School begins in Rockcastle next Wednesday

By: Mike French
Summer vacation has reached an end for students in Rockcastle County. The first official day of school will be Wednesday, August

The first break for students will be Monday, September 7 and 8 for Labor Day. Teachers will be off on September 7 but will have a personal development day on September 8.

The last day of school is projected to be Friday, May 6, if there are no unexpected days missed for snow or other reasons.

Days off for students are: September 7 and 8.

Friday October 2. Monday, November 2. Tuesday, November 3. Wed., November 25. Thursday, November 26. Friday, November 27. December 21-31.

Friday, January 1. Monday, January 18. Monday, February 15, Friday, March 18. Friday, May 6. There are 26 makeup days on the school calendar from May 12 to June 20 should those days be needed due to snow days, The following are days the school will be closed for students during that time:

Monday, May 9, Tuesday, May 10, Wednesday, May 11, Tuesday, May 17 and Monday, May 30.

The calendar consists of 7 professional development days, 4 holidays, 1 opening day, 1 closing day and 26 makeup days as required by Rockcastle County does not include a spring break in their school-year calendar in case there are too many missed snow days to have a spring break. However, a time is set aside each year to provide a spring break should the number of missed days be acceptable.

According to Rebecca Isaacs, Student Service Director of Rockcastle County Schools, this is for the student's and family's best interests. "We hate to have a scheduled spring break and families make plans for a vacation, and then we have to take it away because of snow days missed," she said. "It is much better to have an amendment adding the spring break if we can, instead of taking it away if we have to."

For this reason, the school board will vote on the spring break at a board meeting in February.

"If fewer than 10 days are missed for inclement weather or other emergencies by the first Monday in February, President's Day will be changed to a non-instructional (break) day, and a spring break may be added to the calendar for April 4-8 by a calendar amendment," she said.

This calendar is subject.

to change at any time if the school board deems it necessary for students' benefit.

Also, the entire Rockcastle County School Board and Superintendent would like to remind all parents that they will be receiving a Household Income Form. "It is very important that this form be completed and returned," said Isaacs.

This form will help Rockcastle County provide free breakfast and lunch to all students. Even those families who don't require assistance should complete the form and participate in the program so that free breakfast and lunch will be available to those who do need it.

Teachers throughout Rockcastle County are getting their classrooms ready for students next week. Classes begin Wednesday, August 12th in the county and teachers, administration and staff are hustling to finish final preparations before students arrive. Civil suit added to criminal charges against local man

By: Mike French

A civil suit has been filed against a well-known local man, who is also facing criminal charges.

Former Kentucky Music Hall of Fame Executive Director, Robert W. Lawson is charged with theft by deception as a result of stealing more than $28,000 since July, 2013, according to Kentucky State Police re-

The reports say the money was taken from accounts belonging to the Kentucky Music Hall of Fame, the Rockcastle County Cystic Fibrosis Fund and the Rockcastle Tourism Taskforce.

In April, Lawson was charged with three counts of theft by deception and was later released on a $25,000/ 10% bond meaning he paid $2,500 to be released. He is currently awaiting a trial

However, a civil suit was filed on July 29, by the Kentucky Music Hall of Fame. The suit says that Lawson has employed by the Hall of Fame and "by virtue of employment, Mr. Lawson owed fiduciary duties to the Hall of Fame."

The suit also says that during the time Lawson was employed, without authorization, he converted to his own use, or the use of others, monies belonging to the Hall of Fame in excess of $48,000."

In the suit, the Hall of Fame is seeking damages sufficient to compensate them for losses sustained including attorney fees and any other relief to which the Hall of Fame is properly entitled.

Lawson has 20 days to respond to the suit.

(Readers should note that a civil suit shows only one side of the suit and no response from Lawson or his attorneys appears in the suit.)

There will be no wine sales in Renfro Valley. Of 915 registered voters in the East Mount Vernon precinct, only 148 (16%) turned out for Tuesday's special election concerning the wet/dry vote. Voters elected to refuse to allow wine sales at the Sinking Valley Winery in a 97-51 vote.

As a child I remember my dad trying so hard to find something that I was good at. He worked so hard trying to find my niche. Trying to be proud of me. He was not the kind of dad that said, "good job son." In fact it wasn't until I was 40+ that I actually heard him say anything positive about me. Even when I was very proud of an accomplishment, and I ran to him for approval, he would usually say something like, "Is that the best you can do. Or do you have a little more in you, son?" It kind of backfired for him.

