The 1999 burley tobacco season

The 1999 burley tobacco season
will offer a new method of packaging tobacco at warehouses called the unitized package. It is different from the conventional way of displaying a pile of tobacco on the warehouse floor which show tobacco bales stacked and banded with one open bale on the top of the stack called the cap bale. This cap bale lays loose allowing for any handling of the tobacco.

allowing for any numerous coloracco.

The unitized package stacks bales of tobacco upon each other with one cap bale flanked open for observation. The difference is that the unitized package is completely flanded. The cap bale is not available for handling, but it still easily shows abe quality of the pile of tobacco.

Chapter 27
The first tobacco patch lever saw was the one Mat planted in a newly cleared section of ground that would hare be our garden. At that time I was completely ignorant of anything to do with the planting, growing or har-assing of it. The only thing I have was cigarates and cigars were made from it and neither was good or you, My dad smoked but it was a strict no no for any of his children to dot. We girds obe ped him, at least toll doe were grown, but the boys. Fin afraid, didn't jisten or didn't beit with for they seeked out tory it, and hare most of them were addicted, and where they would go to find the best supes, ones that were not smoked to the end, and hide them to smoked to Chapter 27

I know some of them reached the washtub via pockets that had not been emptied before washing. But grow-ing it was a new experience and after the first sale, which brought ten dolthe first sale, which brought ten doil are or so. I shought that would be the last I would hear of it. But that was also before I knew that growing in bacco was a way of life for most of the small farmers. Big ones too, as I cleared much later. So we were hooked. This trial patch was planted the second summer we lived there. We had tried several things, but to become write most lasting and not-

We had tried several things, but to-bacco was the most lasting and prof-itable. It is still grown on the farm. About this time Mat decided we would raise chickens for the market. So, we ordered books and brochures on the best kind to raise in odr area and finally settled on White Rocks.

They were recommended for their size and especially the plump beast meat. They were also above average for laying hens to the control of the properties of t neighborhood to help with the building but his inexperience and inability to read instructions caused several problems. For one, the mound in the center of the building above the furnace where heat was concentrated was too thin on top and the chicks arrived the building was ready and we were in business. Or so we thought. What we were in for was a lot of heart-breaking work. 200 peeping little building was ready and we were in business. Or so we thought. What chicks timbling over each of the building was the waste of the building was the waste in business. Or so we had a beautiful flock of white chickens. Their big brown eggs added to our food supply and the meat was just what the adversaments said. Large thick thighest and drumsticks with enough white breast meat to take care of the whole family.

But where was the market? Our family.

But where was the market? Our neighbors had their own flocks. There was no such thing as a farmers market in Somerset, so what were we to do with all these eggs? We found one restaurant that gave us an order for two to five dressed hens every Saturday for their Stunday dinner. Mat finally gave up and took at ruck loaded with most of them to Cincinnait to sell at the farmers market there, I think he got a dollar a piece for them. So, so much for that venture. We kept enough for our own use and for the occasional neighbor or restaurant owner that wanted a special treat. There is nothing like a pot of chicken downer that wanted a special treat. There is nothing like a pot of chicken and dumplings made from one of these hens with the tender but plentiful meats to flavor the broth with.

I was learning how to be a farmer's wife all right but Mat seemed to be having trouble making how to be a farmer's wife all right but Mat seemed to be having trouble making the word be. He had been working out as he had planned. I really think this soluted area was an reed of challenge then he had thought it would be. of the community.

It was his tenacity and untiring effort to get a road built from Highway 80 to Mt. Vernon, that resulted in one being finished 35 years after we approached the department of highways, first in our County seat. Mt. Vernon, with no results. To to Frankfort where Mat and to Frankfort where Mat and Rosco Norton attended every road meeting they heard about and finally got the attention of an official that would sincerely listen to them and recog-nized the importance of such a road. In 1950 this road, 1249, was begun and bit by bit, and mile by mile, it crept toward Mt. Vernon. I think it was 1971 or there-about, gravel was put on the last five mile section that joined the two sections, one begin-ning at Highway 80, the other in Mt. Vernon and Mat's dream of an all weather road to the County Seat was alized.

