ingram actually caught a Warrior punt as it left the punter's foot to give the Rockets the ball on the five yard line in the third quarter. But a penalty and then a fumble stopped the Rocket's attempt at a fifth score.

The Warriors hopes were dashed completely in the fourth quarter when senior Henry Bryant picked off a Warrior pass and returned it to the 21 yard line.

The junior varsity then took over and finished the game on offense.

Offensively the Rockets had a total of 228 yards, 176 on the ground and 52 through the air.

Christopher Parsons was 7-10 passing for the 52 yards and no interceptions.

Parsons also had eight yards rushing and scored a touchdown.

Josh Singleton had 69 yards on 14 carries and scored the Rockets other three touchdowns.

Derrick Bussett rushed four times for 32 yards and caught two passes for 17 yards. Josh Hendrickson carried the ball twice for 17 yards and caught one pass for seven yards.

Andy Hale had four catches for 33 yards and Brooks Ingram gained two yards on one carry.

Junior Josh Dooley rushed twelve times in the latter stages of the game for 55 yards and back-up quarterback Dustin Crawford had one carry.

Defensively the Rockets were led by Henry Bryant who had four tackles, one assist, one interception and three sacks.

Brooks Ingram had eight tackles, six assists, one sack, and a blocked punt.

Andy Hale had a fumble recovery, a solo tackle and three assists.

Sophomore Greg Harper had three solo tackles, two assists and a sack. Sean Smith had one solo, two assists and a sack.

Senior Josh Jones had solo tackle and two assists. Senior Josh Martin, who anchors the Rocket offensive line, also had three solo tackles and one assist.

Senior Bobby Cundiff had three assists and Senior Jeff Linville had one solo and four assists.

Josh Hendrickson had three solos and three assists and Derck Bradley had two solos and one assist and Derrick Bussett had two solo tackles.

The Rocket defense held Southwestern to just 128 yards of total offense.

Luckily the injury prone Rockets did not get anyone hurt.

The Rockets will hit the road again on Friday night, when they travel to Berea to play the Madison Southern Eagles. Game time is 8:00 p.m.

The Eagles are looking for their first win ever over the Rocket football team in fourteen years.

State, federal and local officials gathered in Renfro Valley Friday morning for the official groundbreaking ceremony for the log cabin project in Renfro Valley. The project will bring 10 historic cabins from Levi Jackson State Park to Renfro Valley. The cost of the project will be $770,000 with the Appalachian Regional Commission providing $400,000 of the funding through a grant. Once completed, the project will provide approximately 20 new jobs for Rockcastle County. The Rockcastle County Tourist Commission has been responsible for coordinating the efforts to complete the project. Shown above taking part in the groundbreaking are from left: Kentucky Governor Paul Patton, United States Congressman Harold Rogers, State Representative Danny Ford, Rockcastle County Judge Executive Buzz Carlolitis, Chief Justice of the Kentucky Supreme Court Joseph Lambert, Executive Director of the Rockcastle Tourist Commission Glennis Miller and tourist commission board member Larry Dale Carter.

Hale, Allen among six to apply for RCHS job

Rockcastle County School Superintendent Larry Hammond said this week that he had received six applications so far for the vacant principal's position at Rockcastle County High School.

Hammond said that Rockcastle County Middle School principal John Hale and interim Rockcastle County High School principal Ruth Allen had applied for the job.

The school superintendent said that he had also received applications from four other administrators from outside the county.

John Hale has been working in the local school system for the past 27 years. He was a teacher and coach at Livingston school for 13 years before being hired as principal at Mt. Vernon Elementary School where he spent eight years.

Hale, 48, has been principal at the middle school since its opening five years ago.

Ms. Allen is also a 27 year veteran of the Rockcastle County School System.

She spent 25 years as a English teacher at the school before being hired as an administrative assistant last year.

Allen, 48, was hired this summer as assistant principal and was appointed as interim principal two weeks ago.

The vacancy at the high school occurred one week after the school year started, when Ronnie Cash, who had been principal at the school for the last eleven years was fired by Hammond.

Cash has appealed his firing, but a hearing date has not been set concerning his dismissal.

Under state law members of the site based council at the high school will select the new principal from applications they receive from Hammond.

State law says the council can consider only those applications which they are given by Hammond, but they can reject each one of them until they reach a final decision.

Those who will decide who the next principal will be are council members Debbie Cash, Tom Larkey and Jeff Hayes, all teachers and parent members, Debbie Brown and Yvonne Carmack.

Applications for the vacancy will be accepted at the Rockcastle County Central Office until September 24.

Board may consider changing calender for week long break

Mt. Vernon man arrested after complaint

A Mt. Vernon man was arrested Friday and charged with woman endangerment and harassment after he was accused of forcing his former girlfriend's car off the road on Thursday night.

According to Deputy Sheriff Doug Thomas, Roy Howard, 19, of Mt. Vernon is accused of forcing RCHS Junior Jessica McClure off of Hwy. 1617, just after midnight Saturday night. McClure's 1996 Hyundai was damaged in the accident.

McClure and her mother, Christine, swore out warrants for Howard, who will be arraigned next Wednesday in Rockcastle District Court.

discuss the possibility of changing the school calendar for 1998-99 to include a mandatory full week of Spring Break in April.

Mrs. Connie Riddle, a teacher at RCHS and wife of baseball coach Ryan Riddle, was in attendance at the Rockcastle County Board of Education's regular monthly meeting Tuesday night to find out the school board's feelings on the matter.

The board agreed that they would follow any reasonable recommendation made by the calendar committee to amend the calendar for the Spring.

Mrs. Riddle's request for the change mainly involved the RCHS baseball team, which has participated in games in Florida during other Spring breaks.

Superintendent Larry Hammond said that he could not feel good about allowing the team to miss school to go to Florida, unless everyone was off that week.

Hammond said that he would be in favor of the week long Spring break, if the majority of school personnel and parents were in favor of such a move.

Mrs. Riddle had a proposal in her possession that pointed out several

Bus involved in hit and run

Police are searching for a person that drove off from a auto accident involving a Rockcastle County school bus on Friday morning.

Local transportation director David Perkins said that someone drove a 1992 Mercury Cougar into the side of bus number 17 around 7:30 Friday morning.

The car came from the road in front of Elmwood Cemetery and hit the bus as it traveled along Main Street in Mt. Vernon.

The driver of the Mercury fled on foot after the accident.

The car was registered to Kim Dalton of Prather Road, Somerset.

Three students were on the bus, but no one was injured.

Mt. Vernon city police are investigating the incident.

reasons why the school personnel, parents and the board should consider a week long Spring break.

As it currently stands, if less than ten days of school is missed because of bad weather, a week long Spring Break, the week of April 5-9 will be taken.

