Former Tech Center will be temporary location

Board will lease space to SourceCorp

By: Richard Anderkin

After a lengthy discussion at their regular monthly meeting last Tuesday, and two special called meetings, the Rockcastle County Board of Education approved an agreement with SourceCorp on Monday that will keep the local company in the county.

The agreement will allow the SourceCorp to temporarily locate in the former Rockcastle Area Technology Center building, while construction of their new facility in Rockcastle Industrial Park #2 takes place.

SourceCorp, along with the Rockcastle Fiscal Court and the Rockcastle Industrial Development Authority (IDA), had been seeking a temporary location for the data processing plant and the old vocational school was the last resort.

"There simply are no more options," a grateful Jim Holton, who serves as the IDA's consultant, told the board.

Holton, County Judge Executive Buzz Carloftis, Magistrate Ralph Allen and IDA Chairman Corey Craig, all thanked the board for their help and approval of the project, saying SourceCorp's planned expansion would have failed without their action.

Board Chairman Martin Vanzant, who voiced major concerns with the agreement from the outset, made the motion to enter into the rental agreement and requested that his remarks be recorded in the minutes.

Vanzant said: "Regardless of how we got to where we are, we are now in the position of voting on whether or not to approve this agreement. I personally do not want to be responsible, as a member of this board, for being the reason this company does not stay (along with current and proposed future jobs) in Rockcastle County.

If the board approves this we are looking for the administrative team to make sure all of the specifics are carried out and that we are made aware of any problems that may arise," Vanzant said.

At Mt. Vernon council meeting Several ask questions about city's proposed annexation

By: Richard Anderkin

There was a standing room only crowd at the Mt. Vernon City Council meeting on Monday night where numerous questions about the city's recent proposed annexation were asked.

The questions and comments came before the council's scheduled second reading and vote on the ordinance that will annex property southwest of the city limits.

The main question posed to the council was who was eligible to sign a petition or petitions to have the matter placed on the 2010 ballot.

Mayor Clarice Kirby told the council that there was not a complete list of the property owners effected by the proposed annexation available on Monday night but that her staff would prepare one and have it ready as soon as possible.

After Kirby's comments, the council voted to pass the second reading of the ordinance, with the stipulation that the city wait an additional week or more to publish the ordinance, so that everyone wanting a list could get one.

City employee Jill Medley, who has worked extensively on the annexation project, said Wednesday that the list would be available at City Hall

This past week our family lost my dad and words can't describe the loss that we are all feeling.

I know mom has written a thank you to all those who have shown so much kindness during this trying time, but I too wanted to add my thanks to everyone for everything.

The following is a short tribute to Dad that I attempted to read at Dad's funeral on Saturday afternoon.

It read ---Mom, myself, my little brother and my five sisters want to thank everyone for coming today to help us celebrate the life of a special man.

Dad was the ultimate example of a husband, father, grandfather and brother.

Of course I'm going to be a little biased when speaking of Dad but the word Special doesn't go far enough to describe him.

In public view, it was obvious Dad had a large family but those of us who knew him best, knew he had even a larger heart.

Dad loved his family, especially his bride of nearly 48 years, with whom he raised this large family.

Many of us know of the great responsiblities that come with being a husband and father and at no time did Dad ever falter in fullfilling those responsibilities to us.

Anyone that knew Dad, especially us, knew he was a man of few words. Dad didn't have to say a lot because he lived by example and when he did speak, you were much better off if you listened and listened

We all knew where Dad stood on most every subject that was on the side of right and doing it right. Foolishness was not a trait Dad admired - but talking ill of his fellow man was not something that he would do either.

There was nothing complicated about Dad - With Dad it was - take what you've got - do the best can do and always do it with the best of intentions.

There is not one single time during his 40 years at this newspaper that Dad and Mom ever allowed something to be printed that there was the slightest possibility that it was biased or wrong.

I can't count the number of times in the 30+ years that I was fortunate enough to work with Dad and Mom that I've said "Dad what do you think? How should we handle this?"

"Just do everything you can to make sure it's right," Dad would say, "and be fair. That is all you have to do."

Simple, straight forward, honest answers - no foolishness

Although Dad was a quiet man, we all knew it was in our best interest to stay on the right side of Dad. Many times when Mom would be worried that we might not be doing things just the way they should be, she would simply say, "Your Daddy," followed by "would, is not or said," was, in most cases, enough to put us back in line. Those remarks have proven successful even in our

Prostate Cancer is Common Presented by Dr. George W. Griffith

Cancer of the prostate is one of the most common cancersone in eleven men will eventually develop it.

Its incidence increases with age and it is more common in men of Northern European descent and African Americans. It is also more common in men who have diets high in fat.

Prostate cancer causes few symptoms and when it does, they are similar to the symptoms of other prostate disease. There may be difficulty starting or stopping a stream of urine, frequency of urination (especially during the night), bloody urine, pain with voiding, and nain in the back or thighs These symptoms are the same as those caused by infections or benign enlargement of the prostate. The best way to find the cancer early is to see your doctor annually for an exam. Of course, a man should see his doctor sooner if there is any change in urination or other symptoms. Every man over 40 should have a rectal exam when he has his annual physical. When a lump is felt in the prostate, a biopsy should be done to determine if the lump contains cancer cells. If there are cancer cells, further studies may need to be done to determine the extent of the cancer. One test your doctor may order is an ultrasound of the prostate. Also a blood test, called the PSA, may provide helpful information as well as a baseline value. If the cancer is in an early stage, surgery and radiation will cure it in many men. At other times hormone therapy is used. The outlook is generally quite good, especially when the cancer is found early in a routine exam; deaths from prostate cancer are declining.

My spiritual roots -First Baptist Church

A few weeks ago I read about a ministry center located in Powell County near Natural Bridge State Park, just off the Bert T. Combs Mountain Parkway. Its official name is the Wendell Belew Appalachian Ministry Center, named after Dr. Wendell Belew, who was a pioneer in mountain missions in Eastern Kentucky.

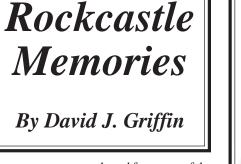

Reading the name Wendell Belew took me back to my early boyhood days at the First Baptist Church in Mt. Vernon, Ky. Brother Belew became my pastor when I was about four years old. In those days, my entire family attended church services every time the doors were open.

My family's life was intertwined with church. My grandparents, Eugene (Pop) and Katie (Katie) Stokes married and resided in Hopewell in Rockcastle County, where they were active members of the Hopewell Baptist Church. In the early '20's, their church decided to form a mission in Mt. Vernon because the railroad had created a need for a Baptist church in the county seat. That mission became the First Baptist Church. My grandparents had moved to Mt. Vernon in 1927. The church had its first service on September 15, 1929.

I can distinctly remember the pastors of the First Baptist Church while I was living in Mt. Vernon. The first was W. C. Younce, who became the pastor in 1938 and remained until 1947. I was only three years old when he left, but I can remember him coming to our home for Sunday dinner.

Brother Belew came in 1948. He was known around the state for his mission work and for his ability to capture an audience with "chalk talks." He placed a large easel near the front of the church, and when it was time for him to preach, he used pastel-colored chalk to create some awesome scene as he taught the Word.

Occasionally, he used fluoscent chalk. When the image peep was heard from any of the young people in the sanctuary. He captured our attention in a way that no other preacher had.

When I was eight years old, Brother Belew held a revival in our church. It was there that I gave my heart to the Lord as the choir sang "Just As I Am." That song became etched into my mind and has remained through the rest of my life.

Just as I am, without one plea But that thy blood was shed for me

And that thou bidd'st me come to thee

O Lamb of God, I come, I come That particular verse fills my heart with joy and great love for that little church in Mt. Vernon.