Foreign Exchange Program seeking local families

American Intercultural Student Exchange (AISE), a non-profit educational foundation, is seeking local host families for high school age exchange students for the 1999-2000 school year. AISE students live with American families and attend local high schools during their ten month cultural exchange. Host families including single parents, provide these young ambassadors with a bedroom, meals and a family atmost phere in which to live. The student are eager to learn about our government, history and customs while leaving a lasting impression of their culture in the hearts of their host familie ting in the hearts of their managers.

Call AISE today at 1-800-SIB-LING or visit our web site at www.aise.com for information on hosting a student in your home.

Department offers free web site service

The status symbol of the 1990s is a site on the World Wide Web. But a web site is much more than that: It's a way to reach millions of people around the world. Now, eligible farmers and farm businesses can have their own web sites with the help of the Kentucky Department of Agriculture.

Child Abuse—A Matter of Fact

By. Peter O. Samples,

A Point to Remember A Point to Remember

A perpetrator of child abuse or neglect can be any person who has care, custody, or control of the child at the relevant time. This could inrent, teacher, babysitter or clude parent, teacher, banystuer or day care staff person, relative, insti-tution staff person, bus driver, play-ground attendant, caretaker, boy/girl-friend, or anyone with whom the child has contact. There are also instances neglect perpetrated by another, for example, when a parent allows the spouse to physically or sexually abuse their child, or when a child is left in inappropriate care and subsequently suffers abuse or neglect. The fact is there are no simple answers. Abo or neglect rarely occurs in clear, simple and specific terms. Abuse or Neglect usually result from complex combinations of a range of human and situational factors

Back-to-school time is not just for kids anymore

By Richard W. Riley, U.S. Secretary of Educatio Back-to-school time has alw been exciting for children. It's a ti to meet new friends, new teach and resume the adventure of lea ing.

But back-to-school time is not just

But back-to-sub-for kids anymore.

If our schools are going to do the job we expect them to do, everyone must pitch in and help. That includes parents and everyone in the commu-parents and everyone in the community.

The fact is, schools today can't do be job alone. There are more children in our schools this fall than ever before—more, even, than at the height of the baby boom! There is more diversity—in some schools, students come from dozens of nations. We are living in the Information Age, a time when our nation's economy and security depend more on the quality of education than at any other time in our history. That's why more and more states and communities are requiring students and teachers to reach for high standards of learning, and why the public is demanding real results for its tax dollars.

So 1 e agoorage every parent.

results for its tax dollars.

So I enjourage every parent, family and citizen to use this back-to-school season to make a personal commitment to supporting better education in their community. When children are surrounded by adults ormmunities that value education, they get the message that their education is simportant. And they're more tion is important. And they're more likely to buckle down and do their best. When children see that adults best. When children see that adults and communities that value education, they get the message that their education is important. And they're more likely to buckle down and do their best. When children see that adults and communities don't care about education, they get the oppo-site message. And we all lose.

To spread the message about the nce of family and com nity involvement in education, the U.S. Department of Education conducts a national initiative each year called "America Goes Back to School." We hold events all around the nation to stir excitement for the on. This year, I'm new school season. This year, I'm personally taking a five-state bus tour to spread the message. I'll be travel-ing through Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina and North Carolina. If you pass me on the high-way, be sure to wave. I'll also be and Midwest.

We've also prepared a colorful, fact-filled "America Goes Back to School" kit which provides plenty of good ideas for getting involved in your schools and staying involved all year long. It's called, "Challenge Our Students: and They Will Soar," and you can get a free kit by simply call-ng the U.S. Department of Educa-tion at 1-800-USA-LEARN, or by siting our web site at www.ed.gov/ imily/agbts.