But because it is not known how many days would be missed, and if a week would be taken, things such as a Florida trip by the baseball team could not be planned.

Mrs. Riddle's proposal also pointed out that everyone could plan activities for that week well in advance, it would give school groups, clubs and organizations more options for trips and activities and parents would have the option to schedule family vacations.

Hammond said he would discuss the request with principals before calling the calendar committee together.

The school board has the option to amend the calendar without following the incident.

New city park opening set for September 18

The grand opening of the new Mt. Vernon City Park is scheduled for Friday, September 18, from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The new park is located on Williams Street in Mt. Vernon, at the junction of Hwy. 150.

The Mt. Vernon City Council voted on Tuesday night to set the park hours from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. The council also set some rules for the park, which includes no bike riding on the walking trails.

The council also voted to allow local residents to rent the picnic shelters in the park.

Country Charlie Napier will provide entertainment during the grand opening and free cokes and hot dogs

Livingston Homecoming

The plants that grow from hybrid seed don't bloom but they establish a root system that would make a great subject for a terror movie. The more you plow them and try to break them up, the more they proliferate. Heavy duty weed-killer only seems to fertilize them. When you get wild geraniums in your garden, you've got 'em for life unless you know something I don't.

But Loretta loves to have a geranium on the front porch and the red ones make a stunning flower that will bloom from frost to frost. My theory is that if you only have one plant and you make sure your neighbors don't have one, they can't pollinate. Meaning that the seeds won't come up. So far that theory is holding up here in the Lowell Branch suburb of Paint Lick (you can't lick), Kentucky.

We've got one of those hanging basket geraniums out on the eaves of our porch that we hung around the end of March. With daily watering and a little Peter's Professional Fertilizer mixed in the water every couple of weeks, it has produced a big plant and hundred of bud stems with flowers so red they almost glow in the dark. It has also shed hands full of leaves and they've been accumulating around the plant's base in the growing pot all season.

A few weeks ago I decided to clean them out but just as I went to stick my hand down in the pot a house wren buzzed out and parted my hair and I fell flat on my behind on the porch. She flew out on a tree limb some ten feet away and let it be known that she did not appreciate the disturbance.

Standing on tiptoes I looked down into the leaf accumulated and discovered that she had burrowed out a nest which appeared to be lined with dog hair and she had one little spotted egg in it. I figured out a way to water the flower without getting the nest wet or disturbing Mrs. Wren but a few days later I saw her fly out and I checked it again. Now there were three eggs.

In the meantime I have managed to talk Dave Maggard and every member of my family into peering into the plant and in every case they've received the hair parting treatment. So far I'm the only one she has knocked down, but everybody has stumbled backwards.

Finally about ten days ago Papa Wren showed up on the porch rail with a bug in his beak. Mrs. Wren vacated the nest and Papa pecked the bug back into the nest and took off again. In a few minutes Mrs. Wren was back also packing a bug. This went on from dawn till dark until today when three little wrens, just feathered out came out on the edge of the pot, tethered a bit, peer around and promptly flew about ten feet into the lower limb of the persimmon tree in our front yard.

The initial landings were pretty clumsy but within an hour they were lost in the upper branches of a massive maple and they seemed fine the last time I saw them.

The geranium still needs to have the leaves and clutter cleaned up around its base but I just can't bring myself to do it.

"To Mt. Vernon Signal and the Jackson County Sun:

I sincerely apologize for picking up trash in Jackson County and illegally dumping that trash in Rockcastle County. It was wrong and it tainted beautiful land. I will, in the future, recycle whenever appropriate and urge others who appreciate our land to do the same.

I have been placed on probation after serving time in jail, and am working with the Rockcastle County Judge Executive to clean up illegal dump sites. Signed, 'Joe Estep'"

Dear Editor: This is written in response to the 09-02-98 Lexington Herald-Leader article "Truck Agency Under Scrutiny."

My question is, "Why is vehicle enforcement under scrutiny?" The statistics included in the ar-

Rep. Danny Ford, R-Mt. Vernon, discusses possible locations for a new state office building during the Aug. 26 meeting of the Interim Joint Committee on State Government. During the meeting, lawmakers heard testimony from Finance and Administration Cabinet officials on possible sites for a new Transportation Cabinet building in Frankfort.

ticle speak for themselves. 172 vehicle enforcement officers have inspected 63,000 of the 12 million commercial vehicles weighed in the state. One hundred seventy-two vehicle enforcement officers have written 37,697 citations last year, 17% of which were to passenger vehicles.

These fine officers have not only been given the authority, but the duty to enforce the motor vehicle laws of this state. With all the problems in our state why are these members of the general assembly so worried about who is getting a speeding citation and who is writing it.

Perhaps these legislators need to worry less about curtailing the duties of a department that is only doing the job that it was handed by the very people who are complaining and more about doing their own job. Mary Dixon, Mt. Vernon, KY

200 guaranteed rural housing loans approved

The USDA Rural Development Area Office in London has approved 200 Guaranteed Rural Housing (GRH) loans this fiscal year. The London Office provides affordable housing through the GRH program to families in Rockcastle County.

Thomas G. Fern, state director for Rural Development in Kentucky said, "With the approval of 200 GRH loans, the London Area Office has guaranteed over $11.5 million in the 20 county area. This compares to the $8.6 million guaranteed in FY 97 to finance 159 homes. Our agency restructured in October 1997, turning the GRH program over to the Area Offices. The London Office has shown this as a step forward to improving service to the public and improving the Agency's efficiency in delivery of our programs. The employees of this office are contributing to the agency's mission and President Clinton's goals for increasing homeownership to 67.5 percent of household throughout America by the year 2000. A record of nearly 66 percent of all American households now own their homes. President Clinton has vowed to create 8 million new homeowners by the end of the year 2000." Rural Development Manager for the London Area Office, Kenneth R. Arterburn, said, "I commend this staff. Their dedication shows that Rural Development employees are responsive in carrying out the agency's mission with one month remaining in this fiscal year, and with funds still available, we look forward to assisting more families with home loans."

Rural Development expects funds to be available in all housing programs throughout the fiscal year. The direct loan program assists low income families to obtain a house by subsidizing payments; the home repair loan/grant program removes health and safety hazards from houses. If interested in these programs contact the Rural Development office serving your county. If interested in the GRH program, contact Tony Snell, Guaranteed Loan Reviewer in the London Area Office, 606-864-2172, Ext. 119.

the backbone of the federal government's efforts to sustain American agriculture.

The importance of the county committee system stems from a simple concept that local farmers know their communities and their business and how best to make national programs work locally. Committee members know what issues are facing farmers in their area and since they are elected by their peers, are themselves active farmers.