Several of the deacons there were heroes in my young mind. Pop was friends with many of them and they spent lots of time in each other's homes. I can still remember many of their names: Charles Machel, Grant Banks, Asher Cummins, George Parrett, Charles Noe, J.T. Meadows, Kenneth Cummins, and Preston Nunnellev.

Preston Nunnelley was the father of two of my best friends, Jim Barton and Penny. I spent countless days and nights in their home and yard playing every sport known to boys in those days. Mr. Nunnelley was always the perfect parent and mentor for all the boys in the community. I felt his influence throughout my life.

Another of the deacons also made a huge impression on me as a young man. I was about 13 and the church was holding a Father&Son Banquet. Aware that my father did not attend church, Kenneth Cummins asked me to accompany him as his guest. I cannot explain how grateful I was. He was my hero that night.

It was the custom on Sunday for the pastor to go home with one of the church families, and on many occasions Brother Belew came to our house. Pop and Mommie would rush out of the service and drive home quickly in order to put dinner on the table for the pastor and his family. Usually he would try to get Mommie's goat and ask for lemon meringue pie, which he knew she would not be serving. He always teased her like that. She loved the attention.

Floyd County man has come a long way without going far

Greg Hall's entire life flashes before his eyes every time he steps outside his home. He can't help it.

The present, the past, it's all there; even the end.

At age 59, he is the lone resident of a beautiful, two-story home, about midway between Pikeville and Prestonsburg.

From the front porch, he can see where more than a dozen neighbors somehow survived when a natural gas line erupted in 2004, leveling their homes. Among the injured was his only brother, 51-year-old Terry, whom he helped pull from the rubble on a cool November morning.

He can see where his childhood home sat, right next to the full-service Gulf station his dad built in 1951 when the family was young and struggling.

Both structures are gone now, torn down to make way for expansion of U.S. 23.

Still intact next door to the old home place and service station sites is the mobile home park his parents started.

The brothers continue to operate this business while maintaining other rental property in the area.

Across the busy roadway sits one of Kentucky's most interesting lodging facilities, Alpike Inn & Suites.

It's the unique design of this structure that prompts me to stop and inquire about its origins and why it's as black all over as a good vein of eastern Kentucky coal.

Greg and Terry are more than glad to fill me in on the rich history.

Both are divorced and spend much of their time here. Among the guests are construction workers on long-term stays and world-famous entertainers.

The Alpike became known for its rows of multi-colored entrance doors when opened as a 10-unit business by their parents in 1961.

Now, totally covered with coal-black glass and paint, it has undergone extensive remodeling, expanded to 48 units on two levels, and stands in stark contrast to the old facilitv.

Greg explains that the black glass and equally black paint is an effort to combat the bright sunlight streaming in from a long valley across the way. "It got so bad, it was burning up my air compressors," he says, further noting the new concept works well and guests can count on air-conditioned comfort day and night.

Each of the new upstairs rooms and suites include fireplaces, 10-foot ceilings, and furnishings designed to give visitors a sense of being at home.

Rates range from $45 to $65 per night.

"If we were in Pikeville or Prestonsburg, we'd have to charge more, but out here we are able to give people a lot for their money," he says.

Along the roadway in front of the motel sits another family enterprise, Hall's Used Cars. Across the motel parking lot Book brings back memories...

Dear Editor, I just recently read the book,

"Letters From Wildie." It was interesting how some of the names and pictures brought back memories of growing up in the Wildie area. I, myself, have always been fascinated with the history of Rockcastle County and the people who carved a home out of the wilderness. While doing research about the county, I discovered there had been many different kinds of "Mills." "Mills" that seemed to spring up overnight, such as sawmills, grist mills and water mills. But, as the time changed, the wave of the future brought in new, advanced equipment. These changes caused doors to be shut and buildings torn down, piece by piece.

But, there seems to be one "mill" that is still up and running strong, say to say. This "mill" seems to have been operating since the beginning of time. It seems that the "gossip mill," is still running strong. When I read the "letter" entitled, "Dear Widow Lady," I felt compelled (among other things...) to write "this letter."

talked with any family members of Bell Northern and Bob Northern, or tried to sort out "plain ole gossip," to get to the truth, (hum...what a nasty little word) before publication, since they are my family, I think there are several matters that need to be clarified about them.

For instance, people that really knew him, called him, Uncle Bob, whether they were related to him or not. Why would Uncle bob, and I quote, "Go across the ridge and down by the Fish Cave to visit you." (Hum...). Why would he go visit his mother when he lived with her? Sorry to disappoint you but everyone called Bell Northern, "Mammie" whether they were related to her or not. (The people that knew and loved her, that is).

As for Aunt Bess, I do believe Bob Northern would have known his own sister and I think he would have remember that his other sister married the Morgan man.

As for Uncle Bob's wedding day. (Hum...) My grandmother always said that Mammie had an ole saying for just about everything. One that comes to my mind was, "Seek and Ye Shall Find"... I also heard the "gossip" about his wedding day when I was growing up. One day years ago, I saw Uncle Bob standing in the store at Wildie. When I walked in, several of the people were talking about his wedding day." The buzzing of voices was like bees after honey. When the drone moved toward the back of the store, I looked at him and asked him if what they were saying was true. He just looked at me for a moment and then smiled and said, "You can't help the ignorant if they don't try to help themselves." (Hum...well now...)

Needless to say, the next time I saw my grandmother I asked her if what they were saying about Uncle Bob's wedding day was true. She laughed so hard I thought for a minute she would fall out of her chair. She said, "Why No." She then proceeded to tell me that when Uncle Bob was a young scrapper, he met a girl that he wanted to marry. But, before the wedding day she got very ill with Typhoid Fever and ended up dying. He said that he loved her so much that no other woman could ever take her place. My grandmother said that she had tried, over the years, to get him to "set them straight" but he just looked at her everytime and would always quote Mammie.

I am sure that Uncle Bob probably did talk about the hard times that Mammie had raising her children, after her husband died. For instance, Mammie used to take in sewing and she took in people's laundry that had to be washed 1-- she packed water from a nearby creek then heated it in an old washtub on an open fire. Then the clothes were scrubbed clean on a wash board. She used to make apple pies, not only for her family, but sold them as well. Mammie would also trade and sell eggs and milk for other food to help feed her children. Plus she raised a huge garden, selling some of the items and canning the rest for her family. I even asked my grandmother, "why did Mammie never remarry?" That if she had, things might not have been so hard on her. My grandmother told me that Mammie believed that when you spoke your vows, they were for life. That it did not matter if one passed away. She told me more than once over the years that Mammie had stayed "faithful" to her dead husband until the day she died.

nasty little word again), the "truth" may not seem as "interesting" or "delectable") and probably not help sell as many books) as "enticing" the unas- suming reader with the "decadent," "Delicious," "assumption," which travels down the road veering on the path toward "slander" of a "widow lady" being a "kept" "lady-friend" of a "preacher."

As for "tapping her foot," I am sure that if Mammie were still alive today, she would no doubt tap something on a certain some's person.

And I quote, even though all your family is gone from this place, you are still remembered." While that is certainly the "truth" (wow...actually hit a bull's-eye on that one) if anyone were to stand on the outskirts of Wildie and look in any direction, any number of Bell Northern's descendants can be found because there are many, many, many, in Rockcastle County alone.

I do have to say thank you though, dear author. Because of these recent events I have come to realize that I have inherited more traits from Mammie than I had previous been aware of. Such as "Not willing to sit back and take people's "plain ole !##!!#*!

is a modern BP station designed by Greg and operated by him and his brother before leasing it out.

On up the road a bit, Betsy Layne High School holds a special place in Greg's heart. He was a fixture there, teaching Career Education before retiring in 2001.

Impossible to miss, directly in front of his home is a hillside cemetery that must be one of the biggest and steepest in the state.

He has a clear view of the grave markers of his parents, Cecil and Lona "Pet" Hall, and his beloved dog Cody, a bearded Collie who was his faithful friend for 12 years. Greg's own gravesite is next to Cody's.