He was trying to make me tougher and make me strive for perfection. To improve or excel at something. Never be satisfied. You can always do a little better than the next guy. He ingrained that into me. Never think, "That's good enough.".

So, I tried a lot of different things trying to find something I could do that he would be proud of. I tried out for the basketball team. "Oh, pop would love to see me score the winning basket," I thought. But it turns out, I had two problems with the game. I couldn't make the ball go in that round hoopy thing, and I couldn't keep other people from making the ball go in the hoopy thing. Didn't make thé team. 👀

"Baseball! I'll try that." That went better for me because when the coach discovered I couldn't throw the ball very far, and couldn't catch it if it came towards me and couldn't hit it with that wooden thing, he put me in right field; "No one mis the ball to right field," he said. Year right Onde other leanis discovered I ran the other way when the ball was coming at me, everyone hit it to right field.

But that one wasn' my fault. Who in their right

There are very few things mind wants to be standing there when a rock-hard ball speed of light?

So, pop took me to a family reunion and said something along the lines of "Hey son. Come over here and play horseshoes with us. Maybe you won't stink at it." Once I watched them play a minute and learned the object of the game, I said "sure pop. I can do that."

Did you know that there is an art to throwing horseshoes? Who knew? It looks easy when others do it, but if you don't get the horseshoe perfectly flat, it will roll onto its side. Then, when it hits the ground, there is no predicting where it may go. My first pitch had the whole family leaping up to avoid a broken ankle as my horseshoe mowed them down like bowling pins.

Speaking of bowling, that was my next task after pop took the horseshoes from me and helped everyone up. I had seen bowling before. All you have to do is roll the ball down there and make the pins fall down and then jump around yelling and giving high-fives to people. What I didn't know was, bowling balls are sooooo heavy.

There was no way I could hold that thing up, sling it around and shoot it down the alley with three fingers. Good grief. They should either put handles with rubber grips on bowling balls, or make them weigh about 12

Needless to say, after my first attempt, I didn't get any high-fives. But I did cause a lot of yelling from people behind me trying to get out of the way of a wrecking ball headed the wrong direction (

11 Okay then, golf, I didn't really understand the game at the time. I always wondered why people hit that tiny little ball with that small

A Friend Indeed

Recently, while reading an article entitled, Cars You Can Afford, I was instantly transported back to the 1960s. The article was referring to the idea that one could predict the relative income of a family in the late '50s and early '60s by noting the brand of automobiles which they drove. In essence, it said, "An average income family usually had a Ford, Chevy, or Plymouth. Above average income families cruised around in a Buick, Pontiac, or Oldsmobile. And the high income families could afford to be seen in a Cadillac," While all of that may be true (and it definitely fit right into the families that I knew in the early 1960's), there was one outstanding example that, as far as I was concerned, had nothing whatsoever to do with in-information concerning automobiles was turned on its head by a friend of mine in high school. It was 1961, and I was a junior at Mt. Vernon High School when Jerry Hansel showed up in his new Nash Rambler convertible. Whatever income bracket that car put him in was of no concern to me. I thought his new, yellowand-white convertible was the "coolest" car in Rockcastle County. It certainly was one of a kind in our part of the state.

That income-related

The Nash automobile was produced in America from 1950 until 1969. It was originally intended to compete with the most popular cars produced by Ford. Chevy, and Plymouth. However, the Rambler was designed to be lighter, with smaller dimensions than the other popular cars. It rode on a 100-inch wheelbase, and its power came from a 173

Our Tragedy Dear Journal.

I remember many years ago now, back to the time of the assassination of President John Kennedy. Within hours, the whole of the civilized world knew of his death. Everybody knew except his son, John Jr., who was about to celebrate his birthday, and his older sister, Caroline. Their mother, Jackie, in an attempt to shield her children from this horrible event, elected to go ahead with little "John-John's" birthday party as scheduled. She chose to wait á bit to tell the children and let them have a few moments of normalcy and joy. The adults in attendance did their best to conceal their overwhelming loss and try to show, for a few moments, a spark of happiness. The children later learned the horrible, tragic truth. Something very similar happend to our family this weekend. Late Saturday evening, a little boy, my nephew, who was about to celebrate his sixth birthday, came home after shopping for supplies for his birthday party the next day. He and his family came home to find the coroner's van parked in the driveway waiting for their return. This was the turning point that will forever change the young lives of he and his older sister. Their father lay on the other side of town in the city morgue as a result of an apparent self-inflicted gunshot.