The FSA county committees set rental rates for the Conservation Reserve Program. The committee helps to sustain the local farming community by determining eligibility for loans for FSA programs, like the beginning farmer program and the guaranteed operating loan program. The county committees approve crop loans by reviewing individual cases, and decide the applicability of other commodity programs like the non-insured crop disaster assistance program. The county committee supervises the operations of the county office, including the hiring of personnel that deliver FSA's programs. During a disaster, the county committee is responsible for administering FSA's emergency programs. And when there's a question about the fairness of the application of FSA programs, it's the county committee that helps resolve the issues. Committees serve a key role in USDA's check and balance appeals system/

The county committee is core to USDA's success at the local level. Through the county committee system, the local farmer is the critical link in implementing national agricultural policy. The county committee serves as the USDA Secretary's

"eyes and ears" in each county, so that USDA knows the particular needs of local farmers and can respond accordingly to local conditions. County committees act on behalf of the Department to partner with other local groups to make a difference in their communities. By participating in local working groups, they help priorities and solve environmental issues like the Environmental Quality Incentives Program and the Conservation Farm Options Program. In short, the county committee system places much of the control of the Department's assistance to farmers in their own hands.

USDA prides itself in that no other federal department involves people at the local level to the extent that USDA does through the farmer-elected county Committee system. By bringing people in at the local level, the Farm Service Agency is the most effective voice for agriculture. The county committee system reflects the needs of the community and the understanding of how to make national progress work in America's rural towns and communities.

The Children Suffer

The Most
"She puts me down in front of my kids," Jack said angrily. (All characters are fictitious) "She tells them that I was seeing another woman the whole time we were married, and that's not true! Also she has them believing that I don't want to spend time with them. The reason I get so little time with them is because she won't let them stay overnight with me."

Jack was frustrated, irritated and exasperated. His divorce from Jill was turning into a nightmare. What had begun as a fairly peaceable separation had become a knock-down, drag-out fight.

Jill had her side to the story. "He's lying when he says there was no other woman," she said staving him down. "He will never convince me any different. My family and I have proof!"

"Yeah, some proof," Jack retorted. He turned to me. "She tapped the phone and has a tape of me having an innocent conversation with one of the ladies at work."

"Innocent, my foot!" she yelled at him. "You asked her to spend the night with you!"

"I did not!" Jack shouted back. "You misunderstood the whole thing."

As the counselor I could see that this was going nowhere. It was obvious that the two of them had hit this same argument many times, and the outcome was always the same: both of them stomped off convinced that the other was a monster.

"Tell me about your kids," I suggested.

Both parents obviously were very proud of their three children. Jack and Jill gave me a long list of their children's accomplishments, ending with the first place award in the talent contest at the county fair. "They are good kids," Jack said as Jill nodded.

"How is the divorce affecting them?" I asked. "I'd be OK if not for her big mouth!" Jack said. I stepped in to stop this fight before it went further. "What is the problem?" I asked them. "You've gone from loving each other to hating each other in three months. Have both of you been that badly hurt by the divorce?"

The mention of "hurt" opened the floodgates of emotion. Jill told of the rejection she felt and Jack of the guilt he felt over the kids losing their home. Both were carrying enough hurt to sink the Titanic.

When a client of mine is very angry, I begin to look for the hurt underneath. Most of the time it is there. Verbalizing the hurt takes away it as soon as possible. I am concentrating on preparing the new books when they come in and they say of importance. No one could ever have told me that a library inventory would be so time-consuming and that we would find so many mistakes. I now have talked to other librarians that have done this and they say this is normal. We have approximately 5,000 books without a shelf list and probably almost that many cards without books. It will take much longer to correct all of this than it did the actual inventory. We feel that our library will now be in a much better condition, as far as finding records of books, than it has ever been.

I had the pleasure of visiting in my grandson's school room last week to present to them my memories of school days in a small country school. These children have no idea of what they would call inconveniences — the things that we did without in our classrooms. Electricity being the number one thing, without this a lot of other things weren't available. Some of these were, no running water, no restrooms inside, no hot lunches, no central heating or cooling, but to me these were some of the happiest days of my life. We weren't used to these conveniences at home so we couldn't miss them at school. Also, it would be hard to get the children to walk any further than from their house to the road to catch a bus. I walked to school with other children and enjoyed it. Of course in the winter it wasn't too pleasant but we accepted it as normal.

I ended my visit with an invitation for the class to visit the library. Mrs. Everole said they wanted to do research on different communities and other things. We extend an invitation to any of the teachers to bring their students in to visit the library and we will help with special needs if possible.

I also want to invite parents or babysitters to bring in the preschoolers for story hour each Tuesday at 1 p.m. Linda has started out well with the program and she has some great ideas for other programs. She plans on getting these started soon. We will be publicizing these in the paper and on the radio, also flyers will be distributed in stores etc. for your information.

Now his oldest brother, Archer, President of Donovan Increment with extensive international applications, and an alliance that will shake the very core of his being.

NO SAFE PLACE by Richard North Patterson. . . In the year 2000, Senator Kerry Kilcannon's insurgent campaign against Vice President Dick Cheney has come down to the last seven days of time remaining before the California presidential primary. Whoever wins in California stands a good chance of winning the Democratic nomination, a prize that the Vice President is determined to deny Kerry at any cost.

This narrative is seamlessly interwoven with scenes from Kerry's past, his youth as the son of a drunken and abusive father; his self image as the less gifted younger brother of a brilliant yet distant senior; his reluctant ascension to his brother's place; his poignant romance with Lara Costello.

This depicts the world of high-stakes presidential politics on the verge of an explosion. Richard North Patterson is at his best.

TELL ME YOUR DREAMS by Sidney Sheldon. . . Three beautiful young women - Ashley, Toni and Aleete are suspected of committing a series of brutal murders. The police make an arrest that leads to one of the most bizarre murder trials of the century and a defense based on a startling but authentic piece of medical evidence. The story races from London to Rome to the city of Quebec to San Francisco, with a climax that leaves the reader stunned.

Two other new novels for our western readers. . . THE BARON RANGER by Jory Sherman and GHOST TOWN by Robert Coover. .

Also two books that are on the best-seller list: Joseph-Beth in Lexington PROTEIN PUP by Michael Eades and Hiking Kentucky by Brook Elliott.

Carol has prepared a great exhibit on Kentucky. This is a must for our patrons to see and to help us all learn more about our state and the things available here at home. We do have to travel far to see mountains, flatlands, knobs, rivers, places of entertainment and many other interesting places. Kentucky also is blessed with many great authors and their books are available.

MINDS IN THE MIDDLE

For the past two years, Rockcastle County Middle School has had peer mediators. Peer Mediators assist with handling conflicts between two students by working out solutions to their conflicts with each other. On Thursday and Friday, Mrs. Cromer and Mr. Mattingly will be training selected students in how to conduct peer mediation sessions. This program has been a very successful tool in our school.