Not as visible to the eye, but just as vivid, are the memories.

"More than anything else, we appreciate the values and life lessons passed on to us by our parents," said the man whose thick black hair blends perfectly with the motel exterior.

Cecil was a coal miner and also worked for the railroad when he and Lona wed in 1945.

Their first venture into the world of business came with the opening of a small restaurant and beauty shop in Allen.

When they added the motel and mobile home park in Ivel, the name Alpike was chosen because of the community's location between Allen and Pikeville.

"I think they may have gotten the idea from the Almar Drive-In," says Greg. "It was located between Allen and Martin."

Greg's first introduction to the family business came at the service station. The hours were long and the work hard, but he says he treasures the time spent with his Dad.

"That service station is where I was working when I decided to become a teacher," says the Floyd County native. "I changed tires, pumped gas, changed oil, and was dirty all the time with grease under my fingernails. I decided I wanted to do something where I could be clean.

"I wanted to work when I was little, but not so much as a teenager. I'd rather have been out running around with my buddies."

Life may have been mostly work and little play in those days, but the Pikeville College grad got to meet some interesting people.

"I pumped gas for Hubert Humphrey when he was here campaigning with Rep. Carl Perkins. Also, Dwight Yocum's grandfather, Luther Tibbs, was a regular at the service station.

At the motel, the list of notables who have spent the night include Loretta Lynn, George Jones, Conway Twitty, Lester Flatt and Earl Scruggs, Ralph Stanley. and the group Exile when their hits were climbing the charts.

"One time when they were playing at Martin, girls were here all night long, nearly beating the doors down."

He also says he'll never forget the dark blue, GTO convertible with white leather interior that was carrying the band members.

A fan of vintage automobiles, Greg occasionally gets away to attend car shows in the area.

But he doesn't have to.

He can step inside the oversized garage attached to his home and view his collection of Corvettes, a beautiful bright orange '69 Camaro, and other classics.

Without going very far, he has come a long way.

Again, I'm probably a little biased, but Dad was the most honest, level headed, sensible, intelligent and strong man I've ever known.

There was actually nothing our Father couldn't do or, as mom says sometimes, wouldn't attempt to do.

Whether it was building a house, cutting and loading a load of logs, overhauling that truck engine that he would haul those logs on, writing an occasional editorial, taking and making the best black and white photos anywhere and running the printing press that would print the newspaper those news items ran in. There was simply no task too big or too small for Dad.

I'm going to wrap this up, because Dad didn't like long, drawn out events. He did like long trips to watch and support his children and grandchildren in whatever event they were involved in at that particular time.

He loved to watch Allison dominate in the swimming pool, Travis lay down that perfect bunt and Paige and Jane take the same college basketball floor on the same college team.

Dad's support in everything that Allison, Jamie, Sara, Jane, Paige, Travis and myself ever tried to do was never ending, because that is what real Dad's do.

Time and again, while Dad was fighting for his life last week, the comment was made by his loved ones, "He's a man's man."

That was certainly true, but Dad was a compassionate man, and he was a man who each of us loved, admired and deeply respected. Even in his final days he proved to us once again - You do it the best you can possibly do it and you do it right.

Dad fought the good fight and he will be rewarded for that good fight.

I have no doubt that he is picking out his new fishing boat right now and asking "where are the crappie biting." Thank you....

Actually catching or even treeing a coon when I was growing up there in the head of Blair Branch back in the sixties was sort of like hitting a holein-one off a short par three with a flat and level green with the flag right in the middle. It still didn't happen all that often but it could be done if you stayed at it long enough and it was still some reason to brag about, however relatively easy it might seem to regular players.

I once hit a hole-in-one at the Berea Country Club's second hole only to be told later in the day that it had already been done that morning but I still qualified for a free beer. I'd been playing every weekend for a couple of years and usually saved my Mulligan for # 2 if I'd had anything less than a double boggie on the first hole so I got it on the second shot.

But this column is not about golf. It's about coons and the dogs that chase them. And you can take my word for it or not, but a few decades back, it was pretty hard to tree a raccoon even if you had a high dollar dog. And I've seen red-bone, black and tan, blue-tick- and treeing –walker coon hounds change hands for well over $1,000 on numerous occasions.

There was a time, not long ago, when coons were scarce critters in the woods of southeastern and central Kentucky and tracking them down with dogs was high sport among those of us who still don't understand why football is supposed to be interesting and entertaining.

Just this morning, between Paint Lick and Richmond, there were four dead coons on 52. All of em killed trying to cross the road in the dead of night. So you have to wonder, if four got killed, how many more actually made it? Crossing 52, in the dead of night, is not like running a gauntlet. Oh sure, you have a car every minute or so, but an attentive blind person on crutches could safely cross the road without getting hit. And coons, are pretty fast, and from my experience, pretty attentive critters.

As recently as 20 years ago, a coon-hunter would have flagged down traffic, called a constable, and put up road blocks to recover the carcass, if he'd seen one dead on the road, so he could use it to train his dog. But that almost never happened.

Twenty years ago, you simply did not see dead coons on the road in central and eastern Kentucky. And forty years ago you didn't see coons, period, unless you had a good light and one helluva dog.

I grew up with such dogs. I never actually owned one until the early eighties but I had a hound or two in my early years that didn't know a coon from a ground squirrel. But Lovell Blair, there in the head of the holler had twin black and tans named Ted and Joe and Lovell, ten years older, who as like everybody's big brother would lead a pack of adolescent boys through the woods and across the ridges that separated Blair Branch from all the other hollers and all night long those two worthies chased coons.

And when the coon was worn to a frazzle and the dogs were viciously trying to climb and barking up the tree, Lovell would turn on his flashlight and search the limbs until we'd see the coon out there on a limb with it's eyes glowing amber in the reflection and he'd tell us that it was time to call off the dogs and let that coon rest for another chase.

Sometimes we'd drop off into another holler and the dogs would pick up another trail and we listen to them for hours until they finally wore out and came straggling back to us for hugs and "you done goods" and then we'd all come home in the wee hours especially happy if we'd treed a coon.

I can't imagine how Ted and Joe would react if they were turned loose on Silver Creek this day and time but I can tell you for sure that they wouldn't run a hundred yards until they were barking treed.

I'm just wondering what on earth they would do with a coon if they actually caught one?

Or if one caught them?

I suspect that it's just a matter of time before we are breeding dogs that we turn loose after dark and we set time trials to see if they can outrun the coons that are chasing them. The last dog chased back to the fire would be the winner.

That would have to be at least as entertaining as foot ball on Friday and Saturday nights. In the meantime, what would you do if half a dozen coons ganged up on your dog instead of the other way around.

of our lives in those days. It was a warm feeling to know everyone sitting in the pews at each service. The First Baptist Church was the "rock" of my spiritual beginnings, and the teaching I received there followed me throughout my life. I still love that church.

Dear Journal,

Here I am in Oklahoma. I've traveled about a thousand miles so far just one way. I traveled by way of Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, and finally on to Oklahoma. I've seen a lot of things I've never seen before and may never see again. This is the farthest west I've been since the mid-1970s when I was in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Oklahoma isn't what I expected at all. I had imagined a much hotter and drier climate with almost flat land. Instead, it's hot and tropically humid with rolling hills. There aren't very many pine trees, though; they're mostly oaks, maples, and such.

The people are very nice and friendly. They remind me of the people in the South. I saw a gentleman yesterday at my church headquarters from the Carolinas who lives here, and he commented on his accent. He said that after all these years living in Oklahoma, he still had it. I asked him, "What accent?"

I've seen my first armadillo, unfortunately they were run over. They are like the little opossums back home. I've seen Texas longhorn cattle grazing, and acres and acres of corn and soybeans, especially in Illinois and Indiana. They've gotten the right idea here; every little bit, I've seen oil wells.