Stanley and I received the news later Saturday night. I was walking through the living room on the way to bed when the phone rang. At the time of night that it was, you might suspect it's going to be bad news.

I was told the news. I had named Kyle Whitaker who seemed to know and be rethe lower end of Letcher County, particularly the Whitakers, Eldridges Fieldses, Campbells and Caudills who mostly populate Elk Creek, Bull Creek and lower Line Fork, Somehow I got it in my mind that Kyle actually lived on either Elk Creek or Bull Creek. In fact, his face book photo has him standing in front of his brick, ranch- style home and I was reasonably sure I'd driven right by it catching fish bait on Elk Creek.

So two weeks ago some central Ohio women members of the group started a discussion about the fact that they were putting up. (canning and making shuckey beans) from an heirloomvariety called Big Johns. It is not uncommon for members of the group to get off on a subject unrelated to their family trees.

My mouth began watering so hard that I was literally drooling on my keyboard because I had not had a mess of Big John Beans in over twenty years because I let weevils destroy my seed and I had been unable to find anyone who had any. My buddy, and master gardener, Mike Mitchell, who will also swear that Big Johns are his favorite bean of all time had also lost his seed and not a year has gone by over the last two decades that we have not had at least a few whine and lament sessions over Big Johns while we broke up one inferior variety or another.

So I posted a note in the face book dialogue that I would pay good money for another start of the seed and almost immediately one of the women said she didn't want any money but if I'd send her my mailing address enough. I, probably most of all, can't make sense of this event. He was so young and had his whole life ahead. My life, for most practical purposes, is more than half gone and I'm fighting this cancer every day and so are the ones I see every day in the same fight, trying to hold on to every bit of life we can,

I surely hope that if any one else knows of someone in this young man's situation will step in and try to do what they can to stop them before it is too late.

This was a wonderful young man, one whom his family can be proud of. He loved family life, especially his children whom he doted on. He was a good friend, one whom you could really count on in a bad situation. A noble warrior gone too soon, gone too soon. We love and miss you, before it is too late.

club. Why not use a 2X4? Better yet; if the goal is to get the ball in that little cup 3 miles away, just pick the darn thing up, put it in your pocket and ride the cart to the hole and drop it in there. Everyone's score would be 18. Anyway, I tried it for pop. Some golfers are mean. I got yelled at because of all the holes I put in the ground and got yelled at because I didn't shout out "Fore" and got yelled at from people all over the course. People can be pretty forgiving, but break out one little golf car windshield and everyone gets all "You are banned from this course." Good Grief.

Finally, I think pop realized, sports was just not my thing. He bought me a guitar and I took to it without hurting anyone and no charges were ever filed. I played it every day for hours on end until finally, one day, pop stopped as he walked by while I was playing. He stood and listened to the entire song. When the song was over, I thought I saw a little smile and a nod of approval as he walked away.

Soon after that, he bought me a banjo, a mandolin, a bass, a piano, a harmonica and most anything that made music. I played every day. When there was no school I played all day and only stopped to eat:

Soon, I had reached several goals and raised them and reached them again. Pop beamed as I played on the Grand Old Opry and I saw pride in his eyes. Finally, something I could do without litigation.

In his later years, pop started complimenting more and expressing pride in his son. I guess if you really stink at something, there is probably something else you can do that is more satisfying. Here's hoping none of us ever give up looking for those things.

cubic-inch, flathead, straight-six-cylinder engine that produced 82 horsepower. Media advertisements described the car as, "well-equipped and stylish, the little Rambler is economical and easy to drive with no stripped down versions."

Jerry and I were friends in the early '60s and doubledated in his cool Rambier several times. Because it was so unique in Mt. Vernon, everyone we passed gave us that second look. That was just what young boys wanted in those days. A great car got attention from everyone-guys and

One Saturday night, I had a special date whom I wanted to impress, so I asked Jerry if we could trade rides for the evening; to my huge surprise, he tossed me the keys. I was pleased and impressed. He did not even ask any questions, just simply said, "Where do you want to meet me and what time is your date?"