Our football team will take on Southern Pulaski Thursday night at 6:00 p.m. at RCMS. Also Thursday night, our girls basketball team will be traveling to Corbin for the Conference Girls Basketball Jamboree. The girls will return to Corbin next Tuesday to play against the Corbin RedHounds. On Friday afternoon, there will be a school dance from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. Students who wish to stay for the dance must bring a note from home permitting them to stay.

Students need to keep in mind that this Friday is the last day of the Y-Club membership drive and also the last day of the Builders Club membership drive. Thank you to the parents who returned our School Safety surveys. Our School Safety Committee will be presenting their findings at the district-wide School Safety Committee Meeting Tuesday night at Rockcastle County High School.

Congratulations to Kasey Scoggins and Stacey Purcell who have been added to the 1998-99 RCMS Choir!

RCMS Review

By Dackery Larkey

Debbie Coleman, a social studies teacher at Rockcastle County High School will receive an award for her outstanding service as a teacher.

Just days before the 98-99 school year, she received news that she had been selected by the Kentucky Council for Social Studies (KCSS) as one of a select few to win the Outstanding Teacher of the Year Award.

"I feel this award is more reflective on the success of my students than mine," Coleman said.

Dr. Guilford, a professor at Eastern Kentucky University, nominated Mrs. Coleman. An application was required to participate.

Mrs. Coleman has taught in three different school districts, four years at Belfry High School and one year at the Fayette County Alternative System.

As a freshman attending college at the University of Kentucky, Mrs. Coleman had pre-determined to major in medicine, but later decided that her talents lay in teaching.

Mrs. Coleman has Bachelor's degree in secondary education, history, political science, and minors in geography and economics.

She will accept the award September 18 at the KCSS state conference in Lexington.

"A teacher can only be good if their student learns something," she said.

Mrs. Coleman is very appreciative of this award, and feels a lot of hard work had paid off.

Mt. Vernon Message

Greeting from MVES!!!

School pictures will be taken THIS Thursday, September 10. Wear your prettiest smile!

MVES PTA will hold a membership drive and conduct their regular monthly meeting on Monday, September 14 beginning at 6:00 p.m.

Mrs. Cindy Andrikin, guidance counselor, will be available for parents on Tuesday evenings from 3:00 until 7:00. Family Resource Centers open to parents also on Tuesday from 4:00 to 6:00. Call or stop by the school to utilize this resource if you have questions, concerns, etc. about your children. Working together can remove educational barriers for our children!

CHOICES, a parent network for special needs children of any disability, will meet in the lunchroom begunning at 6:00 on Tuesday, September 15. Call Family Resource at 256-5173 for more information.

Don't forget to ask your child about his/her day at school each evening. Your interest can work miracles in motivating a child to do their very best.

Mrs. Clontz and Mrs. Cable, Primary 2 classes, have begun rewarding students with a PEARL award each week. PEARL stands for Pride, Effort, Attendance, Responsibility and Leadership. PEARL award recipients for the week of Sept. 1-4 are Lindsey Reynolds and Brandee Bussell. Congratulations Lindsey and Brandee!

Thought for the Week: Modeling isn't the best way to teach; it is the only way to teach. Children learn more from our example than from our words!

Two complete JobStart

Fun and learning is what JobStart is about. Making new friends and creating a support group that lasts while gaining new skills to use in finding and keeping a job.

On August 21st two students completed their twelve weeks of job skills training and graduated, while other students looked up to them for their success. Halona Renner and Connie Checks received their certificates after a lunch of pizza and conversation with friends who will graduate in the near future.

Connie wrote a wonderful remembrance of JobStart saying, "Thanks for giving me the ability and encouragement to go out in the world and achieve my many goals. In closing she said, 'Hang in there, don't give up. This is a great program and I have made lots of friends. What I have learned at JobStart will stay with me a lifetime.'"

Halona stated that she had really enjoyed her time with JobStart and had learned a great deal.

JobStart is a program of Christian Appalachian Project partially funded by the Department of Adult Education and Literacy. Open enrollment for anyone over the age of sixteen.

Contact Judy Dillingham or Anne Elkins for more information at 256-9612 or 256-5307 Monday through Friday 8:00-4:30.

Poet's Corner

A Tribute To Old Joe Clark

By Billery Ayers
I recall how sad the news was that day,

That we learned Old Joe Clark had passed away.
Renfro Valley audiences loved to hear him

sing, joke and play,
When they visited down Kentucky way.

In the spotlight there are many performers that stand tall,
But fate's fans, they loved Old Joe Clark best of all.

His friends and fellow artists were with him on that last show,
Just before the Lord came and said "Old Joe Clark, it's time to go."

Oh how sad they all must have been,
At the loss of such dear, dear friend.
Although Old Joe Clark's time came and he was called away,
He left us so many memories, recordings and tapes to play.

Yes, we will be remembered throughout this land,
By everyone who called him friend and every country music fan.
Those of us who know him will feel proud and glad.

Of losing this performer who gave all the love and talent he had,
Now he is in Heaven with John Lair, to sing and play,
But no one is really gone until they are forgotten I say,
And as long as there is a bluegrass or country song.

The memory of Old Joe Clark will live on and on.

Old Joke Writers Never Die

By William Jerry Ayers
Old checker players never die, they just move away.

Old bankers never die, they just lose their balance.

Old golfers never die, they just end up in a hole.

Old hoodlums never die, they just lose their cool.

Old bowlers never die, they just end up in a gutter.

Old parades never die, they just float away.

Old football players never die, they just pass their fate away.

Old drug users never die, they just go to pot.

Old fishermen never die, they just smell that way.

Old teachers never die, they just lose their class.

What Is A Wife

By William Jerry Ayers
What is a wife?

A wife is a girl who has packed her dolls and some of her dresses away,
A woman with a lot of letters packed away in a show box and a snapshot album that is hardly ever opened, each a fragile link with girlhood, each so treasured and so forgotten.

A wife has stepped from that lovely ped of girlhood into the hurried world of an after school.

Get that man up, turn on that stove, fry that steak that toast.

Do that wash, dust that furniture, mop that dirty floor.

Get the kids off to school, pick them up after school.

Wives come in all sizes, available in weights from 98 pounds to 198.

Still every wife since Eve has been unhappy about her size, and thinks she is 140 pounds too heavy.

A wife is master of all trades. She is a banker, a nurse, a gardener, a laundress, a cook and a bureau of information.

She can let down a hem and make supper for a guest with two cans, a pound of beef and a head of lettuce.

A wife likes new things, going places, grandchildren, talking on the phone, kittens and other poopees birthday.

A wife has a purse and into this carryall, she can pack enough things to outfit a camping trip.

Still she'll be for the life of her car never find her car keys.