I've not seen a lot of factories. People must make their living from ranching, farming, or working in offices in the city.

What is a trip if you don't get lost somewhere along the way? In our case (Pat, Martha, and I), it was in St. Louis during the 5 o'clock rush hour. To make matters worse, the Cardinals were preparing to play the Cubs. We passed right by Busch Stadium. We finally got on track and got out of town. It must have been way over twenty miles from one end of town to the other.

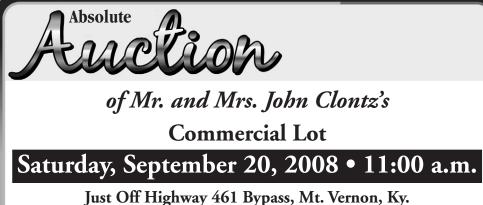

Today we went to downtown Oklahoma City and saw the memorial for the Murrah Building bombing. We saw 168 empty marble chairs as individual memorials to the men, women, and children who died that day of the Oklahoma City bombing in 1995. It was a sobering experience.

We are at the midway point in our trip. So far, I've had a good time, but as ever, I'll be glad to get home.

Many thanks to everyone for

A new selection of children's books can be seen at the library on display beginning this Friday September 19. All of the books were purchased through a grant known as the Brownstone Foundation. A lady whose hobby is to read children's books picks Appalachian libraries such as Rockcastle County Public Library to receive one hundred award winning books. We are very thankful to have received such a grant and we hope everyone in the community enjoys the new books.

Next Tuesday September 23 at story hour Ms. Carla will be reading to the children "Where the Wild Things Are" and then we will be watching a 25 minute movie on the book. At crafts next Tuesday September 23 the kids will be making whatever they wish out of modeling clay. Remember that story hour is every Tuesday at 1:00pm for children ages birth-4 and crafts for kids ages 4-10 is every Tuesday at 5:00pm. If you have any questions you can contact Ms. Carla Rowe the Children's Coordinator at 606-256-2388.

Roadside PRIDE Plan now to win in October

You can help your hometown win big in October, which is Roadside PRIDE Month in southern and eastern Kentucky. With a team effort, your community can share the rewards of clean roads, satisfied tourists and even a trophy. Now is the time to make your game plan.

Throughout October, volunteers will pick up the roadside litter, local governments will collect the trash, and PRIDE will provide the garbage bags and pay trash disposal fees.

If we all do our part, then we will make a big difference in the appearance of our roads by the end of October - just in time to enjoy drives through beautiful fall scenery.

Your hometown will be in a friendly competition during Roadside PRIDE Month. Cities and counties will earn points for the number of volunteers who clean roadsides, road miles cleaned, bags of trash collected, and tires and appliances collected. The cities and counties with the highest scores will win trophies.

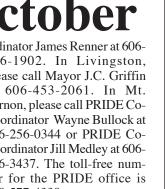

Your competitors are cities and counties with similar populations to your own. For a list, visit the PRIDE web site at www.kypride.org.

Sign up now for the home team. The local PRIDE Coordinators are planning cleanup events for October. If you work with them to plan a cleanup event, they will give you PRIDE trash bags, pick up your filled bags, and add your contribution to your home team's score.

Would you step in to stop violence? The following is an account from one Bethany House staff member concerning her recent experience:

"I was driving to work and saw a car pulled over with a woman trying to get out while the car was still rolling. A man was driving. I drove by and knew this wasn't right so I turned around, went back and found the man with the car pulled over in the grass and the woman standing in the ditch crying. I stopped and asked if she needed help or a ride. She said, 'Yes, please!' All the time the man is standing by the car cussing and ranting. He was, however, rather small and I thought I could take him.

The lady got in my car. I explained to her where I worked and asked if she would like to come to the shelter. She said she just wanted to go home. (He didn't live with her.) She said she had come to Bethany House once many years ago before it was remodeled. I dropped her off at her house and came on to work."

(I am not suggesting that everyone do what this Bethany House staff member did. Calling 911 and monitoring the situation from afar until police arrive are other ways to help the woman who was being abused.)

While not everyone would intervene in the same way, this courageous act speaks volumes. It said to one woman and one man that family violence is not acceptable. It challenges the rest of us to do what we can to stop family violence.

How can we let the world know that child abuse, domestic violence and sexual assault will no longer be tolerated in Kentucky? We can do it one person at a time. We can do it by changing the way we react when we see or hear about violence in the family.

REALTOR/AUCTIONEER: SAM FORD R

Rockets beat Madison Southern again, 28-6

By: Richard Anderkin The Rockcastle County Rockets ran their 2008 football record to 3-0 on Friday night, with an easy 28-6 win over Madison Southern.

Senior Jared Smith returned a kick-off over 70 yards on Friday night after Madison Southern posted their only score. Smith also intercepted a pass in the contest which the Rockets won 28-6. Friday night's victory in Berea was the 17th straight for the Rockets over the Eagles, who have never defeated the Rockets on the football field.

The Rocket defense held the Eagles to minus 11 yards and caused five turnovers.

The offense rolled up 348 yards of total offense, although field conditions were vpoor because of a hard rain in the first half.

The Rockets scored the first touchdown of the game with 7:32 remaining on the clock in the first quarter when senior Casey Hayes went in from nine yards out.

Three minutes later, junior quarterback Dustin Bishop hit senior Dustin Bullock on a 10 yard pass and the Rockets led 14-0.

But when the Rockets kicked off to Southern, the Eagles outstanding running back, Rico Brown, picked the ball up on his own 10 and ran it 90 yards for the score.

The Rockets added another score in the second period on an 18 yard run by Hayes which gave them a 21-6 lead at half-time.

Hayes, who scored three touchdowns in the game for the Rockets, added the final score of the game on a 53 yard run in the first series of the second half.

Hayes had one of his best games ever as a Rocket, picking up 218 yards on 33 carries and three touchdowns.

Sophomore fullback John L. Saylor had 49 yards on 8 carries; freshman Clark Rowe got 15 yards on 2 carries; senior Steve Trimble 18 yards on 3 carries; freshman Perry Mason 5 yards on 3 carries and Bullock had 7 yards on one carry and also caught a 10 yard touchdown pass.

Bishop had 24 yards on 8 carries and was 3 for 8 through the air for 26 yards. He threw one interception. He was also four for four in extra point kicks.

Besides Bullock's touchdown reception, junior Jamie Todd caught one pass for 12 yards and Rowe caught one for 4.

"I was very pleased with the way our offense adjusted after the rain - we showed that we are able to line up and run right at a team when we have to," said Rocket head coach Scott Parkey.

"We were going to open it up a lot more against Southern than we had in the first two games but that wasn't possible because of the wet condtions," Parkey said.

But Parkey, who still has the distinction of being the only Rocket head coach to never lose a game, said the defensive unit was responsible for the outcome of the game.

"They totally dominated Southern. Coach (Josh) Martin had his team ready and they played better than they did the first two games of the year, "Parkey said.

Defensive lineman Cole Abney led the Rocket defense with 5 tackles and assists, including a sack. Besides a great game offensively, Hayes had four tackles and assists, two of which were sacks and he recovered a fumble.

Junior Matt Bullens had four tackles and assists and junior Dalton Dillingham had three tackles and also recovered a fumble.

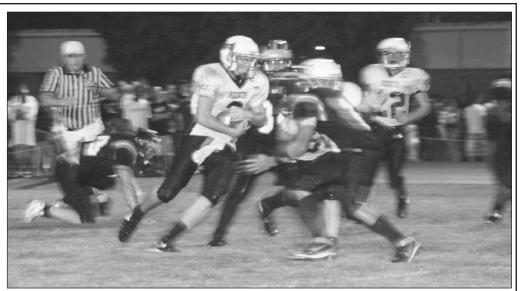

Seniors Devon Mason and Steve Trimble had 3 tackles each. Junior Derek Thacker, senior Jared Smith, Bullock and Saylor each had 2 tackles and junior Jamie Todd added 1. Bullock and Smith both had interceptions.