Not a great deal of the specifics of that particular date are still locked in the recesses of my elderly brain, but I do remember being at the Valley Drive-In Theater when I saw my own car ('58 Chevy) coming through the ticket gate. Jerry took note of his yellow convertible sitting in the rear of the theater parking. He took a spot several rows away so that I could have some alone time with my date. Later that evening, we ran into each other on a lonely country road where I was looking for a special place to park for a spell.

Around mid-night, I took my date home and drove around Mt. Vernon looking for Jerry. We finally met at the local Chevron station and returned each other's automobiles. We spent a ing about the Saturday night special date.

I have never forgotten that evening because a good friend was willing to do a favor for a friend of his. His unselfish deed was typical of those special times. Good friends were your most valuable assets. I hope that I told Jerry how much I appreciated his unselfish gesture. If not, "Thank you, my old friend!"

she would send me some

About 5 minutes later, Kyle chimed in to announce that he, too, swore by Big Johns and that he probably had a gallon of Big Johnseed and he would give me a bunch if I would come and get them.

I promptly replied that I intended to be "up that way" within the next two weeks and I asked exactly where he lived. I also figured that if I didn't make it to Letcher County, I could call Mike and he would walk blindfolded, backwards and handcuffed the 5 miles from his house at Red Star to the head of Elk Creek to get the bean seed for us.

Kyle replied that he lived 4 miles out Highway 15 from Main Street in Winchester which is actually farther away from Letcher County than Paint Lick. In fact Kyle lives fewer than 45 miles from my place. Not only that but I had eye surgery coming up two days later in Winchester so I hastily made arrangements to visit with him after my post surgery exam last Friday.

To make a long story short, Loretta and I had a fantastic visit with Kyle Whitaker and his wife, Susan, at their beautiful place there in Clark County and now Mike Mitchell and my little brother Keeter, (yet another Big John fan) join me in believing that Santa Claus actually comes at the end of July.

Kyle does not have any more seed to spare but if I have any luck with what he gave me, I will try to save a gallon of seed to share next year. I'm actually going to try a short row this year but they may not have time to make it. I'll keep you

RCHS boys golf has started off the 2015 season strong by winning the South Laurel Invitational last week. The Rockets were led by freshman Cade Burdette, shown above, who shot a 74 and placed him in third followed by John Cornelius 81, Zach Baker 84, Thomas Burdette 87 and Grant Isaacs 93. The team also participated Monday in the North Laurel Invitational at Crooked Creek where they had another solid performance finishing in the middle of the tournament field. Leading the Rockets again was Burdette shooting a one under 71 to win the tournament.

In an effort to help local residents be more familiar with our police and firefighters in the county, the Mount Vernon Signal will publish this series of introductions each week when space allows. It's a chance to get to know your local law enforcement officers and firefighters on a more personal basis. We plan to publish one per week, chosen completely at random.

Mt. Vernon Fire Chief David Bales

If you ask the Mount Vernon Fire Chief what his hobbies are, his answer is simple. "My hobby is this fire department. It's my job and it's what I do," he said.

Bales has been with the fire department for over 50 years. "I signed up as volunteer as soon as I turned 18 in 1965," he said. Bales was born and raised in Rockcastle County and has two grown sons. His family has a history of service to the county as his father, Clifford, was the Rockcastle County Clerk from 1964 to 1976. Bales leads 27 volunteers with the help of Assistant Fire Chief Jack Weaver. Bales has been the Fire Chief since 2008. He is retired from Kentucky Powder.

The report says the RCIDA is also continuing to work with local, state and federal representatives on ongoing and future projects.

Hopkins also addressed Source HOV, a building maintenance plan, a CSEPP update, a Growing Warrior update concerning the Richmond Street Proposal and Project A updates.

Next month's meeting has been postponed to the second Monday of September due to Labor Day.

check allows us to follow the purchase of Sudafed across the state and we can find out who is buying a lot of it. Of course if the dealer sends 20 different people to buy smaller amounts, it really doesn't help in those cases," he said. Since the business is so lucrative, handing down one's knowledge of meth cooking has become normal. "We arrested one guy that had taught over 30 others how to cook it. Even their children are learning," Peters said. "These kids grow up in this environment and don't know that it's' wrong. It's just the way they are raised. They see it every day. We have kids in the second grade who could probably cook you some meth," he said.