As the years roll on with many a hope and dream will be packed away tenderly with the dolls, her box of memories and her snapshot album.

Time softens her beauty, and strengthens her love.
For she comes alive and feels young and playful again when the wife becomes a grandmother.

A wife is someone who knows and understands that a hug and a kiss on the cheek from a family member means that she is the most wonderful and loved girl in the world.

Rocks vs. Southwestern

By Preston Parrett
The color guard moved away from the field
And they had a rocky road,
But back on the home turf
On the warriors they'd unload.

It was the Rocks home opener
And they needed to get on a roll,
And there was no better place to start
Than the Jamboree Bowl.

The Rocks had strong support
For a good sized crowd was on hand,
And their spirit was juiced up
By the dance team, flag corps and band.

The sidelines had a new carpet
And things were looking great,
And all they needed was a victory
So they could celebrate.

Fireworks lit up the sky
And Big Bertha sounded like a sonic boom.

As the Rocks took to the field,
Vowing that past the warriors they'd zoom.

The color guard presented the colors
And the game got underway
Soon it was apparent to all
That it would be a Rock day.

On the home side of the field
David Brock was on the prowl,
And when the Rocks did something special
He would wave his Rocket towel.

Chris Parsons scored on a three yard run
And opened up a tidal wave,
As the warriors of Southwestern
Dug themselves an early grave.

The warriors had left home
Without their crazy glue,
And they gave the Rocks help
With an untimely miscue.

The warriors fumbled with 3:16 to go
Then Josh Singleton put on a show,
For the first play on a six yarder
Over the goal line he did.

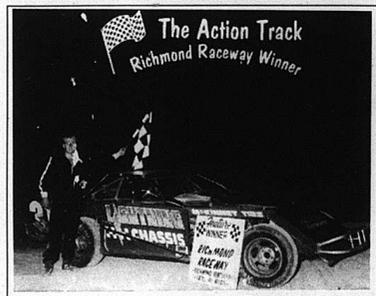

Now with eleven seconds left in the first
The Warriors were out of luck,
As Speedy Singleton on five yarder
Over the goal line did truck.

At the end of the first quarter
The score was twenty one zip,
But during the second quarter
Speedy scored on sixteen yard trip.

When halftime rolled around
The Rocks had twenty eight,
While the Warriors of Southwestern
Couldn't get past the Rock defensive gate.

During the second half
The defenses controlled the field.
As the Rocks and Warriors
Fought hard and would not yield.

Congrats to coaches, team, band, cheerleaders, dance team and honor guard.
That's the way to go.
For all of you working together
Really puts on a great show.

Congratulations Anthony Reams

Low Impact Logging Field Days to be held

The Cumberland Valley and Kentucky River RCD Councils and the Kentucky Chapter of The Nature Conservancy will be hosting three Low Impact Logging Field Days in late September. The main attraction of the field days will be a horse logging demonstration by Modern Horse Logging Inc. of Hardin County. Modern Horse Logging is widely known as a leader and trend setter in the Horse Logging Industry. According to Gary Anderson, who with his wife, Beth, is the owner of Modern Horse Logging they will demonstrate tree that Doyle scale indicates.

According to Rodney Hendrickson, Cumberland Valley RCD Coordinator, "the most exciting results of using these woodland harvesting techniques is the forest remains a forest instead of being reduced to a monoculture, and the timber can be harvested in a 15 to 20 year rotation, with each harvest improving the quality of the remaining trees."

The field day for Rockcastle County will be held on September 25, at 9:00 a.m. at Bob & Edwina Fields at ClefRok.

The Woodland professionals will also be on hand to provide brief programs and answer questions at the field day. The field days are being funded by The Natural Resources Conservation Service Challenge Grant program and the Kentucky Division of Water Section 319 (b) grant program. For more information or to register for the tours please call one of the following phone numbers: Rockcastle County Conservation District 606-256-2541, ext. 3 or Cumberland Valley RCD Council Inc. at 606-864-2172 ext. 116.

Dukes of Hazzard Reunion held Saturday at Renfro Valley

John Schneider, above left, and Tom Wopat, right, better known as Bo and Luke Duke, took time Saturday during their Dukes of Hazzard Reunion to pose for pictures with hundreds of fans. Thousands of fans visited Renfro Valley to see the Duke boys, Sonny Shroyer—Deputy Sheriff Enos as part of the reunion tour. The show's 1969 Dodge Charger, the General Lee, was also a big hit with fans. Schneider and Wopat signed autographs and posed for pictures until 1 a.m. Sunday morning. Below, Cass Quiggins of Berea posed for a picture with the General Lee.

Senior Vanessa Mink, center, daughter of Larry Mink of Mt. Vernon and Anna Williams of Cleves, Ohio was crowned 1998 Jamboree Bowl Queen at RCHS on Friday night. Miss Mink, center, was escorted by Stevie Bradley. Runners-up were, left, Migon Looney, daughter of Darrell and Vicky Goff of Mt. Vernon and right, Jennifer Cromer, daughter of Troy and Verla Cromer of Mt. Vernon.

At left, Rockcastle head coach Tom Larkey, accepts the Renfro Valley Jamboree Bowl trophy from Jeff Blair of Renfro Valley Folks Inc. Larkey and his teams have won eight of nine Jamboree Bowls. Friday's win was over Southwestern Pulaski County 28-0. Also in the photo are captains, Andy Hale, #2 and Josh Martin, #77.

At far right, #44 Josh Singleton received the most valuable offensive player award and Brooks Ingram, #25 was the defensive player of the game.

Rockets thump Warriors 28-0 for first win

Perform like Rocket teams of old

By: Dackery Larkey
The reports of their death for the 1998 football season were greatly overexaggerated.

And just as Renfro Valley is known for great country music, it was the Rocket's great performance on the football field Friday night, that led to the Rockets first win of the season, when they handily defeated the Southwestern Warriors, 28-0 in the ninth annual Renfro Valley Jamboree Bowl.

The Rockets scored four times in the first half and played some great defense the entire game, to gain their first victory of 1998 before a large home crowd.

The Rockets simply looked like the Rockets of old, playing with emotion and executing well on both sides of the football.

The Rockets took the opening kick-off and proceeded to march 65 yards on a 14 yard drive that gave them a 7-0 lead.

Sophomore Derrick Bussell got the Rockets rolling with a seven yard gain, then sophomore Josh Singleton gained eight yards and senior Brooks Ingram picked up two more.

Then it was sophomore quarterback Christopher Parsons' turn.

Parsons completed four passes in a row, to three different receivers.

Senior Andy Hale caught an eleven yard pass, Bussell then caught a twelve yard pass and Hale caught another six yard pass and senior Josh Hendrickson caught a seven yard pass to move the Rockets inside the fifteen yard line.

Singleton made two more good runs before Parsons finished off the drive on a five yard touchdown run after he could not find any receivers open.