Friday night the Rockets take on district rival Bell County in their second home game of the season.

Like the Rockets, the Bobcats are 3-0 and defeated Knox Central 21-0 last Friday night.

Bell County is ranked number 1 in class 4A and the Rockets are ranked 9th.

The Rockets will be healthy when they head into the UNITE Bowl game, which kicks off at 7:30 p.m.

Rocket quarterback Dustin Bishop takes off on one of his eight carries on Friday night. Bishop picked up 24 yards on the night and completed three passes for 26 yards. One of those completions was for a touchdown to senior Dustin Bullock. Bishop was also four for four on extra point kicks. (Staff photos by Kevin Canterbury)

Marching Rockets win big at Hazard

Submitted by A. B. Sharpe

The trip to Hazard is always long and uphill and this last Saturday was no exception. The Marching Rockets arrived at Hazard High for the Band of Gold Invitational, ready to climb up more hills to reach the performance field. What a surprise it was to see a bright, shining new Astroturf field which, we're told, had just been completed at midnight Friday! The field was brilliant with its vivid markings and it made the mountain setting even more beautiful than usual.

For those of you who could not attend, the day was dripping with high humidity and was blazing hot with temperatures well into the nineties. It was the hottest I've ever seen at a competition. The Marching Rockets performed at 5PM in the sweltering heat and stinging sun. Their skin was well protected from sun exposure because it was fully encased in a heavy polyester uniform, complete with gloves and vinyl gauntlets. The shako (hat) also provided excellent coverage. Only the small portion of their faces that was exposed showed the cascading sweat and deep red flush that comes from the exertion necessary to march up steep hills carrying awkward and heavy instruments and props and then to perform an intense show on a synthetic turf field that had been laying there all day, soaking up the rays, so that by late afternoon it was an additional source of radiating heat under their black leather shoes.

Saturday's performance was not without difficulties, not the least of which was a last minute change in pit percussion placement due to the new Astroturf and the not yet completed track surrounding the field. The Pit Crew had to improvise on the spot to get them into place. But, the show went on as planned with two students marching despite significant injury and illness earlier in the week. The Marching Rockets were in fine form and when directed to "Take the field" they ROCKED it! And, despite all the difficulties the performance was indomitable!

The Marching Rockets took 1st Place in class 4A and received awards for Best Auxiliary (Colorguard) in Class 4A and Best Percussion in Class 4A. The Rockets scored a Proficient Plus rating overall with a Distinguished rating in the Visual Effect category. Their score placed them 4th overall out of the 21 bands competing from class 1A to 5A. The overall rating was an 11 point improvement over last week.

The celebrating began immediately with a parking lot pizza party sponsored by the band boosters. The long ride back from Hazard was euphoric. At the interstate exit they were met by 2 fire trucks, an ambulance and a police car, all with lights and sirens. As the victory parade wound through the streets of Mount Vernon, you could hear the boisterous sound of 50 voices singing "Hey Baby" over the sirens (a favorite song introduced to them by former student teacher, Mr. Walker). Special thanks go to the Mount Vernon Fire Department, Brodhead Fire Department, Mount Vernon Police and Rescue Squad for the victory cavalcade that was a fitting end to an exhilarating day.

The Marching Rockets are gearing up for their third competition of the season this coming Saturday as they travel to London for the North Laurel Invitational. This will be the closest competition that the Marching Rockets will compete in and it is a great opportunity for the local community to come out and support the Rockets! Several former state championship bands will also be performing and it promises to be an exciting day. The competition begins at 1 PM with

Trumpets are this week's featured instrument

Trumpets are old instruments, the earliest dating back to before 1500 BC. They were signaling instruments used for military or religious purposes. Today the trumpet is used in symphony orchestras as well as in jazz, dance and military bands. Trumpets are constructed of brass tubing bent twice into an oblong shape, and are played by blowing air through closed lips, producing a "buzzing" sound which starts a standing wave vibration in the air column inside the trumpet. Some notable trumpet players include Louis Armstrong, Miles Davis, and Dizzy Gillespie.

There are six trumpeters in the Marching Rockets this season. Reanna Hasty, a senior at RCHS is Section Leader for the trumpets. "Being a section leader is hard sometimes because they don't always want to listen." She has been marching with the Rockets for the past five years and also plays a little bit of guitar for enjoyment. Her favorite part of band is "hanging out with my friends." Her favorite trumpet song is "Sugar We're Going Down" by Fallout Boy. Reanna is not fond of one aspect of band, however, and that is running PT at Camp Crescendo first thing every morning. "NIGHTSCAPES" is her second favorite show ever-Cirque du Soleil, which she marched in her first year, is still her favorite. She found it "so challenging and the props were really interesting. It was really "cool," she said. She is planning to become a Psychiatrist, hoping to go to WKU and looking forward to participating in some band ensemble work while there. Richard Barron is a junior and this is his 4th year marching. He likes band because "I get to see my friends. Mostly all my friends are in the band." He likes to play marching music more than concert pieces and is not fond of all the practices after school in the heat. As for this season he said, "If we practice enough and all work together, than I think we can go far this year." His future plans are to possibly become a surgeon and he feels that being in the band has helped developed his leadership skills. He has a routine before every performance-right before going on, he cuffs everyone in his section on the hat and wishes them good luck. It does seem to be working!

Ethan Miller is a sophomore and this is his 3rd year marching. He prefers playing the trumpet but is also proficient on the tuba. The best parts of being in the band are "going to all the competitions and being with my friends." He likes all the songs they play on the trumpet and the after school practices are "most definitely" his least favorite activity. He thinks "NIGHTSCAPES" is "an interesting idea for a show and it seems to be doing well this year." He plans to be in a college band and also likes "playing for the fun of it."

Will Walker, currently a freshman, is in his 2nd season marching with the Rockets. He is just starting to play the guitar and trombone and hopes to be skilled in them some day. His favorite part of being in the band is "all the different places we go." He particularly enjoys playing (and singing) "Hey Baby". He finds the after school rehearsals "tough and tedious." He definitely likes the show "NIGHTSCAPES" better than last years' show. In preparation for each performance, right before marching out, Will says, "I wait to get my head thunked by Richie. It's for good luck." He is planning on a future in engineering but is also interested in "pursuing proficiency on other instruments. I really enjoy making music."

Mark Berry is also a freshman and this is his first year as a Marching Rocket. Besides the trumpet, he also plays "a little bit of keyboard". The best part of band for Mark is "being around my friends. It feels great to be alongside everyone in the band, marching in the competitions." His favorite song to play is Bon Jovi's "You Give Love a Bad Name." He is not fond of being "out in the heat" for rehearsals. About this year's show he said, "We have a lot of potential in "NIGHTSCAPES" to make it all the way to the finals in Louisville. "It's been a great beginning year for me," says Mark. Before performing, he High-Five's all his fellow section members. He is looking for the possibility of a band scholarship to help him in his dream of becoming a video game and computer programmer. Adam Alcorn is an eighth grader and this is his first year marching with the Rockets. In addition to playing the trumpet in the band, he enjoys playing guitar and drums at home. He likes band and "hanging out with my friends." He loves playing any "music with a fast pace-something challenging," he says. The "late, constant practices" he doesn't love so much. In talking about "NIGHTSCAPES" he said, "I think it's a real good show. I think we'll go to State with it." He always takes his camouflage hat with him to competitions for good luck. In addition to the hectic band schedule, he is also a member of the RCMS Academic Team. He is planning to become a physician and hopes that a band scholarship will help him reach that goal.