Here are a few ideas that can get you started:

Employers: Be "family-friendly."
Give your employees the time to meet with teachers or volunteer for school activities. It's good for education, and good for your bottom line. Give ing parents flexible work schedules helps you keep your top-notch workers. Also, encourage your employees to be mentors and tutors toi-young work-study experiences. And invite teachers into your workplace to show them the skills that today's workers must have. This will help teachers into teachers into your workplace to show them the skills that today's workers must have. This will help teachers so make sure students take the coarses they'll need to gain those skills.

Parents: Try to slow down your lives and help your children grow. Spend at least 50 minutes a day super-vising your children's education. Start carly, and read to your outget children. Keep in touch with teach-ren. Share books with your older children. Keep in touch with teach-sers. Make sure your children are doing their homework. Keep TV watching to a minimum. And talk with your children frankly about drugs and volonce and the values you want them to have.

Educators, community leaders and law enforcement officials: Many communities are holding town meet-ings with mental health professionals to talk about troubled youth and school violence. Think about hold-ing one in your community. Talk about ways to help troubled youth and find ways to connect each young person to a least one caring adult. Every child should feel that he or she is the most important person in a sall will sile. Creating connections and

Every child should feel that he or he is the most important person in an adult's life. Creating connections and a caring environment in the home, at school, and in the community is an important part of preventing violence. And work with others in your com-munity to develop quality after-school and commerce occurrent. For 't it better and summer programs. Isn't it better to have children in school where they can continue learning, rather than being at home alone or going to the mail to play violent video ga

Make your school parent-friendly. Reach out to families and remove the obstacles that sometimes make them reluctant to get involved in school

Students: Challenge yourselves!
Take the tough courses in middle and high school that will put you on the road to college and careers. Take algebra in 8th grade, geometry in 9th grade, and physics, chemistry and trignometry in high school. Take tech prep and other career courses. Studies show that students who take Studies show that students who take academically challenging high school courses are more likely to attend and complete college and earn more in the work world, regardless of their family's financial_status, race or gender.

Elementary school students should focus on reading, reading and reading—and math, too. Develop those basic skills. And no child should be basic skills. And no child should be promoted to a grade they're not ready for. Let's get rid of social promotion. If some children aren't making the grade, give them the extra help they need, either after-school or over the weekends and summers.

At the national level, we're working hard to provide communities like yours with more of the resources you'll need to accomplish these goals. If Congress agrees, we will expand after-school programs, help reduce class by hiring 100,000 well-prepared teachers, fund safe and drug-free schools programs, provide mentors for middle school students and put them on the road to college, and build or modernize schools to alloviate overcrowding and putcomputers into every classroom. Technology is citically important if we're going to prepare our children for success in the 21st century. If you want to get involved, you don't have to go it alone. Building partnerships is the key, Join with others in your community to determine your school's needs and principals how you can support their efforts.

No one stand taller than when they stoop down to help a child. Get involved with your community's young people, and you will stand taller—and feel taller—than you ever have. Back-to-school time is the perfect time to start.

This will cut down warehouse costs of having to keep the floors swept and clean of loose tobacco leaves: "It will create a neater, cleaner looking warehouse." said Denny Wilson, Excutive Director of the Burley Auction Warehouse Association.

Another advantage of the unitized package is lesser amounts of broken bands. The unitered package has three 1/2 inch steel bands compared to the two 3/8 inch bands of the past. Fur-thermore, companies will not have to spend money on rebanding the piles of tobacco before shipping because the unitized package is already banded. Another advantage of the unitized

Unitized packaging is not com-pletely new. Last'year, a select group of volunteer warehouses offered unitized packaging to farmers. The success of their experiment is why warehouses and tobacco organiza-tions have moved forward with unitized packaging this year. The 60 million pounds of tobacco sold as unitized packages were just as desir able to the companies as the conven-tional piles. HELPFUL ADVICE COMES FROM FAITH AND A POPULAR SONG