Placekicker Greg Terry added the first of four extra points on the night and the Rockets lead 7-0.

The Rockets used almost eight minutes in the opening drive. It didn't take the Rockets long to strike again.

Terry's kick-off sailed into the end zone giving Southwestern the ball on the 70 yard line.

On their third play from scrimmage the Warriors fumbled the ball and Andy Hale recovered it.

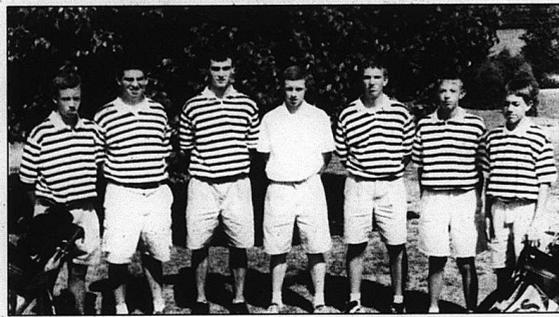

Derrick Bussell ran for 24 yards to set up a seven yard touchdown run by Josh Singleton. After Terry's kick the Rockets would lead 14-0.

Things would get worse for Southwestern before the first quarter ended.

Golf Notes

The Rockcastle County High School Rocket golf season is well underway. The team has had good success in recent years with an appearance in the state tournament in 1996. This year's squad includes, from left: Jeremy Neeley, Brian Reynolds, Andrew Cash, Billy Hackworth, Layne Nicely, John Bray and Joseph Lambert. The team is coached by Barry Noble.

Senior Layne Nicely, son of Jeff and Gina Nicely of Mt. Vernon was this year's Champion on the Pepsi Challenge Tour Golf Circuit. Nicely is also the number one ranked golfer on the Rockets team and in the top five in the 13th region.

Pat Hansel, a former Morehead State and Cumberland College golfer was this year's winner of the Men's Club Championship at Cedar Rapids Country Club. Hansel won his first club championship with a four under par score of 140.

"It Is Written"

Paul said in 1 Tim 6:6-10, "But godliness with contentment is great gain. For we brought nothing into this world and it is certain we can carry nothing out. And having food and raiment let us be therewith content. But they that will be rich fall into temptation and a snare, and into many foolish and hurtful lusts, which draw them in destruction and perdition. For the love of money is the root of all evil, which while some coveted after, they have erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows."

Heb 13:5a says, "Let your covetousness; and be content with such things as ye have." We live in a very affluent society, and such has its dangers. These passages teach us to be content with food and clothes. Yet far too many in our country, though having these necessities are discontent. Even among those who are God's people, sometimes are given over to discontentment and become covetousness. Contentment is a "learned" quality according to Phil 4:11, "for I have learned, in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content." It does not come automatically, nor are we born with the disposition of contentment.

Covetousness is such a subtle and destructive thing among people of the world, and even God's people are not immune from such temptations. As we read in 1 Tim. 6, some erred from the faith because of the love of money. Covetousness leads people to steal, cheat, lie, sell their bodies, murder, and the more subtle forms of spiritual suicide, compromises and worldliness.

When will we ever learn that "a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." Luke 12:15. The Lord is looking for people who will serve him and not mammon, (which is the god of riches), Mt. 6:24. Discontentment and covetousness can wreck our health, and our soul. Thus, "Let us therewith be content."

The following first appeared in the Mount Vernon Signal on September 14, 1906. It was recently transcribed from microfilm of that issue of the Signal. One of my Internet genealogy friends, Mrs. Cindy Durham Crawford, of Batavia, Ohio loaned me some of her University of Kentucky King Library microfilms of the Signal. I thought it would be a nice gesture to share these gleanings with the Signal's present readers.

LOCAL NEWS
Are you working for the bond issue, if not, why not? Have you subscribed for the pike over old town hill? The watermelon days of 1906 will soon be a thing of the past. Cashier M.B. Salin has moved into the residence of Judge L.W. Bethurum, recently vacated by B.J. Bethurum. NOTICE: My handle mail at Mt. Vernon will continue to run until Christmas. All parties having property suitable for handles which they desire to sell are requested to get it in by that time. Mill will be moved January 1st, 1907. E.T. Wheller, Agent, Turner-Day & Woolworth Handle Company. No matter what other kind of advertising you do, be sure to use the newspapers. If you have tried newspaper advertising and not found success, your advertising was poorly written or your system was wrong. Newspaper advertising can be made to pay anyone who uses it right. If the right goods and right prices are right behind the talk. RHODE ISLAND ADVERTISER. Richmond has an ordinance requiring citizens to cut the weeds on the streets and alley adjoining their property. The property owners refused, alleging that it was the duty of the city to do it. Judge Greenleaf, of the city court, has decided that the ordinance is valid and citizens must obey it. WINCHESTER DEMOCRAT. Mt. Vernon has an ordinance requiring the property owners to keep the streets in front of their property clean, but there is no effort on the part of the town authorities to enforce it. Agricultural Commissioner Hubert Vreeland, has set Tuesday and Wednesday, October 16 and 17 as the dates for holding the Farmers' Institute in this county. An ample force of lecturers and profitable meeting for Rockcastle is assured. Here is minister who appreciates the editor. At a recent editorial convention he offered the following toast: "To save an editor from starvation take his paper and pay for it promptly. To save him from bankruptcy, advertise in his paper liberally. To save him from despair, send him every item of news of which you can get hold. To save him from profanity, write your correspondence on one side of the sheet and send it to him as early as possible. To save him from a bad name, advise him. Do not be the only ones who never make mistakes." Newspaper readers would do well to remember that there are no perfect people — editors or readers.