Kentucky Ambassadors of Music tour Europe

This summer 200 outstanding student musicians gathered from across the state at the University of Louisville for three days of rehearsal and a performance prior to departing to seven European countries for a 16-day tour. Students were nominated for the 2008 Kentucky Ambassadors of Music Tour based on their musicianship, leadership, and character, and were selected to participate by invitation.

Evan Cummins, of Richmond, was selected for this honor. Evan, 17, is the son of Donald and Jamie (Payne) Cummins. He is the grandson of Jackie and Jennie Payne of Brodhead, Don and Jewel Cummins of Mt Vernon, and

Evan Cummins

Nina Bishop Cummins of Somerset. Evan, a Senior, attends Madison Central High School. He has been a member of the MCHS Band, directed by Mr. H. Brent Barton, for four years, and he plays trumpet in the Band.

Prior to departing for Europe, student participants gathered for an intensive, three day rehearsal and orientation camp at the University of Louisville. A pre-tour concert was held at the Comstock Concert Hall at the School of Music on the campus of the University of Louisville so families could enjoy the music that would be played for the European audiences.

The Kentucky Ambassadors of Music Honor Band shared their music with European audiences in seven different countries and in a variety of performance settings. The tour included stops in England, France, Switzerland, Liechtenstein, Austria, Italy, and Germany. The Kentucky Ambassadors of Music Tour is an educational program designed as an opportunity for musical honor students to perform and share their musical talents, while gaining cultural enrichment abroad.

On September 11, 2008 the 4th grade students at Brodhead Elementary remembered the victims of the attacks of 9/11 with a remembrance ceremony. Students studied about what the attacks meant to Americans and why we still remember them today. As a culmination of their study students gathered around the flagpole in remembrance of what happened to our nation seven years ago. Students shared what made them proud to be Americans. Students also said the pledge to the flag as well as listened to the "Star Spangled Banner". Students finished their remembrance ceremony by singing the chorus of "God Bless the USA" and creating a paper chain with the reasons why the students were proud to be Ameri-

"What Is Written"

In Col.1:27 we read, "To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of glory:" Again in John 14:6, "Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me." What these verses teach us, is that Jesus is the only hope for sinful man. There is no other way to get to God & to heaven, except through Jesus! Our Jewish friends who reject Jesus as Messiah, will die in their sins, if they fail to accept Jesus as Christ. Our Muslim friends who say that Jesus is just one of God's prophets, but Mohammed is God's last prophet we must follow; are sadly mistaken. Our Hindu friends are in error, and will die lost, if they do not come to Christ. Our friends in freemasonry who are looking for the Grand Lodge in the sky, are deceived by false promises. No, only through Jesus do we have hope for glory. Jesus is "The Way" not "A Way" in coming unto God. Dear friends, if we do not come to Jesus and his truth, we will never be made free from sin. I would to God that all men and women would come to the Savior of men, and find the forgiveness and the only true hope in Him!

Annexation questions at council

next Thursday, September, 25th and that she would contact the citizens, who left their numbers with her after the meeting, by phone.

Individual property owners have already been notified by mail, by the city.

Rex McDonald, president of PD3, the newest company to locate in Industrial Park #1, who was at Monday night's meeting, said that while he appreciated the list, the city was not going far enough to educate local citizens on the proposed annexation and that in his opinion, the matter was being conducted in an "antidemocratic" fashion.

McDonald said the Mayor should have provided much more information to those effected by the annexation, including projected revenues and a budget as to how the additional money will be spent.

McDonald said he simply wanted the matter to be placed on the ballot so those effected would have a say as to whether they wanted to be in the city or not.

We live in a great country with a great democratic process, if the majority of people are for annexation, that's fine and if they're not, that should also be fine," he said.

McDonald also said it was very unclear as to who was eligible to sign a petition.

McDonald said in his opinion the number could range from 250 to 700, depending on which state law you used in determining that number.

City engineer Luther Galloway, who made a presentation about the ordinance before the council's vote and tried to answer questions, also said it was unclear. "There could be as many as three or four different groups who might be eligible to sign a petition," Galloway said after the meeting.

Resident Lawrence Bullock, who lives in the proposed annexation area, echoed what McDonald had to say.

"I simply want the right to say yea or nay," Bullock said during the meeting.

Lyman Fisher told the council that no one in the Ridgeview Subdivision wanted to be in the city limits.

Robbie Carpenter, who also lives in the same subdivision commented that if he had wanted to live in the city limits, he would have moved there.

Several residents said they felt like annexation was being forced on them and that they too wanted to make sure they had all the information they needed to gather properlysigned petitions to get the matter put on the ballot.

The Mayor said nothing was being forced on residents and they had the right to ask that the matter be placed on the ballot. "That is the process," she said.

The Mayor said she thought the city needed to annex areas around the city to help "move the city forward" and that there were some residents who had asked to be annexed

McDonald said Tuesday that, after several calls to his company, he would offer to provide space at his company (the former Rockcastle Manufacturing building) for the next meeting on the ordinance, so that more people could attend.

"We need to have an open forum with free dialogue in a setting that is respectful to everyone, where as much information as possible can be obtained," McDonald said.

The only industry in Rockcastle Industrial Park #1, now included in the city limits is Integrity Mold and Die. If the proposed annexation goes through the entire industrial park will be included.

Again, McDonald said the question remains who can sign the petition. Property owners, owners of tangible property, which is equipment and inventory, registered voters or others who may qualify.

That question remains unanswered, however when the city passed the first reading of the ordinance, County Clerk Norma Houk released these findings.

Houk said, that according to state law, within 60 days following publication of the ordinance in the Signal if 50 percent of the resident voters or owners of real property within the proposed territory to be annexed, petition the Mayor in opposition to the proposal, the annexation question would be placed on the ballot at the next regular election, which would not be until 2010.

Houk said that if the required petitions are received, the city's annexation could not take place until after the election. If 55% of the registered voters, who are effected by the annexation vote against it, then it will fail.

But the question remains, who is eligible to sign the petitions. And, according to state law, Mayor Kirby will decide which signatures on the petitions are valid and which are not.

Some of the areas to be taken in by the annexation are located along Hwy. 1249 (Sand Springs Road), Hwy. 2549 (White Rock Road), and some property lying between Freedom School Road and the current city limits.

Mayor Kirby did not say this week if the proposed ordinance will be published in the Signal, the week following the 25th.

Yards to Paradise

Sweetgum: A Sturdy Tree for Shade and Fall Color From Columbus to Orlando, from San Antonio to the Eastern Shore you can find our native sweetgum tree (Liquidambar styracifula). It is to be found even in fossils, testifying to it's survivability. Let's take a look at it's characteristics, particularly the lovely leaves and bark.

Probably the best recommendation for the sweet gum is it's fall glory. It turns from green to yellows and oranges and purples (even on the same tree) in the fall. Even in Central Florida it puts on a color show equal or superior to red maples.

The star shaped leaves of sweetgum are easy to recognize, the upright and strong trunk and tree shape make it a safe choice for a large yard, it's roots do not usually become obstacles to lawn mowing (and grass will usually grow fine under these trees, despite other reports to the contrary, so long as the spacing is not too tight so that thick shade is created). It survives windstorms rather well. The rough corrugated bark is one of it's attractions, especially in winter.

One predicament is it's prickley seed heads. These can litter the yard for a spell when they drop. You could say they are "natural decorations" and have been collected and spraypainted for ornamental use. The spiny one inch balls provide a winter's lunch many times as gold finches and other songbirds search out the seeds.

Another drawback is that seeds scatter from a mature tree and it produces quite a few "babies", similar to maples in this regard, maybe more so.

Seldom do growers plant grafted cultivars, as the native plants are easy to grow. But, Cherokee is one that is cold hardy and has few fruits. Moraine is a heavily-fruiting variety that will survive even Chicago's cold.

Liquidambar rotundifolia is a rare non-fruiting sweetgum you could try to find at a top garden center.