So what's the plan to stop the meth problem in Rockcastle County and the nation? "The God's honest truth is, I don't think there is a plan," said Peters. "We work as hard as we can. We fight it every day and it's still growing. Legislation hasn't helped, and so far, I can only think of one way to slow it down. Make the punishment fit the crime."

Franklin agreed that much stiffer penalties would help curb the problem. "We need for the punishment to be much stiffer for cooks and distributors. We need to make the punishment so great that it's just not worth the risk for them," he said.

Peters said the punishment thus far is simply way too lenient. "Many times, when we bust someone on a drug issue, they are back home before I have time to finish the paperwork. Now, if these dealers faced a mandatory 10-year sentence of hard time, they would not want to take that risk. But if they know they are going home before the deputy that arrests them, it's not much incentive to stop," he said.

Parents should be aware of the signs of drug abuse and help keep an eye on their children, Peters said. "People seem too busy these days to pay attention of sometimes they just don't want to see it. Well, they better start paying attention. One bad batch of this stuff will kill you and if it doesn't it will eventually destroy your life anyway," said Peters

Peters said it is difficult to keep the signs hidden for long periods. He suggests parents look for sores that develop in the skin of users. Sores and scabs begin to appear soon after meth is used consistently. There are also changes in behavior and changes in friends and changes in habits, as well as teeth quickly beginning to decay or rot, he said.

The Sheriff's Department suggests parents keep an eye out for these signs and if there is the slightest doubt, have your child tested. "Kids can be pretty tricky about it. But if you pay attention, you can usually see it. Take control of their lives. Monitor their social media, keep them in the house, take control of their activities and keep an eye on their friends. There's no guarantee but if you pay attention, it greatly increases your chances of catching it early," said Pe-

Peters other suggestion is that every person who cares about the growing meth problem, is to avoid complacency. "Meth is on your streets. It's destroying families and no family is immune. Everyone, everywhere should contact their legislature and demand that we stop this problem. It's not going away on its own. We need to make the punishment fit the crime and put a stop to this," he said.

Rockcastle Regional receives Women's Choice Award

Rockcastle Regional Hospital & Respiratory Care Center has received the 2015 Women's Choice Award for the third year in a row. Rockcastle Regional is ranked 14th in the nation for hospitals with up to 100

This distinction is the only award that identifies the country's best healthcare institutions based on robust criteria that consider female patient satisfaction and expectations

"The best health outcomes are achieved when the highest level of care is provided with a focus on quality, safety, and patient experience," said Stephen A. Estes, president and CEO of Rockcastle Regional Hospital. "Earning this award, for the third year, is a testament to our dedication to quality care through our values built on patient safety, satisfaction, and healthy outcomes."

Rockcastle Regional was also awarded the Women's Choice Award for America's Best Hospitals for Emergency Care. This designation was achieved by less than 10% of the emergency rooms that report data to the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid.

In addition to clinical treatment, throughout the year Rockcastle Regional provides resources, promotes awareness, and hosts events pertaining to women's care and health is-

Such activities include providing yearly discounted mammograms during the month of October, the "Ladies' Night Out" event for breast cancer, and the annual "Love Your Heart" program for women's heart

Being named as a hospital of choice among women represents the strongest and most important consumer message in today's healthcare marketplace, considering that women account for 90% of all healthcare decisions for her and her family, according to American Academy of Family Physicians.

The America's 100 Best Hospitals scoring process is unique in that it is the only national list that focuses on female patient satisfaction. The process begins with scores derived for each organization in the Hospital Consumer Assessment of Healthcare Providers and Systems (HCAHPS) data-

The score takes a subset of the questions HCAHPS uses that research and experience shows are more important to women than men.

Weight is applied to each of those questions to adjust for relative importance to arrive at a numerical score. Additionally, scoring incorporates Women Certified's in-depth research on customer satisfaction among women, including a joint study on customer satisfaction by gender conducted with the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania.