We want one or two columns on the road question every issue until the election. Jonas McMillan has just completed the new room to his store which he will use for clothing. Our correspondence have undoubtedly gone on strike this week as only two put in their appearance. We are glad to state that Mr. James McDonald is still in the Brown Memorial School. If the town trustees will appropriate every cent of the treasury for the building of the pike over the town hill they will have done a good thing and will receive the plaudit of the people for so doing. About two months ago, Mr. H.C. Gentry lost his watch chain, a gold amon, which he valued very highly because of the fact that it belonged to his father. A diligent search was made in vain to find it, and all hope was lost in trying to find it again. On Monday, Mrs. Gentry was dressing of his son Tommy in his gizzard found the most prized chain. The Brown Memorial School, opened here Monday with a good attendance. Several new teachers have been added and the school is better equipped than ever before. All the old pupils are back with many new ones, and this is sure to be a flourishing year. The people of this county should take great interest in the school and do all in their power for the upbuilding of the same. The case of Joe Taylor against the L&N R.R., Co., for the killing of his son Tommy, was called Monday and has occupied the entire time of the court this week. Attorneys C.C. Williams and Robert Harding, of Danville, represented the plaintiff, the defense being presented by Atty. J.W. Brown and Judge Alford of Stanford. The case went to the jury yesterday. LATER the case went to the jury about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and after being out about 15 minutes, returned with a verdict of $10,000, the full amount asked for in the suit. The case will be appealed. Dr. Dr. About two o'clock yesterday, the spirit of Mrs. T. Fish took it flight to a grander and nobler world. The deceased was about 70 years of age and belonged to one of the oldest and most prominent families in the county. For a long time she had been a sufferer from stomach trouble, but her condition had not been considered serious until a month or six weeks ago, and since that time, she had been gradually growing weaker. She leaves two sons, Rev. M.G. Fish and J. Fish, the merchant. The burial will take place today at the Hiatt burying ground, beside her husband, who was the late Judge Will Fish. MONEY BEING RAISED FOR PIKE. Money is being raised among the people here by private subscription for the building of a pike across the old town hill. The proposed route starting at the residence of C.C. Williams and M.J. Miller on Main Street and ending at the corporate limits. The pike will follow the line of the old road, but will follow in part a new right of way which will be donated by M.J. Miller and Fritz Krueger. At present this is one of the worst roads in the county and it is the worse one leading into town. Last winter for months the road was so muddy that the wagons sank into the mud over the hubs of the wheels and at times was absolutely impassable. Over this road all the coal is brought into town, and is in winter traveled more than any roads leading into Mt. Vernon. The building of the pike will be rather expensive owing to the grade, but this sum is quickly being subscribed by all public spirited citizens of the town. The pike is in this place a necessity and all should give their aid. Messrs. Miller and Krueger have most generously donated land which was valuable, and all others are falling in line with nice amounts. If Mt. Vernon takes the lead in building this bit of pike, the people of the county will soon realize that a pike is not a luxury but a necessity and for Rockcastle to ever be classed a successful and prosperous county, pikes must be built throughout the whole of it.

A look back at Rockcastle County

Reprinted from the 1992 Rockcastle History Book which was published by the Rockcastle County Historical Society

History of Extension Service in Rockcastle County
 Frank Montgomery, first County agent in Kentucky, was appointed September 1, 1912 to begin work in Southern Madison and Rockcastle Counties. The funds for this and seven other appointments, through April 1, 1913 were furnished by the office of Farm Management of the United States Department of Agriculture and the county in which the work is done, on an approximate half-and-half basis.

Mr. Montgomery was called Special Investigator and Demonstrator. He was working under an agreement between Berea College and the United States Department of Agriculture made in 1912. This really was the start of county agent work, two years before the Smith-Lever Act in Congress started the present program, and an early sign of the pioneering work Berea College has done through the years in connection with county agent work.)

The Extension Service was officially established in 1914 by the Federal Smith-Lever Act. For the most part, it is financed cooperatively by Federal, State and County governments, thus the name Cooperative Extension Service. After passage of the Smith-Lever Act, Robert F. Spence was employed, July 1, 1914, as county agent of Rockcastle and Southern Madison counties, and served in this capacity for 40 years. Under the set-up Berea College cooperated with the Extension work with the University of Kentucky, Rockcastle County and the United States Department of Agriculture.

During the forty year period Mr. Spence served as county agent, approximately forty assistant county agents received a part of their training in South Madison and Rockcastle, County.

In 1913, county extension work in home economics was begun in Kentucky. Miss Ella Carson was appointed Home Demonstration Agent for Rockcastle County, February 1, 1914. Rockcastle, Madison and Magoffin counties were the first counties served by home agents in Kentucky.

Many of the first appointments of County Home Demonstration workers were for summer months only. This was due to the popularity of funds were obtained to appoint women for the summer months to give instruction in canning.

The first full-fledged home demonstration agent started work in Madison and Rockcastle Counties in 1928. The work was sponsored by Berea College who financed the county appropriation.

Homemakers Clubs were first organized in communities of South Madison, around Berea in 1929, with one club in central Madison near Richmond called the "Pond Club." The Pond Club grew rapidly and soon women from five communities were enrolled in the club. The agent in Rockcastle and South Madison territory was allowed this one club out of the territory, and could not divide the club. The women of Central Madison saw the need for a Home Demonstration Agent stationed at Richmond. Because of their enthusiasm for the work, the women of the Pond Club convinced the Fiscal Court of Madison County of this need and they appropriated for a Home Demonstration Agent in February of 1930. The club withdrew from the Rockcastle and South Madison County Homemaker's Association at the Annual Homemaker's meeting, August 5, 1930 and was divided into five Homemaker's Clubs — into a Madison County Homemaker's Association.

By 1931, the Homemaker's Clubs of Rockcastle and South Madison were united into a County Homemaker's Organization. There were eight communities organized and carrying a full program of work. There were seven communities organized in special groups and carrying on activities suited to the community needs.

According to records, the clubs located in Rockcastle County were: Livingston and Wildie, with others in Southern Madison.

Effective July 1, 1957, the Southern Madison Area was absorbed into the Northern Madison County program. Rockcastle County was set up as a single County unit. The change in the bi-county arrangement came as a result of a mutual agreement between Berea College and the University of Kentucky Extension Service following Berea College's decision to end it's subsidy to the local program.

The Rockcastle County Extension District Board was set up on that date to finance the County Extension Program.

The first full time 4-H position in Rockcastle County was established in July 1979. The funding was divided by the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court and the Extension District Board. In 1985, the Extension District Board assumed full funding of Rockcastle Cooperative Extension Service, in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture and University of Kentucky. The Extension offices in Rockcastle County were housed in the County School Administration Building until a new Courthouse was built in 1964. In 1986 the office moved to the Agriculture Service Center on Richmond Street in Mt. Vernon, along with the ASCS and Soil Conservation Offices.

Agents serving in the County were:
 Agriculture: Frank Montgomery, September 1, 1912 - April 1, 1913; Robert F. Spence, July 1, 1914 - August 31, 1954; H. Lee Durham, August 31, 1954 - February 29, 1980; Paul Mills (While Mr. H. Promoting Healthy Weight Awareness in Teens

By: Hazel Jackson
County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

The teen years are a time of great concern about physical appearance and body weight. We must carefully craft the messages we send to teens about how to achieve and maintain a healthy weight. These teens could be at risk for developing dysfunctional eating patterns or eating disorders. Other teens may be aware that they have a weight problem, but have difficulty using diet and exercise to achieve their weight goals. Overweight teens may experience great social pressure and prejudice. Research has shown that children as young as six have negative opinions about obese people. It is difficult for obese children to develop a healthy self-image because of prejudicial attitudes from other children, parents or teachers.

Healthy people come in many shapes and sizes. It is important for teens to realize this and to accept themselves. If a teen wants to change his or her body size or shape, the best approach is to make opportunities for healthy eating and exercise available and appealing.