As you probably remember, there was a song last fall which became an instant success, and not entirely because it was catchy and cleverly written. What really made it such a tremendous hit was the made it such a tremendous hit was the good advice it contained, simply stated in four words and repeated throughout. It told us not to worry about our problems, giving examples of some of them, but instead to "be happy." Of course, many of our woes require some action on our part to solve them, but just showing our arixiety will only upset those around us. Perhaps the best way to follow the song's advice is to attend our House of Worship and trust the Lord to provide the answers. Worry will not solve any problem, and we should be grateful to that song writer for reminding us of this fact.

receive a check at the tobacco warbuse must have required paperwork signed and on file in the office prior to receiving the marketing card for price support. The required paperwork includes: an AD-1026 (sodbuster), FSA-570 (insurance waiver) and the MQ-38 (posticide form). If you as a producer have an address change-please notify our office as soon as possible so the marketing card will reflect the correct address.

Loan Deficiency Payments
Producers who have wheat, corn Producers who have wheat, corn or soybeans planted on their farm for 1999 may be eligible for a loan deficiency payment (LDP). The LDP is the difference between the loan rate for the applicable crop and the posted county price for a particular date. Loan rates for 1999 are as follows: Wheat $2.44; Corn $2.00; Soybeans, $5.42.

In order to be eligible for the LDP, roducers must meet the following producers must meet us following requirements:

1. have a crop acreage report on file for 1999. If the report is not on file by the deadfine of July 15th, a late filed crop report can be taken if the producer pays for a late filed charge.

2. the farm must have an acrea was the filed charge.

3. the crop must be harvested before signing applicable forms;

4. producers must NOT have lost beneficial interest in the commodity;

5. producers may choose which day they wish to complete the necessary forms in order to receive the loan deficiency payment.

For LDP's a producer must retain sary forms in order to receive un ream-deficiency payment.

For LDP's, a producer must retain-beneficial interest in the commodity from the time of harvest through the date the LDP is requested. Once beneficial interest in a commodity is lost, the commodity remains ineli-gible for an LDP even if a producer regains control, risk of loss and title. If a producer has intentions to self the commodity, a CCC-709 must be signed before the grain is delivered to be cliable for LDP.

SLOW

BE ALERT TO VISUAL CUES:

Watch for school zone signs, cross walks, school crossing guards, buses, and kids walking along the roadway. Around parked cars, watch for shadows and motion-signs that a child may be present.

SLOW DOWN: At only 20 mph, a car travels 41 feet between the time you see a child and actually stop. If you're sleepy or distracted, reaction time and stopping distances increase. Worn tires and wet pavement have a similar effect.

ALLOW YOURSELF TIME TO REACT: On two-lane streets, move as close to the center line as possible, allowing room for bicyclists and pedestrians. As mornings become darker this fall, drive with your headlights on so that you can see and also be seen.

USE YOUR HORN JUDICIOUSLY: A light touch is all that's really necessary, whereas a blast might scare a child.

USE CAUTION AROUND BUSES: Motorists are required to stop for loading/unloading buses and remain stopped as long as the bus has its red lights flashing and stop sign extended. However, drivers on multi-lane highways (more than 4 lanes) need not stop for loading/unloading school buses traveling in the OPPOSITE direction. Keep in mind that buses require extra room for turning at intersections.

BE PATIENT, PARTICULARLY ON THE WAY HOME:

Risk of accidents is FOUR times greater in the afternoon - due to human psychology. Drivers are less alert and are irritable after a long day at the office. Kids, however, are excited to be out of school. As frustrating as it may be, keep your temper. Being two minutes late for dinner won't kill you or anyone else. Rushing just might.

Making a Smooth Transition Back to School

The Bank of Mt. Vernon wants children of all ages to start the year on the right foot and establish patterns for the entire year. Here are some suggestions for doing that:

- 1. Make sure students are in bed at a reasonable hour on school nights.
- 2. Get students to school on time every day.
- 3. Record all important school dates and events on a calendar.
- 4. Don't talk badly about your child's teacher especially not in front of your child...
- 5. Make plans to be involved in the school and education of your child. Attend regular PTA meetings; look at your child's homework every night.
- 6. Understand that there is a standard of excellence in place that your child can meet if he or she puts forth the effort.
- 7. Parents positive encouragement is vital to children's attitudes toward learning.