A youthful sweet gum tree has a pyramidal shape rather like a Bradford Pear. In old age, it becomes more rounded. Some older trees can have roots protrude into the lawn or cause a crack in pavement.

These trees perfer rich riverbottom soil that is damp but yet drains good. However, from deserts to abandoned stip mine sites, you can find the sweetgum.

Sweetgum is a tree that developers sometimes save so they can list that their new home has "mature shade trees". A caution here is that if dozing of roots, compaction of soil, or piling of more than just a few inches of new soil around the trunks of an existing tree has occurred during the building process it will probably lead to death about the time your home warranty has expired! (I don't hate builders, but I do long for the days of custom homes and not those that all look alike and are crammed into small lots by large developers...but I digress.)

A tall hedgerow some distance from a home, or a specimen plant is probably my preference when using this tree in the landscape.

I invite you to try one of these sun-loving trees in your yard, especially if it is a hot open yard in need of some shade trees. The sweet gum will start easily and grow well, even on subdivision lots with now topsoil.

Rabies vaccination clinic scheduled for Sept. 29th

The Rockcastle County Health Department, along with Dr. James Chism DVM, is sponsoring a rabies vaccination clinic for dogs and cats. The clinic will be held Monday, September 29 at the Brodhead Fire Department from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. The cost will be $7 per vaccination. All animals must be on a leash or other appropriate restraint. Dog and cat owners are encouraged to bring pets to have them vaccinated for the first time or to receive a booster vaccination.

Rabies have been found in domestic and wild animals in surrounding counties. A horse tested positive in Pulaski County, a skunk in Lincoln County and Madison County reports both a horse and skunk infected. In addition, rabies are manifesting in a cluster of counties just north of Rockcastle and Madison Counties. Fayette County has reported two bats and a skunk with rabies; Clark County, two dogs and two skunks; Woodford County, a bat and five skunks and Jessamine County four skunks.

As of September 9th, approximately 25 rabies cases have been identified in animals statewide in Kentucky. No animals sent to the state lab for testing from Rockcastle County have tested positive this year.

State law requires dogs, cats and ferrets at least four months of age to be vaccinated against rabies (902 KAR 2:070). Rabies is spread by wild animals such as: skunks, foxes, raccoons and bats. Any mammal can get rabies, including dogs, cats, horses, cows and humans. Animals that are not mammals, such as birds, snakes and fish do not get rabies.

Rabies is caused by a virus and is spread by contact with the saliva of an animal with the disease. Symptoms of rabies in animals may include a change in behavior, sickness, unable to eat or swallow, increased drooling or salivation or aggression. Wild animals may appear to be tame or sick. Some rabid animals appear to be normal in the early stages of the disease. There is no cure or treatment for rabies. Usually death will occur within ten days of symptoms.

To prevent rabies, people should have their pets vaccinated and avoid contact with stray or wild animals. Stray cats and dogs may not have been vaccinated against rabies. Report stray animals to an Animal Control official. In Rockcastle County, contact the Animal Shelter at 256-1833.

If an animal bites a person, wash the wound with soap and water for at least five minutes. Then seek medical assistance for additional treatment. Report the incident to the local health department. Officials from the Health Department will quarantine the animal for ten days or order the animal to be tested for rabies. If the animal that has bitten someone cannot be found, the victim is referred to a doctor. The physician will determine if the victim should be treated to prevent rabies.

The first line of defense to prevent rabies is to have your pets vaccinated. If your dog or cat needs a rabies vaccination, bring your pet to the Rabies Clinic on September 29 at the Brodhead Fire Department. No appointment is needed. If you cannot attend the clinic, contact a veterinarian for an appointment to have your animal vaccinated.

For more information, contact Clara Patton, Sr. Environmentalist at 256-2242 ext. 129. Additional rabies information available at chfs.ky.gov/dph/epi/ rabies.htm

Tips on repairing home after a disaster

Hurricane Ike made its mark on the area! If your house or business was damaged by the strong winds that made their way through the area last weekend, chances are you're on the hunt for a reputable contractor to help with the repairs. Be aware of those who may take advantage of your situation: The home repair rip-off artist, who may overcharge, perform shoddy work, or skip town without finishing your job.

BBB offers the following tips for consumers who may be facing major repairs after a disaster hits home:

•Deal only with licensed and insured contractors. Verify the track record of any roofer, builder or contractor you're thinking of hiring. Ask for a list of recent customers and call them.

•Get recommendations from friends, relatives, neighbors, co-workers, insurance agents or claims adjusters. Also check with the local Better Business Bureau and Home Builders Association to see if complaints have been lodged against any contractor you're considering.

•Take your time signing a contract. Get a written estimate that includes any oral promises the contractor made. But remember to ask if there's a charge for an estimate before allowing anyone into your home. Ask for explanations for price variations, and don't automatically choose the lowest bidder. Get a copy of the final, signed contract before the job begins.

•Resist dealing with any contractor who asks you to pay for the entire job up-front. A deposit of one-third of the total price is standard procedure. Pay only by check or credit card - and pay the final amount only after the work is completed to your satisfaction. Don't pay cash.

•Be skeptical of contractors who encourage you to spend a lot of money on temporary repairs. Make sure there's enough money for permanent repairs.

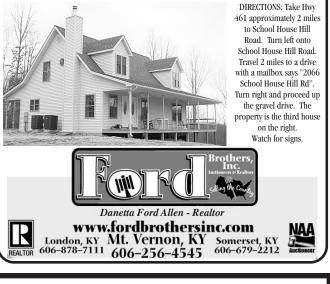

•Ask a knowledgeable friend, relative or attorney to review a home repair contract before you sign. If you get a loan to pay for the work, be cautious about using your home as security: If you don't repay the loan as agreed, you could lose your home. Consider asking an attorney to review the loan documents, as well.

For more tips, go to the Better Business Bureau website at www.bbb.org or call 1-800-388-2222.

Just as the rest of the country, Rockcastle countians got in line Friday to buy gas at most of the stations in the county. The long lines were brought on by the rumor of rising gas prices and a possible shortage caused by Hurricane Ike. At most stations in the county, including Kwik Mart in Mt. Vernon where this pictures was taken, gas reached $3.99 by day's end. However the cost of gas in the county still did not get as high as it did in other parts of the state and there were no reported shortages. (Photo by: John McQueary)

Tim Couch to help UNITE tackle drugs

Former NFL quarterback someone of Tim's caliber agree Tim Couch will flip the coin to get things started at the third annual Rockcastle County UNITE Bowl football game Friday night at the ROCK.

The Rockets play host to the Bobcats from Bell County High School in this year's "Tackling Drugs: Saving Communities" match-up, set to kickoff at 7:30 p.m.

"I am glad to be back in Kentucky and able to support such a worthy cause," Couch said. "Efforts by citizens in southern and eastern Kentucky to prevent substance abuse and to help those with addictions are drawing national attention. I feel honored to be able to become a part of the UNITE team."

Steven Moore, 26, of 23 Riddle Lane, Brodhead was indicted for trafficking of a controlled substance, first degree. He has not been arrested but bail has been set at $50,000 cash/property. His arraignment date is November 20th

Indicted on two counts - as a Persistent Felony Offender and receiving stolen property was Mark Spoonamore, 38, 583 Poplar Grove Road,

"I truly love this area, but hate to see what drugs are doing to families and communities. It is so important to reach out to youth, to let them know drugs are not the answer," Couch continued. "Hopefully the UNITE Bowl will encourage more people to step forward and make a difference by becoming involved with their local UNITE coalition."

The 31-year-old Hyden native, who now resides in Lexington, set a number of national high school records as a prep quarterback for the Leslie County Eagles, and received numerous accolades for his basketball prowess.

Named Kentucky's "Mr. Football" in 1995, Couch was highly recruited before deciding to play for the University of Kentucky. He piloted the Wildcats' "Air Raid" offense to national respectability as a sophomore, then led his team to a spot in the Outback Bowl in a seven-win 1998 season.