America is getting the part of the message from the Food Guide Pyramid: fat intake is down. However, calorie intake is from sweeteners, primarily those from soft drinks and snack foods. Soft drinks and snack foods can be part of a healthy diet when calories are not a concern. But when teens must spend their calories carefully, milk, juice, water or a diet soft drink is a better choice. Fried foods also contribute unwanted fat and calories. So, cutting back on soft drinks and fried foods is a good place for most teens to make changes in diet. A healthy eating pattern of 3 meals, including breakfast, is recommended. Snacks can be part of a healthy eating pattern, especially fresh fruit, yogurt or cereal.

Physical activity is thought to play a major role in weight management and positive health behavior in teens. National surveys estimate that participation in physical activity by children ages 10-17 is declining 2-3% per year in boys and 3-7% in girls. Among Kentucky high school students in 1997, less than one-third participated in walking or biking activities. As students reach higher grade levels, they participate in less physical activity and fewer sports. Providing opportunities for exercise and encouragement to be physically active is perhaps the most important thing schools, communities and families can do to help overweight teens.

Helping teens develop a healthy weight awareness begins with building self-esteem. Teens should understand that concerns about weight are related to health. Opportunities for healthy eating and physical activity in a supportive environment can help teens achieve a healthy weight and a brighter future.

Local skin care and image consultant helps develop new lipstick at national conference

Donna McClure of London, Juanita Westerfield of Corbin, Margie Malone of Corbin and Aletha Bryant of London/Livingston, were among 4,000 entrepreneurs to attend Celebration '98, BeautiControl's annual conference in Nashville, Tennessee. As a professionally-certified Skin Care and Image Consultant, Donna, Juanita, Margie and Aletha participated in the company's first-ever interactive workshops. Consultants helped develop a new BeautiControl Lasting Lip Color and took samples home, helped choose colors for BeautiControl's spring 1999 limited glamour collection and learned about the hottest new makeup techniques and fashion trends for fall.

At Celebration, BeautiControl debuted new Positively You Eau de Parfum and Body Creme, developed by BeautiControl Chairman Jinger Heath and the world's largest fragrance house, the Positively You fragrance features aromacology ingredients to evoke positive emotions within every woman. The fragrance was inspired by Jinger's motivational book, Positively You, available at bookstores nationwide.

BeautiControl also showcased its new glamour packaging, featuring sophisticated, sleek, high-gloss black compacts and tubes with the gold BeautiControl logo. Heralding the new design was BeautiControl's breathtaking Symphony fall limited collection, featuring eye, lip, cheek and nail shades in bold and muted tones to complement fall's rich, elegant fashions.

BeautiControl Skin Care and Image Consultants help people look and feel their best through customized skin care and beauty products, and exclusive image services which help them save time and money. These include complimentary color analysis, Skin Condition Analysis with patented Skin Sensors and head-to-toe image analysis. BeautiControl has 50,000 Skin Care and Image Consultants through North America, Europe and the Pacific Rim, and reported 1997 retail sales of $125 million.

Mike Snider at Renfro September 18 and 19

There is one reason only that an entertainer is invited to Renfro Valley - because they are good at what they do.

Banjo picker extraordinary and country comedian Mike Snider finds himself just that situation. Snider was a crowd favorite at Renfro Valley earlier in 1998, commanding a repeat performance.

Banjo Picking Championship and immediately headed for a guest appearance on the Grand Ole Opry.

The veteran entertainer's success on the Grand Ole Opry led to appearances on the Nashville Now Show, hosted by Ralph Emery and a seven year stint as a cast member of the Hee Haw Show.

Even with his hectic schedule, which includes 650 shows a year, Snider has found time to record seven albums.

For a night of great family entertainment in a setting second to none in country music, you must see Mike Snider at Renfro Valley. For tickets and reservations for this special concert and all other Renfro Valley shows, concerts and special events call 800-765-7464 or 606-256-2638. Gearing up for cleanup

Over 28 thousand trash bags were delivered to the Somerset PRIDE - Personal Responsibility in a Desirable Environment - office. The trash bags were purchased by the Beverage Industry Recycling Program (BIRP) for use during the PRIDE Fall Cleanup, November 7th-14th. Each of the 40 counties in the PRIDE area will receive over 700 trash bags to be used during their county cleanup this fall.

Fay Gillespi, Executive Director of BIRP, says the program is very pleased to be a part of the PRIDE initiative. Gillespi says he sees PRIDE as an enhancement of BIRP, which was formed in 1980, for the specific purpose of promoting recycling and cleaning up litter.

The bags were purchased from the Kroger Company, a member of BIRP. The trash bags will be distributed by Area Development Districts and PRIDE Coordinators in the next few weeks.

Cathy Hall, PRIDE Administrative Assistant, says PRIDE is very thankful for this generous gift from BIRP and looks forward to a long, working partnership with the beverage industry.

Child Abuse—A Matter of Fact

By Peter O. Samples, State Chairman, Common Characteristics Among Abusers

The last two articles have been devoted to the discussion of common characteristics shared by those who abuse and/or neglect children. Among those characteristics discussed to date are ISOLATION, POOR SELF-CONCEPT, IMMATURITY, LACK OF PARENTING KNOWLEDGE, SUBSTANCE - abuse, etc. The trash bag characteristics which must be mentioned in order to complete the scope of identified characteristics. Many abusers and child neglectors lack INTERNATIONAL SKILLS. These adults have never learned to interact with people. They do not know how to form relationships, socialize, and work together. These are skills which should have been learned as children. Lastly, often the abusive or neglectful parent has not met the basic emotional needs which we all share such as warmth, support and love. The adult is unable to provide the child with these feelings which let us grow and mature. These adults will, instead, seek fulfillment from the child.

There are many indicators present within the family where abuse and/or neglect is occurring. Next time, we will explore these indicators which may be different for each type of abuse and for neglect.

To obtain more information about child abuse and neglect, call our hotline number at 1-800-468-8920.

Hospice Care Plus offers hospice training

Hospice Care Plus, Inc. will offer in-depth training sessions on Friday, September 18th and Saturday, September 19th, which cover areas relating to death and dying and caring for friends or loved ones with terminal illness. While the training is primarily for volunteers who are interested in working with terminally ill patients and their families, any community member interested in learning more about the Hospice concept, death, dying and grief, are welcome to attend.

Hospice Care Plus, which serves Estill, Jackson, Lee, Madison, Owsley and Rockcastle counties, is in need of volunteers who can attend this training and serve as part of our patient care team. Volunteers function much as a friend by being a good listener, assisting with errands, and offering brief periods of relief for caregivers.

Other volunteers provide assistance to the Hospice offices through clerical work and help with fund-raising