The Bank of Mt. Vernon is closely involved with Rockcastle County Schools to help your child surpass average and become extraordinary.

"Mouse Pads," provided by THE BANK OF MT. VERNON, have been placed in computer labs in Rockcastle County Schools.

Library News

We have good news from Brodart. Co. concerning the automation project. We will be shipping our shelf list cards to Brodart sometime in September and the actual process of the strain ferring the records to disk form will hopefully begin in late October. This is about two months earlier than we had previously thought. This will mean that the automation should be finished by the end of this fiscal year. When this becomes a reality, I will have achieved one of the goals that I hoped to accomplish as library director.

In my last news to you, I mentioned the college classes being offered by the Lexington Community College. These classes were developed with assistance from the new Kentucky Commonwealth Virtual Library. I now have more information about the KCVL that I would like to share with our readers.

PUBLIC HEARING

In accordance with the provisions of HB 44 enacted by the 1979 Kentucky General Assembly a dublic hearing has been set by the Rockcastle County Public Library, District Board of Trustees for August 23, 1999 at 10 a.m. at the Rockcastle County Public Library, The purpose of the hearing is to inform the public that the Rockcastle County Public Library District is proposing the 1.87 cent tax rate with anticipated revenue of $41,792.16. This tax rate reflects a 4% increase in anticipated revenue. The tax rate for the preceding year was 1.76 cents with revenues of $36.928.54. The compensating its x rate is 1.8 cents with anticipated revenue of $40,227.75. The expected revenue from new property is $1,077.80. The expected revenue from personal property is $10,056.52. Increase for the 1999/2000 budget year is needed due to the rising costs of books, library materials, and equipment

No-Till Tobacco

Rockcastle and Pulaski County farmers were given an opportunity to see No-Till fobacco being grown on the Harold Ray and Sandy Whitaker farm during a Field Day Held on August 2. Recent developments in new chemicals have made possible weed control in No-Till as well as improving weed control in conventional tobacco. Planting tobacco without plowing and cultivating seems impossible. Keep in mind that the NO-Till constanted in Kentucky in the early '60's and now has progressed to soybears, clover and other crops. In past years, when Rockcastle was part of the same district as Bell County, the Rockets had little or no success against the always larger, faster team success against the arways to be a faster team.

But this season, the Rockets will face a Bell County team that is still rebounding and rebuilding, after losing their all time witningset coach. Dudley Helton to Bourbon County.

The Rock has a good chance to go into Pineville on Hallowen weekend and scare up a victory.

A lot of question marks for the 1999 Rockets

By: Richard Anderkin
An the 1999 Rockets big enough?
On they have enough depth, espoally on the offensive line? Can they try to pen only opinis against some ry good defensive teams?
All of these questions remain to answered as the 1999 season at CISB begins on Friday night.
Head coach Tom Larkey and head sistant Tony Saylor begin their 14thason at RCHS with some big queson marks for this year's squale.

They have possibly their small-est starting line-up ever including the offensive line. Not only is the offensive line small, there are basioffensive line small, there are basically only six players that will see action there.

And because of the lack of depth in many positions, if the Rock is to stay competitive this season they will have to stay healthy.

The Rockets are coming off their

Monday.

"If we are unlucky and get some key players hurt, then who knows with the players hurt, then who knows will be, "Larkey said. Larkey also said that because of a pre-season knee injury to last year's quarterback Chris Parsons, and because back-up Dustin Crawford has worked extremely hard, the quarterback job is still up for grabs. Larkey said that he would make that decision, based on a number of factors, on Friday.

Everyone will know Friday and any decision that its made could change shortly after the game starts, Larkey said.

Larkey said that he thought

Saylor to help his young squad, which will be anchored by linebacker and defensive back Derrick Bradley.

As usual the Rocket defense gave only 87 yards per game on the only four Rockets returning on de ense that saw a lot of action and only fense that saw a lot of action and only two on the defensive line, the Rockets will be tested early and often.

For 1999 look for many 'close