Couch's efforts resulted in his being named SEC Player of the Year and a Heisman Trophy finalist.

Foregoing his senior season, Couch was the number one overall selection in the 1999 NFL draft by the Cleveland Browns.

"March Against Drugs Rally" Friday morning

Rockcastle County is taking a public stand against drugs this Friday morning, when it holds a "March Against Drugs Rally.

Line up for the march will begin at 8:30 a.m. at Mt. Vernon Elementary School. From there, students, community members, churches and businesses will march together to the RCHS football field for the "Rally Against Drugs."

Grand Marshal and keynote speaker will be Bryan Rose. Rose is a native of Whitley County and was the starting quarterback for Whitley County High School for four years, graduating in 1988.

Rose attended Glenville State University on a football scholarship from 1990-92 until an injury and drug use brought an end to his career, and nearly his life.

As an addict, Rose's story which is similar -- drug abuse which led to prescription fraud and burglary which led to a prison sentence -- to many other drug abusers.

Eventually, Rose was able to start in the recovery program through WestCare Treatment Center and has turned his life around, working for three treatment facilities in eastern Kentucky (WestCare, Chad's Hope and Crossroads). He will be issuing a challenge to Rockcastle County students at the Rally on Friday to make the choice in life to remain drug free.

Other dignitaries who will be participating in the march will be: Rep. Danny Ford, Senator Ed Worley, Karen Engle - Operation UNITE Executive Director, Larry Hammond, Superintendent of Schools, school board members and several other elected county officials.

Former UK quarterback and former pro football player, Tim Couch, will be on hand for the UNITE Bowl game between Rockcastle and Bell County Friday night.

Vanzant had said previously that his main concern was for the safety of the students at the Alternative School, who will also be in the building at the same time as SourceCorp employees. Vanzant also had indicated that he was concerned about the possible disruption of school in the building.

As part of the rental agreement, each employee of SourceCorp, who works at the old vocational school. will be subject to a criminal background check and be required to follow the same Code of Conduct each student follows.

At the request of board member Angie Mink, vehicles driven by SourceCorp employees will be subject the same guidelines as school personnel and students when drug dogs are brought onto school grounds to try and locate illegal drugs that may be in a vehicle.

Mink, who toured SourceCorp's facility in Industrial Park #1 on Monday, said that she certainly did not want the county to lose SourceCorp and was glad everything could be worked out.

Board members Tina Hasty, Mike Burdette and Jeff Vanhook all agreed with Mink and Vanzant in approving the lease agreement.

Mink and Burdette both said they had lost sleep over the matter and were glad that it was being resolved.

"I was ready to approve it last Thursday, because I think it is the right thing to do, but it never hurts to have as much information and dialogue as you can. It's just a tough decision when you are dealing with the welfare of our students," Hasty said after the meeting.

School Superintendent Larry Hammond, who was a strong advocate of the agreement, Vanzant and school board legal counsel Jerry Cox will now draft a lease document to present to SourceCorp officials. They will then review the document and make sure it also addresses everyone's concerns regarding safety and lease costs, according to Holton.

Neal McCall, Director of Operations for SourceCorp, said about 30 employees would be moved to the old vocationa school in the next couple of months and, by the end of February, the entire SourceCorp operation will be at the old vocational school.

SourceCorp is not renewing a lease on their current building in Industrial Park #1, which expires on February 28th of 2009.

SourceCorp will lease a new 25,000 square foot facility from the Rockcastle Industrial Development Authority, which will be built in Industrial Park #2 off White Rock Road.

That new facility, which will also be built to accomodate a 16,700 possible future expansion, will be ready in late Spring or early Summer. SourceCorp has agreed to lease the building for seven years.

SourceCorp currently has 91 jobs and plans to add another 100-150 over the next two years.

Hansford Road, Eubank and David P. Snyder, 25 of 1400 Sinking Valley Road, Mt. Vernon were all indicted on two counts - one of receiving stolen property and the other for being persistent felony offenders.

Bond has not been set for any of the three men. Terry McFerron and Snyder have not been served but their arraignment date has been set for Nov. 20th. Kevin McFerron has not been served but has the same arraignment date.

Linda Irene Kirby, 52 and Timmy Wayne Kirby, Jr., 29, both of 75 Floyd Street, Mt. Vernon were both indicted on two counts - one of giving a false statement to the identity or financial condition on a credit card application and the other of receipt of a credit card obtained fraudulently.

Both have been arrested and each posted a $5,000 or 10% cash/property bond. Their arraignment has been set for October 10th.

Jonathon L. Sowder, 25, 650 Richmond St., Mt. Vernon was indicted on a charge of criminal possession of a forged instrument. A warrant has been issued for Mr. Sowder.

William T. Kirby, Jr., 28, of 1235 Freedom School Road, Mt. Vernon was indicted on six counts of criminal possession of a forged instrument. Kirby has not been arrested. His bond was set at $10,000

Brodhead.

Spoonamore has been arrested and his bond set at $25,000 cash/property. Arraignment date has been set for October 10th.

As the result of a traffic stop on May 29, 2007, James David Nicholson, 40 and Mary T. Miniard, 38, both of 1097 Pine Top Road, London were indicted on nine counts - two for wanton endangerment, two for complicity to wanton endangerment, one each for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol or drugs, one for possession of controlled substance, one for possession of drug paraphernalia and one for pubic intoxication.

Neither Nicholson or Miniard had been arrested but bond has been set for each at $10,000 cash/property. Arraignment will be November 20th.

Indicted on flagrant nonsupport charges were:

Kevin G. Halcomb, 29, 90 Kirby Lane, Mt. Vernon two counts of flagrant non-support in the amounts of $6,949.62 and $3,018.21. Bond has been set in the same amounts;

Waylon Snow, Jr., 1317 Bastin Creek, Kings Mountain on one count in the amount of $20,477 with a bond of $20,000, and Dana Moore, 29, 20 High Street, Mt. Vernon in the amount of $4,352. A warrant has been issued for Moore and bond has been set at $4,500 full cash.

of his rookie year and proceeded to notch rookie records for passing completions, attempts, yards and touchdowns. Couch would start 59 games during his five-year tenure with the Browns, including leading his team to a playoff appearance in 2002.

UNITE Bowl activities officially get underway at 6 p.m. with a tailgating event with Rockcastle County Churches. A special program for Little League football players will also begin at 6 p.m. in the middle school cafeteria.

Pre-game activities start at 7 p.m.

Half-time will include a Memorial Red Balloon Launch and a Moment of Silence for all the people who are, have been, or know someone who is addicted to drugs. This will be presented by UNITE Club members from both Rockcastle and Bell County high schools.

Both schools are currently competing in a "Wipe Out Drugs Toilet Paper Challenge" to see which school can collect the most rolls of toilet paper which will be donated to the Chads Hope, WestCare, Hope in the Mountains and Healing Rain treatment facilities. The winning school will receive a "Traveling TP Trophy."

In accordance with the provisions of HB 44 enacted by the 1979 Kentucky General Assembly a public hearing has been set by the Rockcastle County Public Library Board of Trustees for September 24, 2008 at 4:00 p.m. at the Rockcastle County Public Library. The purpose of this hearing is to inform the public that the Rockcastle County Public Library Board is proposing the 3.1 cent tax rate with anticipated revenue of $108,410. This tax rate reflects a 4% increase in anticipated revenue. The tax rate for the preceding year was 2.70 cents with anticipated revenue of $89,992.

The compensating rate is 3 cents with anticipated revenue of $104,913. The expected revenue from personal property is $34,924. Increase for the 2008 budget year is needed due to the rising cost of books, library materials, technology, equipment and maintenance.

The Kentucky General Assembly has required publication of this advertisement and the information contained herein.