Yards to Paradise Mt. Vernon Message

By Max Phelps Adding Water: Benefits of Water Features

Adding water to your home or office landscape adds the lovely and relaxing sounds of trickling or flowing water, but it brings so much more, too. The sounds of nature will become more recognizable and common. We all need water for survival--that includes the birds, dragonflies, bees and butterflies. Adding water helps the entire ecosystem (but if your water is moving/circulating, you won't be adding mosquitoes) and we all know properties with mountain streams or ocean waves are more valuable. Let's look at the benefits of adding water at your place. When you add the sounds of falling water or a babbling brook to your landscaping, you add eye appeal, ear appeal, and depending on the choice of a natural look or a formal feature, you may be adding positives to the environment. A backyard wildlife habitat is not a waste of (just water backflushing of a swimming pool uses more water than most self-contained water features) and it takes much less attention than one might imagine to keep a water feature operating smoothly.

Every yard seems to have a bird feeder these days, you can be unique by having a place for them to bathe in a stream, or get a drink from flowing water. Adding waterfalls and ponds also adds to the lovely appearance and ambiance of a yard if it's done creatively with proper materials. Of course, a water feature begs for plants and flowers to dress it...adding all the more to a lovely landscape besides the musical sounds of rippling

Water features become focal points, attracting attention. Most choose a quiet backyard spot, but cute pondless waterfalls at the front door are also pretty popular, especially with the younger homeowner.

A good water feature always has constantly circulating water, this makes for a healthy eco-system pond or waterfall, and does not invite stagnant; green or stinking water. A pump that circulates all the water at least once per hour will keep mosquitoes from breeding in the water, too. I would caution that an Aquascapes contractor who throws together a pond and waterfall in four hours may not be your best bet for a healthy and natural pond (been there done that years ago myself). Quality pond pumps need not cost $700 as adequate energy efficient options for half that are available. Speaking of c o s t s landscapingnetwork.com has pricing posted for ponds....starting around $2,500 for a 4 x 6 pond and going to $12,000 or so for a 16 x 21 pond, and more for streams and plantings. Small fountains, preformed features with small pumps, squirting statuary, bubbling bowls or rocks and the like can be cheaper if the budget can't do a top of the line pond or pondless water fea-

A waterfalls artist will not just put in a 8 x11 pond with a waterfall, but he will give it the care to make it unique and exceptional provided, of course, you've allowed enough in the budget that your contractor can afford to spend the quality time to create a troublefree and natural looking and sounding waterfall, stream

In conclusion, you don't have to move to a mountain stream (that might flood in heavy rain) or buy an ocean front house (that may blow away in a hurricane) to enjoy the roaring water and the relaxing affects water adds to your life. From the smallest lot to a sprawling acreage, adding water will enhance the enjoyment of your piece of the world, creating paradise at home.

Receive 10 white flowering dogwood trees by joining Arbor Day in August

Add color to your landscape year-round by joining the Arbor Day Foundation in

Everyone who joins the nonprofit Arbor Day Foundation with a $10 donation will receive 10 white flowering dogwood trees through the Foundation's Trees for America campaign.

The trees will be shipped postpaid between October 15 and December 10, depending on the right time for planting in each member's area. The 6- to 12-inch trees are guaranteed to grow or charge. Planting instructions are enclosed with each shipment of trees.

"Dogwood trees will add color and beauty to your yard throughout the year with their showy spring flowers, scarlet autumn foliage, and red berries that attract songbirds in the winter," said Matt Harris, chief executive of the Arbor Day Foundation.

New members of the Arbor Day Foundation will also receive The Tree Book, which includes information about tree planting and care, and a subscription to Arbor Day, the Foundation's bimonthly publication.

To receive the free white flowering dogwood trees, send a $10 membership contribution to: Ten Free Dogwoods, Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Ave., Nebraska City, NE 68410, by August 31, 2015, or join online at arborday.org/au-

SCHOOL BUS RULES AND REGULATIONS

The privilege of any pupil to ride a school bus is conditioned upon their good behavior and observance of the following rules and regulations. Pupils violating these rules and regulations shall be reported to the principal of the school which the pupil attends for necessary corrective action. Safety is the primary concern in the transportation of pupils. In order to assure proper safety, it is vital that pupils and parents understand the rules and regulations of school bus riding. Following is a list of basic rules and regulations adopted by the Rockcastle County Board of Education and the Kentucky Department of Education:
